THE AMERICAN'S CREED.

I believe in the United States of America (1) as a government of the people, by the people, for the people (2) whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed (3) a democracy in a republic (4) a sovereign nation of many sovereign states; (5) a perfect union, (6) one and inseparable, (7) established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice, and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes. (8) I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it; (9) to support its constitution; (10) to obey its laws; (11) to respect its flag, (12) and to defend it against all enemies. (13)

WILLIAM TYLER PAGE.
[Officially accepted April 3, 1918, by Speaker Clark and the Commissioner of Education on behalf of the United States government.]

A DEBT TO HEROES—THE VICTORY LOAN.

The fifth Liberty loan will be known as the Victory loan. Victory is not merely a matter of jubilation, accepting the surrender of a beaten foe and dropping the sword to return to the plow in the furrow where it stood when the call to arms came.

The Victory loan is one of the many great obligations that come to the victors. President Wilson and the members of the American peace delegation are now in France looking after the world obligations. Our part now is to prepare to pay in small measure the debt we owe our khaki and blue-clad champions.

A large part of the money to be raised in the Victory loan campaign next April will be used for the rehabilitation of our wounded men. The government will do its utmost to restore every wounded American soldier and sailor to health and self-supporting activity.

When the wounded man has been given complete medical and surgical treatment he will be considered by the federal board for vocational education. If his disability prevents return to work he left at the call of the government, a wide choice of occupation is open to him.

If the injured man needs an artificial limb or appliance of any sort, the government will apply it. Until his special treatment or training ends he will receive regular compensation and the family will receive the allotments. The war risk insurance will be paid until the end of the vocational training if the course is elected without necessity, but in this case the allotments will not be paid the family.

Instead of dependent cripples and beggars, made so by an unappreciative country, they will be highly trained heroes whose sacrifices will not be tarnished by lack of gratitude.
If you are worth victory, prepare now to buy Victory bonds.

THINGS WE THINK

Things Others Think and What We Think of the Things Others Think

A full grown man leading a poodle dog around comes about as near our idea of a fool as anything we can think of.

It would not be so bad if a loafer was satisfied with taking up his own time.

Why is it that a man feels like a hero after going out and making a few Sunday calls with his wife?

Very few people do with their wealth what they promised they would before they got it.

Jollying gets more than bullying and leaves no rancorous feelings.

It is not polite for children to find fault with the things their parents do, but they often hit the nail on the head.

A man never accuses a woman of fibbing when she is flattering him.

The greatest sin some people commit is looking for the sin in others.

You can always open a woman's eyes by telling her how pretty they are.

The innocent bystander is the one who gets the worst of it. Don't be a loafer.

A man doesn't reach the age of discretion until after it isn't much use to him.

The ship of state gets into deep water when the government goes after the stock of the big corporations.

A chaperone is a person who goes along for the purpose of being fooled.

The man who takes pains to give praise where deserved doesn't get half what he deserves himself.

We believe in woman's suffrage and politics for single women.

Once in a while you'll find an old maid who doesn't want to get married, and never did.

Politics is something which is all right for us, but makes thieves, robbers and cutthroats of our neighbors—and to which none of us give the attention that we should.

The coat of living is not hard to cut down. It's the doing without things that's so plague-take-it inconvenient.

When you meet a man who can go down the street, see a man nailing up a board and not ask what he is doing, just mark him down as a man who takes very little interest in what's going on in this old world.

There is no place on this earth for the man that doesn't know how to run a newspaper.

We'll all get back to the soil some day, if we live long enough—and we'll be the best off then that we've ever been.

When you are abused unjustly, think of the time you received more praise than you deserved.

We are always willing to let other people keep their half of the golden rule.

Most people are ready to do something for somebody that "never did nothing" for them, and forget about those who did them favors in the past.

This being absolutely on the square all the time is a pretty hard game. How many are there who haven't done something hypocritical during the past year? Be honest, now!

You never gain anything by convincing a woman that she's wrong—and, besides, you never yet convinced one.

IN HONOR OF DR. VAN DYKE

Costly Organ Installed by Grateful Associates in Church of Which Noted Man Was Pastor.

