600 H. S. Seniors To Receive College Scholarships 15th

Approval of approximately 600 scholarships to be awarded by Oregon's state system of higher education has been made by the system's committee on high school-college relations. Scholarships become effective next fall and will go to high school seniors and college students from 31 Oregon counties including Lane, four other states, Alaska, Hawaii and 20 other countries.

Both full and partial tuition and fee scholarships are awarded on the basis of student accomplishment and on recommendation from state system institutions, subject to high school-college relations committee approval. Full tuition and fee is provided only for teacher education at the three colleges of education at Monmouth, Ashland and LaGrande. Partial scholarships are awarded for all institutions.

Jule Crume on Committee

Members of a special sub-committee from the high school-college relations group which acts on scholarship recommendations include: E. Dean Anderson, executive-secretary; Paul Elliott, Superintendent of schools, Oakridge, Oregon; Dr. Roben J. Maaske, President, Oregon College of Education; and Jule Crume, Scholarship Chairman at Cottage Grove high school.

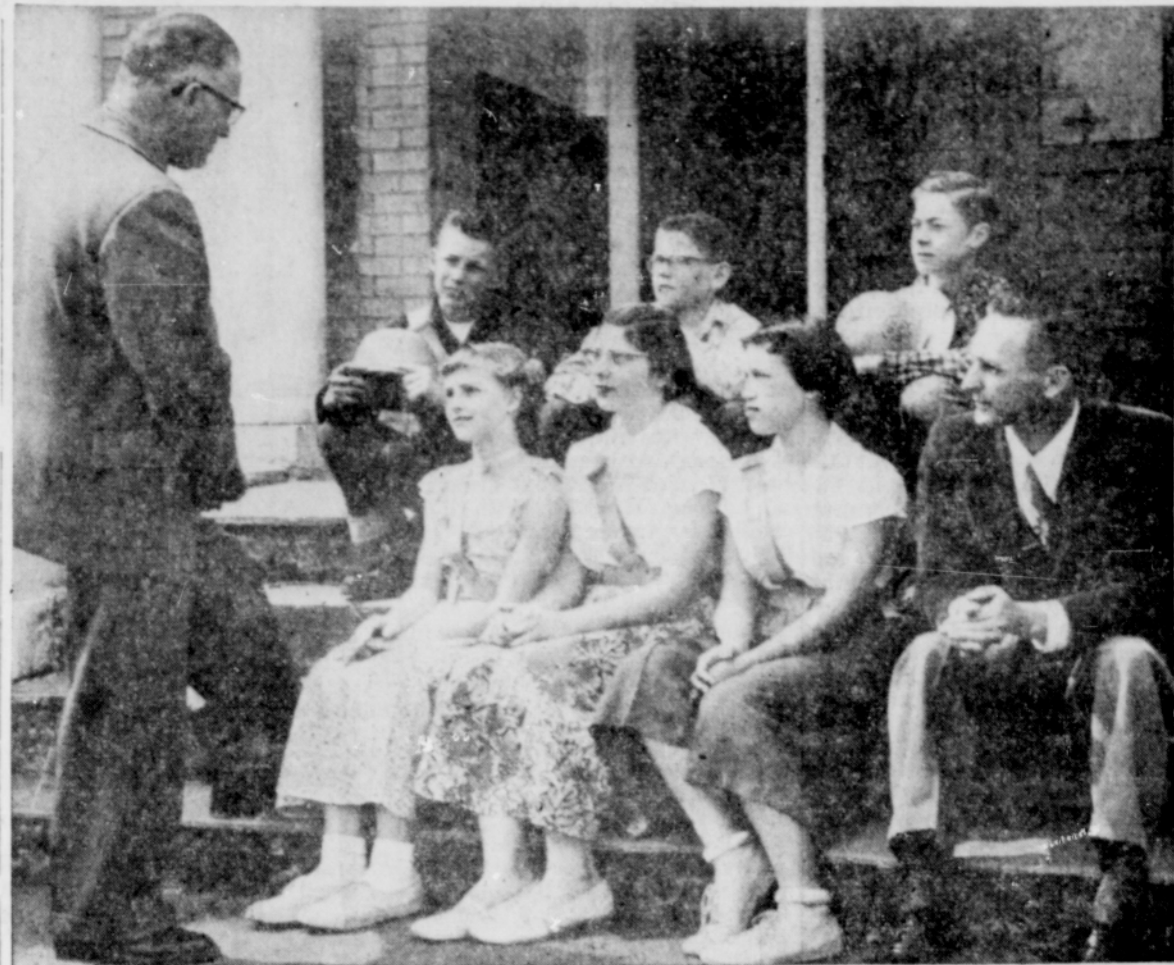

Names of recipients will be announced by each school on May 15, in accordance with policy established by the relations committee.

Scholarship Distribution

Distribution of scholarships was indicated by the committee as follows: Oregon State College, 118; University of Oregon, 117; Oregon College of Education, 143; Southern Oregon College of Education, 121; Eastern Oregon College of Education, 69; Portland State Extension Center, 46; University of Oregon Medical School, 6; Department of Nursing Education, 5; and University of Oregon Dental School, 1.

College students listed for scholarships will come from Greece, China, Korea, Japan, Norway, Egypt, India, Peru, Germany, Indonesia, Thailand, Philippines, Malaya, West Africa, Estonia, Latvia as well as from Oregon, Texas, Washington and Arizona.

Little Carolyn and Bruce love to have their Grandpa tell them stories, and he soon perfected gesturings and mouthings to accompany each story. He made a particularly vivid experience out of the story of the three bears, with extremes of voice and vigorous arm gestures to suggest the personality of each bear.

Special Workshops Set For OSC Summer School

OREGON STATE COLLEGE—Nine special workshops in various phases of education, home economics, industrial arts and Northwest resources are scheduled during Oregon State college's annual summer session June 21 to August 13.

The workshops are in addition to classes offered by the various schools. Dr. F. R. Zeran, dean of education, is summer session director.

Workshops will cover beginning and advanced guidance, crop production, teaching bookkeeping in the secondary school, general metals, plastics and crafts, nontechnical drawing for secondary schools, leadership roles of homemaking teachers and nursery school programs.

The sixth annual Institute of Northwest Resources, June 21 to July 3, will include a 10-day field trip throughout the Northwest.

Vets Can Apply For Chance on 176 Farms in Wash.-Id.

Veterans may now apply for a chance to obtain one of 176 full-time farm units being offered by the federal government in two separate public land openings in Washington and Idaho, the Oregon Department of Veterans' Affairs reported this week.

Ninety-one farms are situated in the Columbia basin project in Franklin county, Washington, about 15 miles north of Pasco. They are priced at from $854 to $8,584, with most of them listed between $2,000 and $6,000.

Application for Columbia basin units must be filed by May 20 with the Bureau of Reclamation, Ephrata, Wash.

Eighty-five farm units are being offered free to successful applicants in the Minidoka irrigation project 40 miles east of Twin Falls in Minidoka and Jerome counties, southern Idaho. Deadline for applying is June 28, with the Bureau of Reclamation, 11th and E streets, Rupert, Idaho.

Under recent act of congress, priority now goes to present holders of public land whose farm units have been found inadequate to support their families. They have a chance to exchange for new farm offerings. Veterans with service between September 16, 1940, and July 3, 1952, have preference next.

To qualify, applicants must have had at least two years of farm experience and must have $4,500 of assets in excess of liabilities.

Applications for both the Columbia basin and the Minidoka offerings are available from Oregon's county service officers or the state veterans' department in Portland or Salem.
