RECITALS DIVERSION OF PLEASANT WEEK

One of two pleasant events of the past week was the recital Friday evening by the senior class in expression of the high school, assisted by Mrs. Harry S. Webber and Miss Ada Matthews. The instrumental numbers by Mrs. Webber and Miss Matthews were pleasingly interspersed with the readings and were warmly received by an appreciative audience. Probably the most warmly received number was the character study by Almond Hemenway and Clyde Burham. This number came to be upon the program in an odd manner. In addition to being a pupil of Mrs. Hemenway, Mr. Hemenway is also her husband, and as such is mimicking characters of the comic papers about the house. This gave the teacher the idea of a character study as a recital number. Other numbers were given by Miss Lena Burham, Miss Bertha Stephens, Mrs. Winifred P. Helliwell and Miss Maud Doyle, all of whom gave their numbers in a manner that was a credit to their instructor.

The second event was the recital Tuesday night by the pupils of Mrs. Leon DesLarzes and Mrs. Robert Sutcliffe. The numbers by the ladies choruses could hardly have been improved upon. Because of the young years of the musicians and the fact that the piano solos by Billie Hall and Gordon Wright were more heartily received than some of the more finished numbers by older students. Ethel Mackey, who gave a vocal solo, as well as taking part in a duet and in the chorus, has a clear soprano voice of much promise and one of the most enjoyable numbers were the baritone solos by Leslie Hall. Others who added to the pleasure of an enjoyable evening were Pearl Robinson, Bonita Beager, Genevieve Johnson, Audrey Anlauf, Mary Ellen Benson,

Mrs. C. L. Churchill, Lois Thomas, Mrs. Bert Cochran, Mrs. Andrew Brund, Alice Garetson, Vera Cochran, Grace Harding, Mrs. Ilma Beager, Ruth Bede, Lillian Lewis, Lenora Hubbell. The Chorus personnel was as follows: Lillian Lewis, Lois Thomas, Audrey Anlauf, Mary Ellen Benson, Margaret McDonald, Ethel Mackey, Maribel Abbott, Mrs. C. E. Frost, Mrs. Bert Cochran, Mrs. C. L. Churchill, Mrs. H. B. Bredlow, Mrs. Andrew Brund, Mrs. Ilma Beager. The accompanists were Miss Ada Matthews and Miss Lenora Hubbell.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to express our sincerest gratitude for the assistance and sympathy given by our neighbors and friends during the illness and bereavement of wife and mother.

For the beautiful floral offerings.

To Mr. Mills for thoughtful consideration.

Bro. Callison for his excellent words of comfort.

The musicians for their beautiful and appropriate music.

To all who gave assistance in any way we are deeply grateful.

SEEKING SECRETS OF ARCTIC

Daring Feats That Have Been Undertaken by Both Roald Amundsen and Storker Storkerson.

Two Arctic explorers, Roald Amundsen, noted Norwegian, drifting in his ice-locked boat eastward from the Atlantic, and Storker Storkerson, lieutenant of Vilhjalmur Stefansson, Canadian explorer, floating westward from the Pacific on an ice pack, are both believed approaching the new Siberian islands, which jut out of the Arctic ocean off the mouth of the Lena river in Siberia. Authorities credited with knowing the Arctic currents believe the two will reach the islands early next year, the Washington Evening Star says.

No other explorers are now in the Arctic, and it is thought very likely that neither Amundsen nor Storkerson knows the other has the same goal in mind. They probably will not meet, for Storkerson is expected to arrive ahead of Amundsen and probably will land far west of Amundsen's course.

Amundsen, the discoverer of the south pole and navigator of the difficult Northwest passage, is on the first lap of a journey to the north pole. He expects to make the last lap by airplane. Storkerson is bound back in the general direction of civilization after spending several years in the Arctic. Both are seeking new lands and studying the currents and life of the northern ocean.

When Amundsen reaches the Siberian islands the current, it is believed, will turn and carry him north. He is expected to remain with the drift until it lands him on the immovable ice far up toward the pole. There, according to his plans, he will establish a base and attempt to fly the rest of the distance to the top of the globe.

ENROLLED UNDER RED CROSS

Greek Girls, Trained Here as Nurses, Will Do Work of Mercy in Their Own Country.

Greek girls in the uniforms of American Red Cross nurses are now serving in the hospitals of Greece.

These girls are part of a number from New England who, anxious to help their fellow countrymen, decided to become nursing aids, says the public information bureau, Washington.

They enrolled in training courses in the Massachusetts General hospital and other Boston hospitals, where they soon became proficient in their work. Recently four of them, who had practically completed their courses, decided that they would like to go back to Greece with the American mission which was just then about to leave.

