

ROW RIVER HUSTLERS

At the Row River Hustlers livestock 4-H club meeting Monday evening at the George Woodworth home there were 11 members present, three visitors, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Gillispie and Mrs. George Woodworth, and the two leaders, George Woodworth and Ethel Seaver.

Election of officers was held with Stephen Gillispie named president; Mary Woodworth, vice president; Kathleen Gillispie, secretary; Jeanne Voss, reporter; George Woodworth Jr., sergeant-at-arms, and Ann Chapman, refreshment chairman.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by Mrs. Woodworth.

"Jungles Ahead" Studied By Baptist Society

Mrs. Ervin Hansen and Mrs. Harold Spriggs were hostesses at 1:30 o'clock course on November 5 when the Baptist Missionary Society met at the church.

A short business meeting was presided over by Mrs. A. C. Spriggs, president. Mrs. John McCull led the devotions based on Thanksgiving as found in the Scriptures, and Mrs. Glenn Weelder was in charge of the lesson on "Jungles Ahead," which told of the hardships and sacrifices of the natives to become Christians.

The White Cross quota was filled and a box was reported sent to the Rev. and Mrs. Osgood in Bengal-Orissa, India, to be used in their work.

LAZY MEN LEAD PROGRESS

For centuries slaves dragged building stone; a lazy man invented a wheel. In the dim past men dipped water from the Nile; a lazy man conceived a wheel with buckets and let the current do his work. It was hot work to tend a fire in an outside oven; a lazy man built an oven inside a stove. I think a nagging wife made a lazy husband sweep the floor with a broom; he'd rather fish so built a vacuum cleaner. Did you ever wash clothes on a wash-board? Some lazy man did and built a washing machine.

When that lid of that teakettle popped up and down a dreamer gave us railroads and frozen fruit juice. Once upon a time a lazy man was in a hurry; his horse was fast but still too slow; he built an automobile. Wherever you see progress, there you will find a dreamer; some man who wanted to do a job easier, quicker, better.

We laud the tycoon of industry, glorify the hero but I'm for making Lazy Men King of Progress.

Pointers Listed For Storing Fruits—Vegetables at OSC

Proper storage of the home owner's fruit and garden products is based on three things—temperature, humidity and sanitation—says H. J. O'Reilly, extension plant pathology specialist at Oregon State college.

If the three are watched, cellar or other common storage of apples, winter pears, potatoes, carrots, turnips, squash, cabbage, etc., can be successful, he says.

Adequate ventilation is the key to proper humidity according to O'Reilly. Temperatures of 36 to 40 degrees are best because the cooler the cellar or basement, the longer garden crops will keep in storage.

The third important factor is sanitation. Before the crops are stored, the storage area should be cleaned thoroughly. Rotted potatoes and other decayed and spoiled material should be removed. Washing the walls with a 3 to 5 per cent copper sulfate solution will kill off the rot and decay-causing fungi and bacteria.

As the winter goes on, be on the lookout for that one rotten apple in the barrel or rotten carrot in the bin, O'Reilly suggests. Removing the decayed fruits and vegetables early pays dividends in keeping a healthy storage throughout the season. It is from these first infections that the rot and decay-causing organisms spread out and soon destroy much of the gardener's summer produce.

U. S. DELEGATION ATTENDS FISH COUNCIL IN MANILA

A U. S. delegation is participating in the fourth meeting of the 16-country Indo-Pacific Fisheries Council at Manila, where specialists are discussing all aspects of the area's fishing industry. The major objectives of the Council are, according to the State Department:

- (1) To determine technical approaches to the problems of development and proper utilization of fisheries resources of the Indo-Pacific area.
- (2) To encourage and coordinate research and the application of improved methods in everyday practice, and
- (3) To assemble, publish, and otherwise disseminate technical information relative to living aquatic resources.

Q. What is this method of meat cookery?
A. This is a "reverse-braining" method used for cooking sausage.

Q. What are the steps to follow?
A. Place pork sausage links, country-style sausage or sausage patties formed from bulk pork sausage into a heavy frying-pan. Add 2 or 3 tablespoons of water. Cover the pan closely and let the sausage cook for 10 to 15 minutes or until the water evaporates. Then uncover the frying-pan and let the sausage brown.

BURMA RICE PRODUCTION GETS POINT FOUR AID

Before World War II, Burma was known as the Far East's "rice bowl." War damage and postwar insurgency cut its annual production of rice to less than half the prewar 3.5 million tons. This decline seriously reduced the country's national income and presented serious problems to other nations normally dependent on Burma's rice.

Previous technical assistance agreements have sought to bring the country back to its prewar prominence in the rice-export field through improved cultivation methods and the reclamation of farm and irrigation systems. Another Point Four agreement signed last month will insure this continuing close cooperation between American and Burmese technicians in the campaign for more food.

OCT. UNEMPLOYMENT HIGH
Compensation paid to Oregon's unemployed workers last month increased more than a third from October, 1951, and 5,400 persons were added to the ranks of job-seekers, according to the State Unemployment Compensation Commission. Payments of $754,782 were the highest for any October except 1949.

Warnings against their Soviet masters reach Radio Free Europe's listeners in Iron Curtain countries.
