BUY A POPPY

Cabrillo, the Spanish explorer of our West Coast, wrote in his log book: "Fields of gold. Beautiful! A blanket of Nature's doubleloons—"

The poppies that we buy are golden opportunities to make the life of an Old Soldier more beautiful, to tell him, "We have not forgotten." Our money may buy him a magazine, stationery and stamps, bottle of ink or pencil, package of tobacco or pipe, a bottle of pungent face lotion or shaving cream, or new symphonic recording, whatever it is will bring a smile of gratitude.

These Veterans bought our liberty through their disabilities. They have never sent us a bill but the obligation is in force. These men owed a debt to their country; they paid it. Our debt to them can never be paid with coins but we can discharge an infinitely small part of it with thoughtfulness and kindness. The Poppy you buy will purchase "Fields of gold" for him who fought over that "blanket of Nature's doubleloons" in Europe, to preserve our liberty, our freedom.

Buy a Poppy, a dozen of them.