Through the Greek legation they applied for permission to go with this mission as members of the American Red Cross.

Now they are not only serving their own people, but are also creating a feeling in Greece which cements the long friendship of the Greeks with America.

Although no American troops have been landed on Greek soil, the people are nevertheless pleased with the sight of an American uniform, no matter what branch of the service it represents.

Another group of Greek girls in Boston is taking up courses at Simmons college in dietetics, domestic science and home aid. These girls also expect shortly to sail for Greece.

Blind Potters. The new "lighthouse" at Sayres, where the famous potteries of the French government are situated, is expected to prove one of the most useful methods of re-educating the blinded soldiers. Making pottery is one of the occupations in which the blind may become adept, and, although the Sevres lighthouse has been in existence only a short while, eight blinded men have already been graduated from the modeling class into the government shops.

The French government has appropriated some land to the committee on the grounds of the Sevres potteries, on which it is about to build a training school for blind potters, who will be graduated from there to other factories.

"I'd Hate to See You Fight." Sergeant R. F. Eddy, Sixteenth engineers, said in a letter received by his father, Frank M. Eddy, that a football game between the engineers and the medical corps, recently played in France, was one of the wickedest he had ever witnessed. Both sides were out for blood, and the fact that no one was injured he attributed to the hardened condition of the players, seasoned by many months of severe training.

About five thousand French soldiers witnessed the game, and afterward one Polu said to Sergeant Eddy: "If that is what you Yankees call play, I'd hate to see you fight."—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Made Truck Driver Smile. A Yankee truck driver's right forward wheel had just sunk with an air of finality into a half-filled shell hole on the road near Avocourt, and he was throwing over a terrific barrage of profanity when he suddenly stopped short and his jaw dropped.

Then it closed in a grin as broad as the Sacramento, from whose distant shore he had gone forth to war. He was contemplating the approach along the roadside of four stalwart and imposing officers of the famous Prussian guard. On their shoulders, as they marched along in the drizzling rain, was a stretcher, and on the stretcher lay a wounded doughboy smoking a cigarette.—Stars and Stripes.

SEEM TO HAVE HIDING PLACE

Just Where Do Facts Go That One Knows, Temporarily Forgets and Afterward Remembers?

One of the odd things about what we call loss of memory is that it is catching. How often when one person forgets a name well known to him does his companion, to whom it is equally well known, forget it, too. Why is that?

The other day I had an excellent example of this odd epidemic. It was necessary for the name of a certain actor—not a star, but a versatile repertory actor of much distinction—to be recalled in order that a letter to him might quickly be dispatched. I had forgotten his name, but I described him and his methods with sufficient accuracy for every one (there were about six of us) to recognize him. Some of us could even say in what parts we had seen him and compare notes as to his excellence, and yet his name absolutely eluded one and all. Why? We all knew it; why did we unanimously fail to know it then?

We parted intent upon obtaining this necessary information. On meeting again the next day each of us had it pat enough, and it had broken upon each, more or less suddenly, during the night.

The great mystery to me is, where are the things one forgets, but suddenly will remember again, while one is forgetting them? Where are they lurking? This problem of their whereabouts, their capacity to hide and elude, distresses me far more than my inability to call them from the vasty deep of the brain. Or are they, perhaps, not there at all? Do they not, perhaps, have evenings out, times off for lunch and so forth, and thus we sometimes miss them? Or can there perhaps be some vast extramural territory of the memory from which facts have to be obtained—as, if one would consult reference books, one must wait until the volumes can be secured? The fact that they always, or nearly always, return, sooner or later, rather supports these theories.—Exchange.

SINCERITY SHOWN IN LIFE

Venerable Declaration That Faith Without Works is of No Avail Remains True.

An author tells us that sincerity is the supreme virtue; but that sincerity is not expressed in words—only in real life. The venerable declaration that faith without works is dead is true. And one will see an illustration of the fact on every side every day. The fact is the world does not live what it believes. We noted in a book the other day that there would be little, if any, controversy if men said what they thought and felt. This is surely true. Men differ as soon as they appeal from the spirit to the intellect. This is because the spirit deals with the fundamentals and the intellect with the details. Sincerity belongs to the former. It is more than an opinion. It is bigger than a standpoint. It is where sincerity gets its influence, which is the still, small voice that comes out of the whirlwind that roars around every man's life. But we should remember that sincerity is not a concoction, but a virtue, as real as a mother's love. They are not related.—Ohio State Journal.

