Grange Sets Oct. 9 For Costume Party

CRESWELL — At the meeting of Creswell Grange last Thursday evening plans were made for a harvest costume party the evening of the next session, October 9, beginning with a potluck supper for all members and their friends followed by a short business meeting and the party.

Each one attending is asked to contribute 30 cents, the price of one building block for the new furnace room. The men are to push the sales to compensate for the work the women did in raising funds during the recent local fair. The Grange also voted to send a letter of appreciation to the fair board and to the manager, M. M. Lower, for work accomplished during the fair. The Home Economics club turned in $261.42 to the Grange treasury.

A safety first program was presented by Mrs. Karl Duyck, home economics chairman. The numbers included a reading, "Who Said Vacation," Mrs. V. E. Groubeck; safety suggestions for the home by a panel consisting of Mrs. E. E. Allen, Clarence Jackson, Joe Simon, Lloyd Cornwell and Frank Redding, and a skit by Mr. and Mrs. Murrel Olson and Mrs. Cornwell. A social time followed with the birthdays of the month observed at a special table.

E. W. Hoagland spent Monday at Yoncalla helping his son, Bob Hoagland, and family with their new house. The family recently lost most of their household possessions in a fire that destroyed an apartment house in which they were living at Yoncalla.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Tiedje announce the engagement of their daughter Miss Betty Tiedje to Don E. Gilman, son of Mrs. Alice Elizabeth Gilman of Corvallis.

Miss Tiedje attended Oregon State college for two years and is currently employed in the office of E. E. Ruby, Certified Public Accountant of Eugene.

Gilman graduated from Oregon State college with the 1952 class in civil engineering and is now with the Standard Oil Company of California at El Segundo, Calif. No date has been set for the wedding.

Homemakers can save both food and money by protecting their stored foods against insect pests. Practically all dry food products on the pantry shelves are subject to attack, according to R. W. Every, extension entomologist at Oregon State college.

Red pepper, he says, is the preferred diet of the drugstore beetle. The Indian meal moth is especially fond of nuts and raisins. Any of the dried cereal products can be the happy home of several species of small beetles.

Every recommends four steps for controlling these insect pests: clean cupboards and pantry shelves thoroughly; spray the cupboard with 5 percent DDT; inspect all packages of food for insects; and, if insects are found, destroy them by heating the food in an oven at 140° F. for 30 minutes.

Insects can live on food that is spilled or sits out of packages and lodges in cracks and corners and cleaning shelves removes this source of infestation. When food packages have been removed and the shelves cleaned, spray with the 5 percent household type of DDT. Every says. Wait until the spray dries before replacing the food.

Infestations may occur in cereals, cornstarch, macaroni, spices, nuts, dried fruits, dog biscuits, bird seed and other dry food products. If insects have been found, check particularly those items which are seldom used and have been on the shelves the longest. Every advises.

When the sources of infestation are found, discard the foods or sterilize them with heat, the entomologist says. Most dry food products can be freed of insect life by heating them in an oven at 140° for 30 minutes. Small packages can be heated as they are. Contents of large packages should be spread out on pie pans or baking sheets, so the heat can penetrate more easily.

Local farmers should heed an experience of a Wisconsin farmer charged with selling property mortgaged to a government agency. Glenn A. Carlson, 46, has been accused of selling seven head of cattle on which he had borrowed money from the Farmers Home Administration last April, according to Supervisor William E. Walsh. Carlson came west with his family and got a job at a sawmill in Lane County. He was arrested in Springfield recently by U. S. Marshall's deputies to await hearing for his removal to Wisconsin.

Mrs. Oscar Olson arrived Monday from Minneapolis, Minn., to visit with her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Hoagland.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Jackson, H. A. Howe, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Godard, J. W. Smith, R. E. Rogers, George Stratton and L. S. Ayotte, of Creswell Grange, attended the Pomona Grange meeting at Thurston Saturday. The November meeting will be held at Junction City. Officers for the next two year term will be elected and work in the Pomona degree will be given at the evening session.

Local Methodist friends are reminded that Bishop Grant of the Portland area will speak at the First Methodist church in Eugene Friday, October 3, at 8 p.m.
