WILLINGLY GAVE UP WEALTH

Dr. Remsen, Discoverer of Saccharin, Was Satisfied That Its Use Was Injurious to Health.

A romantic history is attached to the discovery of saccharin. The discoverer of the chemical derivative of coal tar, to which the name saccharin is popularly given, is Dr. Ira Remsen, chief consulting chemist of the United States department of agriculture.

He was at first very enthusiastic as to the possibilities of this artificial sweetstuff, which has a sweetening power about 500 times that of sugar. Its manufacture was organized on a large scale, and soon enormous quantities were being used in making ice-cream and the soda water, sirups to which Americans are addicted.

Doctor Remsen was making an income of something like $100,000 a year from his shares in the company when about five years ago his friend, Doctor Wylie, head of the United States pure food bureau, suggested a doubt of the wholesomeness of saccharin.

Doctor Remsen thereupon submitted himself to rigorous tests of the action of saccharin on the digestive organs and on the heart. As a result he asked the department to issue an order prohibiting its use as a food-sweetener.

FROM EVE TO MODERN DAME

Evolution of Feminine Attire From the Simple Fig Leaf Is Most Interesting Study.

When Eve first started out to dress to cover up her nakedness, she picked the fig leaves soft and green—admired, perhaps their dusky sheen. But soon her daughters found this shade quite unbecoming to a maid with tresses neither gold nor red; so substituted grass instead, which made them yellow skirts when dried, and satisfied primeval pride. And then the blondes found peacock blue was quite their most becoming hue, and robbed that bird of plumage rare to decorate their sunny hair; while raven locks of the brunettes were strung with bright red featherettes.

From beasts they took both fur and hide, and still their wants were not supplied; they found the silk worm at his loom, at which his business took a boom; they sheared Angora sheep and goats to make therefrom their winter coats.

From fields of cotton and of flax came fabrics to adorn their backs; and now to Hooverize on waste, they've spider webs with beadwork traced! Eve's modesty is quite forgot—we've evolved such a lot.—Mrs. V. W. S., in the Kansas City Star.

SUPREME PEACE COUNCIL CONFERS

First Actual Session of Peace Congress Held in Paris Monday.

Paris.—The supreme council of the peace congress, consisting of President Wilson and the premiers and foreign ministers of the four great powers—Great Britain, France, the United States and Italy—met at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the French foreign office for the first formal exchange of views and to make arrangements for the procedure of the conference Monday.

The first actual session of the peace congress was held Monday, although it is officially designated as one of the series of conversations for laying the groundwork for the structure which will later be presented to the formal assembly.

The first question to come up before the actual peace conference will be that of the proposed league of nations, and it was made known that it had been planned for the conferees to devote 12 hours daily to this work, if necessary, until it is on the way to completion. The first plans for the structure of a league of nations probably will be somewhat composite, representative of a consensus of opinion on the part of the American, British and French statesmen. It is intended to serve as a starting point.

There was some disposition during conferences to make the terms of the extension of the German armistice more drastic than had at first been proposed, but this was not carried out.

The extension, however, provides for the turning over of the German commercial fleet to transport troops, in exchange for food; for the restitution of material taken from France and Belgium and for full compliance with the terms of the original armistice.

A start has been made on the machinery through which the American republic will learn of the doings of the peace conference.

It now has been decided to issue a joint communique, prepared by a committee representing all the nations, this to be the sole official outgiving. President Wilson has also decided to communicate with the representatives of the American newspapers, of which there are more than 100 in Paris.

The plan is for President Wilson or some member of the American mission to communicate to Baker such details of the proceedings as were not embraced in the communiques, and which the president desires to make public, Mr. Baker conveying the information to the correspondents.

PASSAGE OF BIG FOOD BILL URGED

Washington.—President Wilson has sent an urgent message to Senator Martin and Representative Sherley, chairmen of the congressional appropriations committees, asking them to present with all possible force and urgency to congress the need for immediate favorable action on his request for an appropriation of $100,000,000 for food relief in Europe.

The president said European statesmen urged immediate and concerted action as a means of stemming the tide of famine and unrest, and that food relief was the key to the whole European situation and to the solution of peace.

The president reiterated that none of the $100,000,000 fund provided under the measure will be spent for Germany, pointing out that that country is in a position to purchase all the supplies she needs and that she is provided with the necessary money to make these purchases. The greatest needs, the president points out, are in Poland, in the governments that have sprung up in Austria-Hungary and in the Balkans.

BOLSHEVIKI ARE STRONG

Armies Reported to Be Fairly Well Organized; Officers Mostly Slavs.

Archangel.—The latest information obtained by agents of the allied intelligence department and from Bolsheviki prisoners has developed a number of facts about the personnel and organization of the Bolsheviki on the north Russian front. This information indicates that the allied and the American troops are now opposed by a force which, while not of high morale, is at least fairly well organized. It is officered, not by Germans, as at the commencement of operations, but for the main part by former Russian and Lettish officers of considerable training.

HER SACRIFICE NOT GREAT

Simple Explanation of Four-Star Service Flag That Woman Had So Proudly Displayed.

One day a woman reporter noticed, in the front window of a quaint little cottage, a service flag proudly bearing four stars.

"Ah," thought she, "here's real sacrifice. I guess I'll stop in and get a story."

She could get no response from her persistent knocking, and so she went next door to see what information she could collect in regard to the cottage of the four service stars. Upon ringing the neighbor's bell she was confronted by a rather stout, elderly woman with a merry twinkle in her eye.

"Here," thought the young woman, "is where I get the right side of the story. Then aloud, she said:

"I am a newspaper reporter. Can you tell me something about the people next door. No one seems to be at home, and I noticed there were four stars in their service flag. I wonder who lives there, and if all the boys in the family have enlisted."

The woman smiled a bit and replied, "The lady's name is Miss Harlan. Them stars is not her sons, them's for boarders."

How European City Utilizes Water Power Which Otherwise Would Be of No Value.

An electric-heating system which utilizes power that would otherwise go to waste has been installed in a school in a southern European city. The existing hot-water pipes and radiators are connected with a well-insulated water tank of 1,300-gallons capacity. In this reservoir electric resistances are built, and at night are supplied with current which raises the water to well above the boiling point. The cost of the current is low because the water power used to produce it normally would go to waste. During the day the hot water is allowed to circulate through the radiators, its volume being sufficient to warm the rooms without using more current. The desired temperature is maintained by a thermostat.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.
