

Program at Arcade Theater

FRIDAY, OCT. 24.—Nazimova in "Red Lantern." Nazimova as a star is the greatest artist of the screen. The story is a picturization of Edith Wherry's famous and greatest novel, "The Red Lantern." $250,000 was spent to make this production superior in every way. This is one of the high class special pictures.

SATURDAY, OCT. 25.—We have Fred Stone in "The Goat." A curious mixture of human drama and riotous comedy. The story deals with an iron worker who seeks to gain wealth and fame as a motion picture actor. Come and see the "movie bug" bite him when the bathing girls get busy.

SUNDAY, OCT. 26.—Charles Ray in "The Law of the North." All lovers of a good motion picture story with heart interest and adventure skilfully mingled will enjoy "The Law of the North." The photography of the pictures is beautiful, showing as it does the great white country of northern Canada.

MONDAY, OCT. 27.—Ruth Clifford in "The Cabaret Girl." Ruth Clifford won fame when she co-starred with Monroe Salisbury in Bluebird photo plays.

TUESDAY, OCT. 28.—Roy Stewart clashes with copper kings in "Faith Enduring." This is a good western story. A bitter feud is raging between the ranchers in the vicinity of Grindstone, New Mexico, and the officials of the Rex Copper company.

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 29.—We have Eddie Polo in one of the Cyclone Smith stories, "The Come Back," another good western story.

THURSDAY, OCT. 30.—The sixth episode of the great serial, "Red Glove." If there is anyone in the city of Cottage Grove who does not know that Marie Walcamp (or Marie Wildeat, as she is known in "The Red Glove") is playing on this day, it is because they have just moved here, and we want them to see this the greatest of all serials, with a good punch in every episode.

FRIDAY, OCT. 31.—We will have Hale Hamilton in "His Brother's Place." This is a comedy drama, a striking story of misnamed twins and amazing complications.

We are trying to please our patrons with good western and comedy plays. We have booked some of the best and highest plays on the screen. They will be here before long. Do not fail to take in the rare treats which we have in store for you.

TOTS INJURED IN ACCIDENTS; NARROW ESCAPES FOR MANY OTHERS

Several narrow escapes from accident caused by careless bicycle riding have been reported during the past week and little Gene Foster and Gracie Wilson were both severely bruised when knocked down by two boys on bicycles who either ran into them purposely or rode close to the children to scare them and accidentally hit them. A physician was called to dress a cut on Gracie's head. A woman who was driving a horse reports that a boy on a bicycle rode in under her horse's head as if to see how close he could come without injury to himself. Several accidents have been narrowly averted when boys disregarded traffic regulations in turning in the middle of the block, especially without looking to see that the street was clear. Several other accidents have been avoided when drivers of cars have turned in to the curb without paying attention to bicycle riders or horse-drawn vehicles behind them.
