NEWS & NOTES

By Vinal Jr. and Russ

One of the public's favorite sports, fishing, is getting more complex by the day. Time was when the angler had only to contend with mosquitoes, moon phases, backlashes and the general contrariness of the finny clan. Nowadays, it appears, some trout are getting professional psychological help designed to steer them clear of the hook.

According to a recent news story, the Michigan state hatchery actually has a team of psychologists on the staff who teach hatchery spawned trout not to be a sucker for the first fat fly they see. Sounds screwy, but it works.

It seems that hatchery trout lack the wily instincts of their wild cousins and make short-lived sport when turned loose. The hatchery staff teaches its charges to feed off the bottom, and with an electric shocking device they discourage the dumb ones that come to the surface looking for a handout. If this idea spreads, anglers will have to swap their lures for a high I. Q. in order to come home with a full creel.

Anybody with a high I. Q. couldn't swap RANDALL AND WOOLCOTT for all the Beans in Boston! Everybody knows if you are fishing for bargains in Paints, Hardware or Building Services, you can pull in your line when you get to 41 S. Sixth Street . . . for we have 'em!

New CG Druggist Oregon State Grad

Newcomer among Cottage Grove businessmen is Phil Varley who recently purchased Kem's for Drugs. Prior to coming to town, Varley had worked as a druggist in Eugene since 1948. Before going to Eugene, he had owned and operated a drug store in Drain from 1934 to 1948.

Varley is married. He and his wife and son Don, 16, live in Eugene. Temporarily he is commuting to work, until moving down.

The new Grovian is pleased to be here. He said Tuesday that it "seems like coming home." He knows many area residents and many Drainites have been up to see him.

A 1929 graduate of Oregon State College School of Pharmacy, Varley is also a member of the Knights of Columbus.

His son is a Junior at St. Francis school in Eugene, where he is a member of the Saint's baseball team.

Dr. Ralph Bunche Schedules Speech 18th At University of Oregon

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, May (Special)—Dr. Ralph Bunche, Nobel peace prize winner and director of the United Nations trusteeship division, will be a University of Oregon assembly speaker on Tuesday, May 18.

The distinguished educator and member of the state department will address students, faculty and townspeople at a public assembly at 1 p.m. in the ballroom of the Erb Memorial Union. He comes as one of the University's Failing Distinguished Lectures Series.

Dr. Bunche's educational background and his activities in national and international affairs have been outstanding. A trained political scientist who studied also in the fields of anthropology and colonial policy, Dr. Bunche is professor of government at Harvard University. He has held positions in the state department and other areas of the U.S. government since 1941 and has been active in the United Nations since 1945.

In 1950, Dr. Bunche was awarded the Nobel peace prize for the 1949 Arab-Israeli armistices. He has received many other awards and medals for his service.

Practice Teacher Visits Harrison

Prepared By School

HARRISON SCHOOL.—In cooperation with Oregon College of Education, E. Glen Roby, a senior student and practice teacher, spent the week of May 3-7 observing and teaching in Mrs. Odell's fourth grade room. This off-campus experience is a part of each graduating student's student-teaching program. Roby will be teaching the fourth grade in Forest Grove, Oreg., this fall.

The first graders presented a radio program over KSGA Tuesday evening. It consisted of recorded glimpses of a day in the first grade. Reading, music, and oral discussion were a part of the program in which all of the first grade children took part. First grade teachers, Meses. Erta Vaughan, Erma Bower and Alice Stuart and Miss Gertrude Elliott directed the program.

Mrs. Ila Reier's second grade room reports: "The past week was an especially busy one, with everyone scurrying around to put last-minute touches on Mother's Day gifts. We undertook to make silhouettes of all of us as a special gift for Mother. This proved to be a taxing job, but worthwhile in terms of happy smiles. "Darrell Adams surprised us all with a birthday treat Thursday. The birthday was Darrell's. "Letters and 'Get Well' messages were dispatched to several absent friends this week. We have missed Diane Kingsley, Rosemary Jostes, Sandra Sandefur and Darrell Adams; also our faithful custodian, Mr. Shackelford."

Mrs. Elizabeth Clark's second grade reports: "This week we have made our writing and spelling very meaningful when we made our Mother's Day cards. "We are reading our Weekly Readers with more purpose and interest."

