S. P. has ordered an average of

new freight cars
every day since World War II

Shortly after World War II, Southern Pacific started a broad program of acquiring new freight cars to replace equipment worn out during the War and to increase the railroad's car supply.

Under this postwar program we've acquired or ordered 56,854 cars, including 34,850 box cars, at a cost of $356,000,000.

In 1955 alone we placed orders for 15,475 cars to cost approximately $183,000,000—a commitment of roughly three and a half times the 1955 net income of the S. P. System.

Right now we have in service something over 75,000 freight cars of all types. This represents a ten-year increase of 38% in ownership and 46% in carrying capacity. This is an outstanding railroad record.

We think this record of freight car purchases is good evidence that we are doing everything we can to take care of the requirements of our shippers.