A new pipe organ has been installed in the Brick Presbyterian church, Fifth avenue and Thirty-seventh street, New York, "in gratitude for the ministry of Henry Van Dyke." Doctor Van Dyke, who was until recently American ambassador to the Netherlands, was for more than twenty years pastor of this church.

The new organ, which is one of the most complete and is today perhaps the most modern church organ in the United States, is a four-manual instrument of 120 stops and 6,000 pipes, with electric action. It is really a combination of six organs—great organ, swell organ, choir organ, solo organ and echo organ. The installation includes, also a set of chimes. The echo organ and chimes will be placed above the ceiling at the rear of the church, over the apse. The other parts of the combination, are inclosed, each in its own swell box, and all in one general swell box, placed in the choir gallery over the front entrance to the church. Though the new organ is considerably larger than the one which it replaces, no architectural change is evident, much of the instrument being concealed behind the walls. E. M. Skinner of Boston is the builder of the new organ, which has been under construction since the summer of 1917.

It is understood that the organ cost in the neighborhood of $35,000. The fund was contributed by members of the congregation as a tribute to their old pastor, under whose leadership the worship of the Brick church was greatly enriched and beautified.

WROTE MESSAGES WITH DYE

Material for Invisible Writing Used by German Spy Was Obtained From Silk Hosiery.

A cleverly designed method of outwitting the government officials and furnishing information to the enemy was revealed in the early days of the war by the arrest of a man in Paterson, N. J., by naval intelligence officers.

The man, held as an alleged spy in a jail in Brooklyn, is said to have come from Holland and to have been employed in a silk dyeing establishment in Paterson. His unique method of sending messages to Germany called for the use of silk hosiery of a peculiar dye. It is said that he had received a dozen pairs of these socks from German agents in Holland and that his method was to soak them in water and use the coloring matter which they gave forth as a writing fluid. As this dried it became invisible until brought out by a special process, which, however, the federal agents are said to have worked out.

They, in turn, in learning the secret, opened his letters and changed the contents and forwarded the letters. The information thus received by the Germans proved of little use to them.

But for a long time, it is said, there was not enough evidence on which to convict this man, until one day through carelessness he left one of the socks where a naval intelligence officer found it. When confronted with this man is said to have confessed to the entire project.

Y. M. C. A. in Italy.

The Y. M. C. A. in Italy, as everywhere else, has asserted itself in a most splendid and generous manner. While the red triangle, known the world over as the sign of brotherhood, is much in evidence in the Italian war zone, the four letters "Y. M. C. A." are nowhere to be seen. The reason given for this is that the Italians, in general, are opposed to any organization of a public nature which is controlled by a religious or sectarian element, a Washington bulletin says. Such a title as that of the Y. M. C. A. would create a certain feeling of mistrust among the Italian people as to the purposes of the association.

The officers of the Y. M. C. A. in Italy have been quick to appreciate this and in order to work in full harmony with the Italians have changed the name of the association to "Societa (di) Fratellanza Universale" or "Society of Universal Brotherhood." Accordingly, the letters "S. F. U." have everywhere been substituted for Y. M. C. A.

Made-at-Home Labor-Saving Devices.

In 11 communities of our country in Oregon the women are making home-made driers, home-made fireless cookers, and home-made iceless refrigerators under the direction of the home demonstration agent. In connection with this project one woman found that an investment of 50 cents in a dish drainer and a wire dishcloth for pots and pans saved her ten minutes of the time required to do the dishes after each meal, or 30 minutes a day. In a year she figured this time, if accumulated, would give two weeks, of 12 hours a day, leisure. Was the investment worth while?

Uncomplimentary.

The audacity of a famous writer in his book, "Joan and Peter," is making all who read it—including the victims—chuckle. Nor does "H. G." spare Mr. Wells.

After calling himself a "counter-jumper," he puts this description of his personal appearance into the mouth of one of his characters:

"A heavy hang of hair assisted a cascade mustache to veil a pasty face that was broad rather than long, with a sly, concealed expression . . . and rubbed together two large, clammy, white misshapen hands."