Thomas Sully. Thomas Sully, the portrait painter, was born at Horncastle, Lincolnshire, England, in 1783. He was brought by his parents, who were actors, to Charleston, S. C., in 1792. In 1806 he removed to New York, and in 1809 he returned to England, where he completed his studies. Two years later he returned to America and settled in Philadelphia. Among his best known portraits are those of Commodore Decatur, in city hall, New York; General Lafayette, in Independence hall, Philadelphia, and George Frederick Cooke at the Philadelphia Academy of Fine Arts. Other noted portraits by him are those of Charles Kemble, Frances Anne Kemble, Rembrandt Peale, James Madison, Andrew Jackson and John Marshall, in the Corcoran gallery in Washington, D. C. He died in 1872.

Legend of the Garnet. The Indians who live in Arizona have a great deal of sentiment about the garnet mines. It is said, and there are numerous legends concerning it, one of which is that centuries ago on a cold winter night the little daughter of a great Indian chief died, and as she passed away Indians standing outside the place where she lay noticed an immense multitude of sparks that flew up from the chief's chimney and settled upon the mountain side, where they shone as brightly as stars, never growing cold and dead.

Later they sank into the earth and formed the garnets that gem the entire mountain.

Inalienable Feminine Right. "How much is the watermelon, Mr. Brown?" asked a ragged little miss of four years.

"Oh, go long with you," replied the grocer. "Your mamma hasn't given you any money to spend on watermelons."

"Well," rejoined the child, "haven't I got as good right to go shopping as the other ladies?"

How About Your Glasses

Don't you think that because they cause you no trouble, they can't be improved upon. As they grow older your eyes change. They should be thoroughly examined at least once in two years.

It is my business to examine eyes and advise if glasses are needed, or if those you now wear are right, rather than just to sell glasses.

SOCIETY.

The Constellation club met yesterday afternoon and Mrs. Helen Salsby, Miss Esther Salsby and Mrs. Harry Wynne acted as hostesses. An enthusiastic business meeting was held and it was voted to cover the kitchen floor with linoleum; also more dishes are to be purchased. Mrs. Mock, Mrs. Rice, Mrs. Gilmore and Miss Louise Garetson were guests. Delicious refreshments were served. Roses were used to decorate.

Mrs. V. S. Goff entertained Thursday of last week in honor of Rufus Arne, the occasion being a birthday anniversary. A number of friends were present and the guest of honor received a number of tokens of esteem. Dainty refreshments were served.

Mrs. Kerr entertained the members of her piano class and their friends at her home Saturday night. A musical program was given by the pupils, games were played and refreshments served.

Mrs. H. W. Titus entertained the M. P. G. club Tuesday afternoon. The afternoon was spent with the usual fancy work and refreshments were served. Miss Louise Garetson was a guest.

Mrs. A. W. Kimb entertained Wednesday afternoon in honor of her daughter, Mrs. Roy Romaine. Dainty refreshments were served after an afternoon spent with fancy work and in conversation.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. M. Hall entertained at dinner Tuesday evening, the guests being Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Garetson, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Alf. Jury, Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Kimb, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Romaine and Mrs. J. H. O'Donnell.

ADLER-IKA AGAIN! "I had a bad case of constipation, gas on the stomach and other bowel trouble. Twelve hours after I took Adler-ika I felt better and after continuing I consider myself CURED." (Signed) E. H. Beeman, Calispell, Wash.

Adler-ika expels ALL gas and sourness, stopping stomach distress INSTANTLY. Removes ALL foul matter which poisons system. Often CURES constipation. Prevents appendicitis. We have sold Adler-ika many years. It is a mixture of buckthorn, casars, glycerine and nine other simple drugs. New Era Drug Store.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS. For garments laundered frequently, such as aprons, house dresses or muslin undergarments, hemmed patches are best. In this patch the hole is trimmed into square or rectangular shape, make matching of figures easier. The edge is turned under and hemmed to the patch piece, and the edge of the patch piece is turned under and hemmed to the garment.

Tea and coffee stains may be taken from white goods by soaking in glycerine and letting stand for several hours untouched, afterward washing in soap and water.

When frying eggs add one teaspoonful of hot water to each egg. Put the water around the egg and you will find the will be more like poaches and much easier to digest.

To remove red ink stains from tablinen, spread freshly-made mustard over the stain and leave for half an hour. Then sponge off and all trace of the ink will have disappeared.

Equal parts of ammonia and turpentine will take paint out of clothing, no matter how dry and hard it may be. Saturate the spot two or three times and afterward wash out in soap suds.

Where there are children keep a piece of white oleoth just a little larger than the dining table and at meal time put it over the table or lunch cloth. This saves so many ugly spots and much hard work.

When stockings become thin on the heels and toes, before they break run them up and down with fine darning thread and they will last twice as long.
