AUTOISTS SPEND NIGHT IN MUD ON BAD DETOUR ROAD

Eugene Register: That the detour of the Pacific highway between Cottage Grove and Saguaw is impassable, is the news brought back by A. S. Myers and family, and a party of friends who spent Saturday night in a mud-hole on that road. The party left Eugene Saturday evening, expecting to spend the week end at the Myers ranch above Cottage Grove, but were forced to remain on the road for the night. At present the mud in the road is up to the running boards, according to the party, and with a few days' more rain will be much deeper.

Sunday morning they were pulled out, along with half a dozen other carloads, who also had spent the night there, by a farmer living nearby. This farmer, who charges $1 an auto, said that he had made $12 the day before pulling out cars which had been stuck.

No matter if your subscription is paid in advance, you'd better pay up to next November during the November special of $1.75.

Copyright 1919 by
R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.

YOU certainly get yours when you lay your smokecards on the table, call for a tidy-red tin or a toppy red bag of Prince Albert and roll a makin' cigarette! You'll want to hire a statistical bureau to keep count of your smokestunts! Why, you never dreamed of the sport that lies awaiting your call in a home rolled cigarette when it's P. A. for the packing!

Talk about flavor! Man, man, you haven't got the listen of half your smokecareer until you know what rolling 'em with P. A. can do for your contentment! And, back of P. A.'s flavor, and rare fragrance—proofs of Prince Albert's quality—stands our exclusive patented process that cuts out bite and parch! With P. A. your smokesong in a makin' cigarette will outlast any phonograph record you ever heard! Prince Albert is a cinch to roll. It's crimp cut and stays put like a regular oal!

Prince Albert upsets any notion you ever had as to how delightful a jimmy pipe can be! It is the tobacco that has made three men smoke pipes where one was smoked before. It has won men all over the nation to the joys of smoking.

PRODUCTS MUST INCREASE PROFITS DECREASE

United States Council of Defense Appeals for Cooperation in Lowering H. C. of L.

The United States council of national defense, composed of the secretaries of war, navy, interior, agriculture, commerce, and labor, has made a careful investigation of the high-cost of living problem, and finds:

That the nation's productive powers have not been fully utilized since the armistice.

That too few goods, notably the necessities of life, have been produced, and that even some of these goods have been withheld from the market, and therefore from the people.

That the high cost of living is due in part to the unavoidable war waste and increase of money and credit.

That there has been and is considerable profiteering, intentional and unintentional.

The council believes that the remedies for the situation are:

To produce more goods, and to produce them in proportion to the needs of the people.

To stamp out profiteering and stop unnecessary hoarding.

To enforce vigorously present laws and promptly to enact such further new laws as are necessary to prevent and punish profiteering and needless hoarding.

To bring about better cooperation and method in distributing and marketing goods.

To keep both producer and consumer fully informed as to what goods are needed and ask as to what supplies are available, so that production may anticipate the country's demands.

Goods and not money are the means of life. Better standards of living are impossible without producing more goods. Man cannot consume what has not been produced.

At the war's end our allies had desperate need of the essentials of life. We had to share our resources with them, but this drain will gradually lessen. In so far as our shortage of goods is due to this cause we can well afford to be patient.

It is just as essential that we have patience with the economic situation here at home. The process of production requires time. If production is rapidly increased, vastly improved conditions will prevail in America when the results of present and future labor begin to appear.

Team work is necessary. It is just as essential between retailer, wholesaler, and producer as it is between employer and employee. One group of producers can not wait on another group. The manufacturer, the farmer, the distributor must each immediately assume his part of the burden and enter upon his task. The nation can not afford curtailment of goods vital to the people.

On American business rests a grave responsibility for efficient cooperation in bringing about full and proportionate production. On American labor rests an equally grave responsibility to attain maximum unit production and maintain uninterrupted distribution of goods if labor is not to suffer from further rises in the cost of living.

The entire nation—producer, distributor, and consumer alike—should return to the unity that won the war. Group interest and undue personal gain must give way to the good of the whole country if the situation is to be squarely met.

Our common duty now, fully as much as in the war, is to work and save. In the words of the president in his address to the country on August 25, 1919, only "by increasing production, and by rigid economy and saving on the part of the people, can we hope for large decreases in the burdensome cost of living which now weighs us down."

Work, save, cooperate, produce.

Competition has established a standard of prices at which DEPENDABLE SERVICE and good glasses can be bought. Lower prices mean inferior service, poorer glasses and possibly defective sight.

I charge no more than the established standard prices, but I try to be so painstaking with each examination that my patients will say that my service and the glasses I prescribe are the best obtainable at any price.
