Low Prices Here Which Make Every Dollar Buy Like Two Warning!

WHOLESALE PRICES NOT CHANGED

At this time we feel our customers should be given the benefit of a warning as to higher prices for the balance of 1919. The largest representative manufacturers and jobbers of our country are of one opinion in that the market prices of all kinds of merchandise, which are actually based upon supply and demand, will remain firm throughout the year. Many lines in cotton textile goods are even predicted to advance.

Wages have not been reduced, skilled labor is not being released from the army as rapidly as was at first expected, and the bulk of our raw products produced during 1919 cannot be converted and put into consumers' hands until 1920.

Our stocks are now being sold at or less than present wholesale prices only until all overstocks are reduced, when the former higher price market level will of necessity need to prevail.
