REFLECTIONS

Bill of Rights

Dec. 15th is Bill of Rights Day. It has meant more to us than any other single set of laws to us and to the rest of the world. "The Bill of Rights is what the people are entitled to against every government on earth, general and particular; and what no just government should refuse, or rest on inferences." Thomas Jefferson. These ten amendments spell out our liberty, they are written in simple words for every man to understand. Inference has jelled; we need not be a lawyer to understand our rights, and the rights of others. They are measures by which United States is judged. Our Bill of Rights is America's pledge to us and to those yet unborn that the torch of liberty shall not be dimmed by mock light of other places and other men.

One of the rights of the Bill of Rights is the privilege of assembly; assemble and observe the laws that made this assembly possible.
