Why I Claim to Give Better Service

I specialize and devote all my time to your eyes. The lenses are ground exactly to your requirements by myself in my own shop.

The testing is done with the latest and most up to date instruments that are made.

I do not rely on subjective tests (as usually is done) but I also use objective test, which must prove out in harmony. No one instrument and no one method is supreme in optometric work.

My methods require more time to make an eye examination but are correct when finished.

It requires time and patience to make a thorough and complete test of each muscle and refraction.

My method is the scientific drugless application of lenses for the aid of vision and relief of eye strain.

For references, ask those whom I have fitted with glasses.

ONLY ONE EGG IS ASKED.

Cottage Grove, Ore., May 29.—(To the Editor.)—Will you please allow me through your paper to ask the members of Cottage Grove grange to bring an egg, or the price of one egg, at the next meet. The proceeds to go to the women of devastated France, who are trying to restock their little farms with goats and chickens, thereby furnishing both milk and meat for their families. This call was given through the Grange Bulletin some time ago, but Mrs. Platt, who has recently returned from working in the devastated region for almost eight months, informs me that the opportunity is still open and very acceptable, and, furthermore, that the American committee expects to work for at least three years more, among the poor refugees of France. While many are spending all their time in this worthy cause, surely we can contribute one egg for the French basket which will be in readiness at the next meeting.

This request is not confined to the grange alone. Everyone having sympathy for the French mothers that have gone through such a terrible ordeal, is welcome to contribute. "Give, and it shall be given unto you." The name and amount will be forwarded, no matter how small.
