The Other Side of the Record

The other side of the phonograph record is being played at San Francisco this week as the public is reminded of the coming November election. The GOP might as well nominate Ike and Dick and save time by going home so far as staking out any prior claims to all the good things which have happened to us during the past fifty years because the democrats were awarded first honors in this respect at Chicago last week.

It will probably be a toss up as to which party can pass the buck more efficiently, but up to now the demos got an A plus in this respect too. They lamented loud and long on the fact that the wicked enemy prevented them from giving the public needed legislation, including amendments to the Taft-Hartley law and that despite the fact that they controlled the 84th congress, this congress failed to authorize the building of the high dam at Hell's Canyon.

It's hard to tell just what the GOP will come up with. Even Nixon may get a kick in the pants. Conventions are a good place to find out just how bright your political star is and find out whether you are a political power or just an elder statesman. Seems like Harry Truman learned this lesson at Chicago.

The Battle of the Bulge

One magazine reminds us that our grandmothers used to use 3,000 calories a day in keeping house, but since science is at work lightening the house work the average house wife is lucky if she can use up 2,000 calories per day. One could almost conclude the modern gadgets are not what they are cracked up to be, if the lighter house work is going to cause a battle in keeping down the calories.

Lighter house work is just part of the problem brought on by easier living. People walk less and exercise less and at the same time eat better. Lack of sufficient walking or lack of exercise is causing its share of concern. The American youth probably does less walking than any other race of people. Except for the early years Junior is forced to ride a bicycle, he's growing up just like his father by getting some sort of jalopy to ride in just as soon as he can make the down payment on his car.

At least more people are fighting the battle of the bulge as life is made easier.

The Cost of Crime

J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI states: "We complain about high taxes, but last year crime cost every man, woman and child in the United States $122.00, or a staggering estimated total of twenty billions of dollars. Perhaps this figure could become more meaningful if we realized that for every $1.00 spent on education, crime cost $1.46; and for every $1.00 which went to the churches of the nation, $13.00 went to crime."

Mr. Hoover said this in a speech urging improvement in crime control—especially as it affects the parole system and the problem of the repeater. And the challenge of this, he added, "is a challenge to all of us."

Economic Illiterates

The odds are overwhelming "that you are an economic illiterate." So writes Sylvia Porter, the well-known financial columnist. The reason for her indictment is this: "You're among the less than 5 per cent of all high school graduates in our land if you had even one semester course in economics."

Miss Porter recommends that economics be a required course in every high school and in the first two years of college. We live in a society which is dominated by economic considerations. As workers and consumers we make economic decisions every day of our lives. The failure of the schools in this respect must be remedied.

Selfish Angle

"Some people judge every opportunity by asking, 'What's in it for me?' But when we start fulfilling the teaching of the Sermon on the Mount we forget personal benefit and ask instead, 'How much good can I do?'"—Good Business.

Young Girl Injured In Gun Accident

Miss Mary Hass, 17, of Disston, was shot in the foot when a gun accidentally discharged during a target practice session about 3 p.m. Thursday, August 16.

Miss Hass and her sister, Mrs. W. G. Pressley, were target shooting in the yard of Mrs. Pressley's home in Disston. A .22 caliber rifle was loaned against a fence. The gun was accidentally knocked down, discharging a bullet which lodged in the joint in the girl's ankle.

Hospitalized until Tuesday, Miss Hass will be off of her foot for 2 to 3 months. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hass.

One of the most unusual clubs in the Navy is the Kodiak Conservation club at Kodiak, Alaska, Naval Station. The purpose of the club, in addition to furthering Navy recreation, is to preserve and foster fish and wildlife in Alaska.

PETERSEN AT FLORENCE

Herman Petersen, president of the local Chamber of Commerce, was a guest of the Port of Siuslaw commission at Florence over the weekend and joined other chamber members and civic organization heads on a fishing expedition. Every one had a splendid time, Mr. Petersen reports.

A Tribute to... Our Chamber of Commerce!

The sincere men who aggressively promote the industrial advantages and potential profit possibilities of our city, comprise our most important, single group of citizens. They are the hard-working members of our Chamber of Commerce. On their shoulders falls the responsibility of attracting new factories and industries to our community, in order that more and more payrolls, families and homes will augment our already prosperous area. Indeed, we might say that the CHAMBER OF COMMERCE is the very life-blood of our daily lives, for their activities penetrate each business, large and small—bringing to all, the kind of help that benefits, directly or indirectly, every man, woman and child in our proud community. We salute the incomparable work of our Chamber of Commerce!

club; a penny pitch, and a soft drink stand by Scout troop #300; a hot dog and ice cream stand by Lagoon Grange; games by the Moose club; a candy wheel by the American Legion; a duck toss by the Latter-day Saints, and a dart game by the North Douglas Grange.

