It is useless to make good laws for bad people—good government must begin in the home.

In a typical year 3,000 people come to the United States, or go to Europe, through the Mutual Security Agency's technical assistance program for sharing our productivity know-how with our

We, and the 434 million people of Western Europe, produce 100 million tons of steel and 1.06 million tons of coal each year. The Russian-satellite output is 43 million tons of steel and 420 million tons of coal. If Western Europe were lost to communism, the figures would be 106 million tons of steel and 554 million tons of coal for us, against 106 million tons of steel and 930 million tons of coal, for the Communist bloc.
