Zacharias Is Back and Comes Back.

2725 W. Berks St., Philadelphia, Pa., May 12, 1919.—Cottage Grove Sentinel, Cottage Grove, Ore.: Mr. Bede, O Mr. Bede! Surely the saying is verified that nothing is given so freely as advice nor so little taken where it is offered. We suggested in our best humor and gentlest terms that matters in arithmetic be referred to your daughter while you dig out that hard common sense stuff for your editorials as is your habit.

We would not reply or attempt to take any of your time again but when The Sentinel makes a comment after a little problem we figured and concludes, "However, Lieutenant Zacharias seems to have made a slight error. In figuring the number of rows three feet apart in a mile he seems to have made no allowance for the space occupied by the men, which in military formations is figured at 12 inches."

The article printed by The Tribune read "29 men abreast." That makes 29 men to a row as figured. We do not care how these men are spaced in the row and nothing was said about it in the problem. The fact is stated that there are 29 men in a row.

Now then to "elucidate the pint." A soldier steps 30 inches so in marching the rows must be slightly farther apart so as not to step on the heels of those marching in front. This results in having the rows from 36 to 40 inches successively behind each other in marching. And we stick to the three feet between rows.

We believe our figures are correct. Thank you for the remark that we have "made the pace so low that The Tribune is still wide of the mark." Had we figured on the actual marching pace it would show over (100,000,000) one hundred million dead. But, as one of the boys wrote home to his parents, "we should 'weary.'"

We'll just blame the whole thing on The New York Tribune for starting such a muddle.

Your letter just caught up with me in Philadelphia where I arrived yesterday in record time from San Francisco at the Ferry to Broad street station here in 3 days 23 hours and 8 minutes by the way of the sun. It does not include the three hours we had to turn our watches ahead on account of change in western and eastern time. From Vladivostok, Siberia, to San Francisco, via Manila, it took one month and six days.

A. L. ZACHARIAS.

The Sentinel is not greatly exercised as to whether or not it is correct, or whether someone else is correct in this particular example, but it would be something of a distinction to get the better of Mr. Zacharias in a problem in arithmetic.

Mr. Zacharias says he sticks to his three feet between rows of men and then proceeds to get the number of rows of men in a mile by dividing the number of feet in a mile by the three feet between rows. His contention that space between men in line has no effect upon the problem is correct but he has not yet, so far as The Sentinel is able to observe, made any allowance for the depth of the men, which in military "formations" is figured at 12 inches, which added to the three feet between rows allowed by Zacharias, would give a depth of four feet from chest to chest of men in the rows. The Sentinel will look for further "elucidation" from Lieutenant Zacharias.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

A tablespoonful of vinegar in the pot will make tough meat or chicken tender.

When in a hurry to iron, dampen the clothes with hot water instead of cold; hot water spreads faster and saves time.

If you have burned a layer or loaf cake badly do not throw it away or try to make an appetizing cake out of it. Cut away all the burned portion, cut the rest into finger lengths, criss cross them on small plates or saucers and serve as a dessert with whipped cream or a tart sauce.