Each organization has built its own booth, most of them permanent. Each group gets 90 per cent of the profits with 10 per cent going to the fair fund.

"Booster Buttons," selling at $1 each have been a way for townspeople to donate to the fair's needs. These buttons will be on sale at the fair grounds. Three organizations, the Ladies of the Moose, the Sea Scouts, and the Catholic church, have been selling the buttons as a group project.

Station KOMB of Cottage Grove will be broadcasting the fair grounds during its three days.

During the past week, the town has been readying for the big event in downtown streets, workmen have hung gaily colored banners, young FFA boys and 4-H members have been giving their livestock extra groomings, housewives have been washing their canned produce and choosing their choicest blossoms, artists are dusting their paintings and farmers sorting their harvest for the best specimens.

In addition to regular exhibits, a number of unusual displays have been prepared for the fair. Mrs. Vern Shortridge has been carding wool all summer so that she will have a good supply to use at her spinning wheel. She spins dressed in her native Norwegian costume.

In the art division one may find ballots to vote for favorite pictures. Mrs. Earl Wilson is again having her public appeal contest to find what type of picture is most popular. Mr. R. S. Drenner is judging art this year.

The foods division will have the Ball Canning Contest for juniors with liberal cash awards for young people who show fruits or vegetables. The Kerr Canning Contest is offering prizes of Kerr jars for exhibits of fruit, vegetables and meats. Because of his interest in home baking, Philip Lake is making cash awards for the best loaves of white and brown bread.

Those crochet articles entered in the National Crochet Contest which win blue ribbons will be eligible for the national contest and the Best Of Fair entry here will carry home the beautiful trophy award.

Judging in the home economics division will be done again this year by Mrs. Charles Laughton who has done judging here for many years. Mrs. Laughton is better known as Oregon Journal's Mary Cullen.

Flower judging will be done by Mrs. Ralph Buck of Eugene and she will be assisted by companions from a Eugene garden club who have had special training in judging. Mr. Fred Knox and Miss Kay Bowser of Eugene will judge farm produce as they have done here for many years. Morris Culver, livestock manager, has arranged for an accredited judge to be present on Thursday for livestock judging and for the 4-H and FFA Showmanship contest which will take place at 2 p.m. on that day.

MEMORY Lane

Remember the tall, varnished "kitchen cabinet" in which grandmother stored most of the things with which she performed her culinary magic? Loaded with extracts, spices, condiments, citron and jars filled with nutmeg (whole) and cinnamon bark, it gave forth a medley of tantalizing flavors which no child could ever forget. Remember?

A livestock auction, to be handled by Harvey Kelly will be held Friday night.

Workshop Slated

by a panel made up of department heads discussing "What Changes Have Been Made or Are Contemplated in Our Curriculum to Meet the Needs and Expectations of Our Community?"

Mrs. Merrill Lewis is moderator for the two afternoon sessions, the first beginning at 1 o'clock. "What the Community Wants to Know About Its High School and How It Can Receive the Information" is the topic for Mrs. Vinal Randall and Mrs. Norman Richards, Orlo Bagley, manager of KOMB and W. C. Martin, editor of the Cottage Grove Sentinel, will point out what can be done through the radio and newspaper for public relations. Also participating in this panel is Mrs. Montana Rickards, coordinator of publications for the Eugene school system, who will summarize the points made by this group and further discuss how the community can best be kept informed about its schools.

At 3 o'clock members of the staff will present the school's plans for public relations and information. Participating in this group report are Miss Jule Crume, Merrill Lewis, Mrs. Ethel Krauss, Bert Wenner, Charles Steele and Lee Henningsgaard.

Friday morning teachers will turn to a study of two other activities. Two years ago at the request of the local district, an evaluating committee was scheduled through the State Department of Education to visit the school and rate its program. Statistics have now been compiled from 53 schools so evaluated in the state. Superintendent Dusenberry will compare the local report with statistics compiled from the other schools. Committee chairmen will report on the extent to which suggestions of the evaluating committee have been incorporated in the local program.

The final group session is concerned with student government and the group guidance aspect of the school program. Head class advisers and students will form a panel for this discussion.
