What Will Happen in the Next 10 Years?

If you are interested in knowing what will happen in the next 10 years to the Cottage Grove area, you should read the "Report of the Community Education Committee on the Presbyterian Church under the leadership of Dr. H. A. Hagen." While you may not agree with all the facts, statistics and other data presented, there is one inescapable conclusion, and that is that Cottage Grove will probably continue to grow whether we like it or not. Those who have kept abreast of the times will agree that communities like Cottage Grove will continue to grow as the world population increases aided by a people who live longer.

Statistics to back up the growth of this area are taken from a U. S. Government publication, which shows that the nation's population will increase from an estimated 164 million in 1955 to 190 million in 1965. Over the ten-year period the civilian labor force is estimated to increase from 64.3 million to 76 million in 1965. The agricultural workers will decrease from 6.7 million to 5.5 million in the ten-year period. The decline in the number of agricultural workers has been more pronounced during the past ten years than is foreseeable in the next decade. A three percent increase in per man production in the next ten years is responsible for further decline in the number of workers. The hours per year leisure is expected to more than double in the future decade and statistically, will increase from 110 to 225.

Many needs of the community are discussed in the report including recreation, transportation, church membership, etc., all interesting, but space does not permit further discussion now. The one point stressed in the report is the fact that community growth can be expected. Will it be a planned growth, or a growth that grew up like Topsy?

Better Business

Perhaps it may have escaped your attention that business has been so good the past few months, the Federal Reserve board has had to clamp on a few controls to make money a little harder to get and raise the margin requirements for the purchase of stock on the stock exchange. According to the monthly review issued by the San Francisco bank, discount rates were raised early in April along with raising the margin requirements for buying stock on the market. Deposits in all banks of the 12 federal reserve districts are substantially above those of a year ago.

In looking at the prospects in the three Pacific Coast states, the review says fruit production will be down for the current year. Strawberry production will be increased. Now the three Pacific Coast states produce 60 percent of the nation's strawberries and 86 percent of the berries for freezing.

Tolerance

Newspapers have commented recently on the tolerance outlook at two coast universities. The University of Washington turned down an opportunity of hearing Dr. Robert Oppenheimer, because of his so-called red tinge. Recently a near revolt occurred at the University of Southern California at Los Angeles because the university had invited Gov. Allen Shivers of Texas, a so-called intolerant governor.

The students and faculty might have revolted at the California University, but they did not. At least they heard the Texas governor, but students at the University of Washington never had this chance.

It might be well to have a university course on just what tolerance means.

More Mouths to Feed

Our "bumper baby crops" continue. Some 4,000,000 new American citizens are coming into the world each year.

From a business point of view, this means that the potential market for all manner of goods and services is increasing at a tremendous rate. It is one of the reasons why most forecasters are convinced that the American economy, far from being mature, will keep on expanding—and keep on bringing better living standards to the masses of people.

At the same time, certain inescapable problems are involved. In addition to the bumper baby crops, our senior citizens are living longer and the indications are that the U. S. population will touch 215,000,000 in 20 years—a jump of about 50,000,000 over the present figure. Producers in all fields have a real job ahead to compensate for that. Meat is a good example, inasmuch as it is a basic item in the eating habits of almost everyone. Our per capita consumption is now running around 154 pounds a year. If that rate is to be maintained, it is estimated that production will have to be increased by as much as 15 per cent in the next 15 years and 30 percent in the next 20. The livestock and meat industry is thus faced with a task of the first magnitude.

Luckily, past experience indicates that this industry will find ways and means of doing whatever is needed to meet the demands of the public. It is a significant fact that we've never had a meat shortage in this country—except when government controls discouraged producers on the one hand and boomed black markets on the other.

The heavy-handed paper-cutter which broke in two now makes a fine paper weight.

New Addition to Smithsonian Bldg. Underway

The other day the House Public Works committee brought a bill to the Rules committee on which we held a hearing of an hour or so. The legislation proposed to authorize the construction of a new building in the District of Columbia, to be known as the "Smithsonian Museum Building."

The museum building itself is only one of the many undertakings of the Institution which administers a number of funds for specific researches. For example, it owns a library of more than 900,000 volumes in the National Gallery of Art is a bureau of the Smithsonian Institution. There are many other divisions or bureaus.

