MR. AND MRS. JIMMIE CHILDERS (Darla Faye Hogate) are at home on Bennett Creek following a short wedding trip along the Oregon and northern California coast. They were married Sunday, February 17 in the Methodist church.

Darla Faye Hogate Is Bride In Sunday Afternoon Ceremony

Baskets of daffodils, acacia and pussywillows decorated the Methodist church for the Sunday afternoon wedding of Miss Darla Faye Hogate and Jimmie Childers. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clair Hogate of Culp Creek. Parents of the groom are Mrs. A. R. Irvine of Cottage Grove and Willis Childers of Hebo.

The Rev. Fremont Paul officiated at the 2:30 ceremony on February 17. Soloist was Miss Betsy Holmes, who sang "I Love Thee" (Grieg) and "The Lord's Prayer" with Mrs. Dale Hogate, dahl playing accompaniments and the chorals.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length dress of white Chantilly lace over white satin, with pearlized sequin trim at the low neckline of the fitted bodice. Sleeves of the bodice were long and tapered. Pearlized sequins also trimmed the net crown which held the tulle veil.

The bride carried a bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids and hyacinth flowers with white Rainbows Bible. Her single strand of pearls was the gift of the groom. She observed the "something old, something new" tradition in her bridal costume, "something blue" was her blue garter and "something borrowed" a linen handkerchief borrowed from Mrs. W. B. Layne. It had been made years ago by Mrs. Holly M. Monroe for Mrs. Joe Schneider, mother of Mrs. Layne and Mrs. Monroe.

Miss Norma Jo Johnson, maid-of-honor, wore a dress of blue taffeta. She carried a pink carnation nosegay. Two bridesmaids, Miss Carol Damswood of Eugene, in yellow, and Miss Melba Jones, in pink, also carried carnation nosegays. Miss Damswood's flower was blue. Miss Jones' flower, Diane Randall of Seattle, cousin of the bride, lighted the candles. Her dress was of yellow and white organza and nylon.

Mrs. Hogate chose an afternoon dress of pink lace for her daughter's wedding. Her accessories were pink and blue. Mrs. Irvine's dress of pink brocade was worn with brown accessories. Both wore white rosebud corsages.

James Levings was best man and ushers were Neal Hogate of Oakridge, brother of the bride, and Willis Childers, groom's brother.

At the reception which followed in the church parlor decorations were of greenery brought from the woods. Mrs. Ray Hansen, of Seattle, aunt of the bride, and the guest book and received the gifts; Mrs. Max Sears, a cousin, presided at the punch bowl and Mrs. Harold Wolfard, also a cousin, poured coffee. Mrs. Roger Brunwell, bride's aunt, and Mrs. Walter Smith cut the cake. The knife they used was received by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Sears on their golden wedding anniversary last year. They are great aunt and uncle of the bride.

The couple left for a short wedding trip along the coast as far south as Crescent City, Calif. For traveling the bride wore a box-type gray suit with red accessories and an orchid corsage. They are at home now on Bennett Creek. Both bride and groom were 1956 graduates of Cottage Grove High school. She is employed at Moeck's Buick garage and he is associated with Mr. Irvine in logging.