The current Congressional investigation of the Federal Housing Administration's Title I repair and modernization program will show that many home owners in Creswell and south Lane County and other communities have used that program to help improve their properties at a reasonable cost with the aid of low, convenient monthly payments, according to Ed Green, local lumber and building materials dealer and member of the Public Affairs Committee of the National Retail Lumber Dealers Association.

"FHA's self supporting Title I program serves the needs of home owners well, at no expense to the taxpayers, except where it has been abused by a small number of irresponsible individuals who have sought exorbitant profits and have made false and misleading promises," Green said.

"The irregularities which Congress is investigating have occurred principally in cases where home owners have signed contracts with unknown operators from out-of-town.

"As early as last September, our National Association began to assist FHA officials in tightening up Title I regulations so that the abuses could be eliminated without preventing retail lumber dealers and legitimate contractors from helping their customers obtain the credit benefits offered by FHA-insured loans for property improvement.

"At the same time, in view of the need for making this wholly desirable program available to as many home owners as is economically sound and feasible, our Association has been actively supporting the pending Congressional legislation which would increase from three to five years the period over which Title I loans could be repaid and increasing the maximum amount that can be borrowed from $2,500 to $3,000.

"It is highly encouraging to know that the new Commissioner of FHA, Mr. Norman Mason, is a retail lumber dealer of broad experience in this field and a former president of the National Retail Lumber Dealers Association.

"Commissioner Mason is intimately familiar with Title I and other FHA programs. He can be depended on to make them serve the best interests of the public and to eliminate practices which defraud those who seek the unquestioned advantages that FHA loan insurance offers."

Broadway Musical Coming to Eugene

A smash-hit musical which played to a million and a half persons on Broadway will be presented at Eugene High School May 19 and 20.

"Annie Get Your Gun," with a New York cast and 14-piece orchestra, will be the first hit show to be brought to Lane county by the newly formed Eugene Booking Agency.

This is the first time in years that New York shows have been brought to Eugene. The agency has reported that if "Annie Get Your Gun" is well received, other shows will be brought in.

"Annie Get Your Gun" will star Lynn Torres, who starred in the part on Broadway for two years. Music is by Irving Berlin, and features ten hit songs, including "No Business Like Show Business" and "Doing What Comes Naturally."

Tickets are on sale now at Graves Music store, 1235 Wilamette Street, Eugene (phone 4-9252). They may be ordered by mail or telephone, or purchased at the store. All seats will be reserved. Prices are $1.65, $2.20, $2.75, and $3.30. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m.

AAA Travel Expert Tells Vacation Tips

PORTLAND, OREGON (Special)—The advantages of budgeting—and how to do it—in spring and summer vacation travel were outlined here today by an expert on touring, Lloyd Crowe, Travel Manager of Oregon State Motor Association.

"Advance planning and budgeting are highly recommended," said Crowe. "Many motorists who start on a trip without a budget, find they travel too far, and don't have enough money to enjoy their vacation."

"The first thing is to plan to travel an average of no more than 300 miles a day. Since the cost of car operation is estimated at three cents a mile, your expense here should be figured at $9 a day—varying with the size of your car. With this and other items of basic expense, the daily budget of a family of four on a comfortable vacation would look about like this:

Car Operation . . . $9
Meals . . . $12
Overnight accom. . . $8
Admissions, Amusements . . . $2
Roadside refreshments . . . $1

Total Daily Expense . . . $32

"On the basis of calculation Crowe said, "a one-week vacation would take a budget of $224 for this family of four; two weeks, $448, and a full month, $896. For your own protection, you ought to add on an extra 15 percent for incidentals and emergencies. These figures bring up two thoughts—first, travel is expensive; second, there are ways to save, if you cultivate them.

"Here are two or three suggestions on saving. Do your driving during the early part of the day, stopping with plenty of time to find the type of accommodations you want at the price you want to pay. Visit travel attractions that have something worthwhile to offer, steering clear of phony gyp joints; you'll find the best attractions listed in the AAA tour books. Finally, plan your vacation for the spring or autumn, avoiding the peak travel seasons when roads and overnight accommodations are crowded and prices are at their highest."