But to get back to the pending bill—the old museum building is bulging with historic objects. The Institution owns thousands of other objects which are in storage—waiting in packing crates in warehouses in Chicago. A new building is very badly needed and will be a fine public service for the millions of people who visit their Nation's Capital each year. (The Smithsonian has 5,000,000 visitors a year!) The government owns a suitable land near the present building, part of which is now occupied by unsightly wooden temporary buildings which were built during World War I.

Until I recalled how much it cost us to rebuild our home in Roseburg a couple of years ago I was staggered by the amount of money mentioned in the bill—$26,000,000. However, I know that building money so I guess the right sort of building for the Smithsonian might cost that much.

The rather slight opposition (including the two Senators from Oregon) to my bill which would permit a part of the cost of Green Peter and Cougar dogs to be borne locally should face squarely up to the position they are taking. They have not done so yet. What they are saying amounts simply to this:

"Even though it will require three and one-half BILLIONS of dollars of construction money to meet the power needs of the country during the next 10 years, we will not let any money be spent for hydro-electric power except that which is appropriated by congress and spent by the federal government."

In other words, they want government ownership of electric power—or none at all. There is not even a dog in the manger attitude. It seems more in the nature of a hunger strike.

Open House Ends Lorane DVBS

By Mrs. R. G. Conner

LORANE—A most successful Daily Vacation Bible School ended Monday evening with a program and open house displaying the work done by the pupils during the past two weeks.

One-hundred-forty-five pupils were enrolled during the course, with an average daily attendance of 120.

Special awards were presented to Mary Ann Barker, Anne Howell, Ellen Ousler and Janice Rothauge for memory work and to Phyllis Loney for all-around outstanding work done. The first four girls received bookmarks and Phyllis received a pair of book ends.

The program, under the direction of Miss Elda Lowman, who is in charge of the entire Bible school, was opened with the pledge to the Christian flag, singing "O-ward Christian Soldiers," pledge of allegiance, and singing of "America," which was the daily opening exercise.

The pupils then came on stage to sing several of the songs and choruses they had used during the past two weeks. Each class then gave a part of the work they had done.

The nursery class, with Mrs. Stanley Purdy, Mrs. L. A. Howell, Mrs. Robert Wegand and Mrs. Paul Hausotter, sang "Jesus Loves Me," "The B-I-B-L-E" and "Fishers of Men." The first grade primary class, taught by Mrs. B. L. Maley and Mrs. Jack Terrell, told about the different kinds of ships they had studied and repeated their memory verses.

The older primary group, taught by Mrs. Larry Wilson and Mrs. Dora Allen, made shadow pictures representing scenes from four of their lessons. They represented events in the lives of Abraham, Moses, Jacob and Saul.

The junior boys, taught by the Rev. Martin Lee, had studied the topic "Sailing With Christ" and told of the different types of ships used and how their different parts may be used by the Christian. For their handwork, they learned to tie several different sailors knots and to tie ties.

The junior girls were divided into two groups, with Mrs. Arthur Kragenbrink in charge of fourth graders and Mrs. Lowell Drullinger and Mrs. Arthur Barker having the fifth and sixth graders. They gave their portion of the program together. They had studied clocks and used the flannelgraph to illustrate the different kinds of clocks that have been used and the men in the Bible whose lives paralleled them.

The intermediate and high school class was taught by Miss Lowman. Three girls, Trena Armitage, Connie Purdy and Ellen Newby, gave a pantomime while the rest of the class was singing "Take It To The Lord in Prayer." Lloyd Paseman played colored lights over the scene while the singing was in progress.

Annual school board meeting and election will be Monday, June 20, in the high school from 2 to 8 p. m.

Five people have signified their intention to run for the three director positions open. C. D. Mitchell will be replaced as his term is expiring and two new directors will be elected to complete the gone to visit relatives in Eugene for a short time and then will go on to Eureka, Calif., for visits with his brothers before going on to their new station in San Antonio, Tex. For the past three years, they have been in Alaska. Carl Jeffers narrowly missed serious injuries when his car went out of control on the curve by the Weeber farm when it struck loose gravel. It skidded and turned over several times and was a total wreck.

Mr. Jeffers escaped with only minor cuts and bruises. He was alone in the car at the time. The accident happened a week ago.

Mrs. Stewart Williams of Tiller spent a few days with her sister, Mrs. James Suiter, and family last week.

Peggy Suiter of near Brookings spent the past two weeks at the home of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. L. Maley, and attended DVBS.
