German Girl Visits Creswell Family, Says Main Interest Is in Gardening

CRESWELL — A bright eyed young lady with a most pleasing personality is a special guest for two weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Harrold and family. Miss Lore Gottert, whose home address is Hilgartsgausen Post, Brettheim Wttbg, Land Wuert, Baden, Germany, is here under the sponsorship of the International Farm Youth Exchange. She came to the United States with groups of young people from Germany and England, sailing from Paris, France on the ship Liberty.

On landing in this country the group was shown around New York City, Washington, D. C., and other points of interest before coming west.

iMss Gottert speaks English quite well but watches closely when spoken to, as she says we talk so fast and she has not had enough of our language to get the meaning rapidly.

MISS GOTTERT

Shows Pictures

Miss Gottert showed interesting pictures of her homeland. Her own home is on a dairy farm with a large modern house and barn all under the same roof with a breeze-way between. Registered stock is kept on the place and cream is taken to the market.

Since Miss Gottert is a youth leader in gardening, she has several plots on her home place, each planted with a different vegetable. A plat of the garden showed peas, lettuce, which they call salad; beans, cabbage, kohlrabi, tomatoes, corn, cucumbers, or gherkins as they call them, potatoes and a variety of herbs which are used as seasonings and medicines. The gardens are enclosed with high wire fences to keep out rabbits and deer which damage the crops and are protected by the government from hunters.

Pictures also showed her classes in sewing and weaving and exhibits on display similar to our fair.

Miss Gottert will be a guest of Miss Rosalie Harrold at the 4-H camp near Linslaw next week. She will also visit one other community in Oregon before leaving to study youth groups in Kansas for two weeks. She will return to her home in October.

Miss Gottert commented on the religious groups in her locality, which also applied to most of Germany. There are far more religious holidays observed in Germany than in this country, she said. She said she was most appreciative of the friendliness of the people of the United States and of their hospitality.
