

HORSE HAD A TEMPERAMENT

At Least Animal Seemed to Prove That It Had the Ability to Think for Itself.

Prima donnas and high-strung artists are temperamental, but it is not often that such a trait is found in a horse, as was the case in an incident which occurred on one of the uptown streets the other afternoon, says the New York Times. The horse was attached to a delivery wagon. Mr. Horse evidently thought that he had done enough work for the day, so without further ceremony he lay down across the tracks of one of the trolley lines. A crowd soon collected, followed by the usual excitement with a storming motorman and a call for the police. A woman who said that she knew something about horses, said the animal was overcome by hard work, and she gave instructions to the driver as to what he should do. After a few minutes had passed a veterinary stepped out of the crowd and took a look at the horse. The veterinary turned to the cop and the others and said: "There is nothing the matter with this horse. He is tired and he just made up his mind to take a rest. You know when a horse gets tired, he is not particular as to where he stretches his bones. My word for it, he will be all right in a few minutes and he will be on his way."

The woman did not agree with him and insisted that something be done to alleviate the animal's suffering. She and the veterinary got into a heated argument, when the horse without further ado decided that the street was not the best place in the world to stretch his bones on, so he got up on all fours and shook himself. The driver hitched him to the wagon, and Mr. Horse started off on his labor as if nothing had happened. One man in the crowd said that he'd be darned if he ever knew until then that a horse could think.

ENTERTAINERS IN HARD LUCK

But to Put It Mildly, They Were Unfortunate in Their Selection of "Enlivening" Song.

While writing a book at Northampton, Mass., and a neighbor of Professor Whitney, Raphael Pumpelly tells in his reminiscences, Miss Alice Whitney told him the following at once humorous and pathetic story:

"They had as guests staying with them a missionary and his wife from the south seas. The woman was tall and of stern aspect; the man, her second husband, was a small and timid creature. One evening, in an attempt to introduce a little liveliness into the solemnity, Mrs. Whitney asked her sons, just home from college, and her daughter to sing some college songs. So gathering around the piano, with their backs to the audience, the young people began 'The King of the Cannibal Islands.' As the song progressed the missionary lady grew more and more erect and severe, and when it came to the serving up of roast missionary she rose in anger, and with her black silk skirts rustling she walked solemnly out of the room, followed timidly by her shrinking little husband.

"Then Mrs. Whitney burst out with: 'Oh, children, children, what have you done? Her first husband was eaten by cannibals!'"

Arabian Nights.

The Arabian tales, like the romances of chivalry, convey us into the fairy-lands, but the human personages which they introduce are very dissimilar.

These tales had their birth after the Arabians, yielding the empire of the sword to the Tartars, the Turks, and the Persians, had devoted themselves to commerce, literature, and the arts. We recognize in them the style of a mercantile people, as we do that of a warlike nation in the romances of chivalry. Riches and artificial luxuries dispute the palm with the splendid gifts of the fairies. The heroes unceasingly traverse distant realms, and the interests of merchandise excite their active curiosity, as much as the love of renown awakened the spirit of the ancient knights.—Anonymous.

Colors That Harmonize.

"You've got a blue dress on and a brown hair ribbon," remarked one girl to another as they were riding on a street car in the eastern district, says the Children's Museum News (Brooklyn). "You should not wear so many colors in your clothes."

"It's all right to wear different colors if they harmonize," was the rejoinder.

"What do you know about harmonizing?" continued the critic.

"Well, I've just come from the Children's museum," answered the defendant, "where I saw the birds and they aren't all the same color."

Confucius on Women.

Said Confucius: "Of all people, girls and servants are the most difficult to behave to. If you are familiar with them, they lose their humility. If you maintain reserve toward them, they are discontented." Chinese servants must have greatly improved since the Confucian period; at least modern times cannot parallel their excellence. As to Chinese girls, it is not safe to commit oneself concerning the girls of any nation, but they look discreet and slim and fair as flowers under their fringes of black hair, and gay as flowers, too, in their little pink and blue and violet coats buttoned straight up to their chins.—The New Republic.

Household Hints

In cooking tough meat or an old fowl add a pinch of soda to the water to make tender.

To pack a bottle of liquid for traveling roll it in corrugated paper that comes around "breakables" from the store.

In the kitchen, hanging up, keep a pair of scissors to cut up raisins, citron, suet, etc. They are easier to clean than the chopper and very handy for lots of things.

Take one package of slate dye and dissolve in a pint of soft boiling water. It will make a pint of excellent jet black ink at the small cost of 10 cents.

Gilt frames may be revived by carefully dusting them, and then washing them with one ounce of soda beaten up with the whites of eggs. Castile soap and water, with proper care, may be used to clean oil paintings. Other methods could not be employed without some skill.

Tested Recipes

Nut Patties—Beat one egg, without separating, until light; add gradually one cupful of powdered sugar and beat until very light; add five tablespoonfuls of flour, one cupful of finely chopped nut meats and stir until thoroughly and smoothly mixed; drop by the tablespoonful on greased tins and bake for 15 minutes, or until they are a light brown, in a quick oven.

Apple-Apricot Salad—Apples and apricots, mayonnaise or cooked dressing, nuts. Soak apricots over night after they have been washed thoroughly. Peel and cut the apples up in small pieces or thin slices, and combine with the apricots that have been dried and cut into bits. Serve with mayonnaise or cooked dressing.

SAYS PURSE IS TREATED BEFORE AILMENT

Daughter of Wm. H. Foote Tells of Alleged Mistreatment of Father by Roseburg Hospital.

The following portion of a news story from a recent issue of the Roseburg News will be of interest to Cottage Grove people because of the fact that the Wm. H. Foote referred to is the late father of Mrs. A. H. Sprinkel, of this city. In an interview with The News, Miss Ruby M. Foote, also a daughter, is reported as saying:

"My father, William H. Foote, aged 59 years, was brought to Mercy hospital from his home at Yoncalla, on the third day of last December, suffering intensely from kidney complications, and the physician caring for him held out little hope for his recovery. Sufficient funds were at once advanced to the hospital management for his care for one week, but shortly after his arrival he became delirious and in this state of mind, of course, was disposed to make more or less noise, but not more than any other patient in a like condition. We were immediately informed by the sister in charge that my father must at once be removed from the hospital, though he was then hovering at death's door and his death expected momentarily. They insisted so strongly in their demand for his removal that our only recourse was to call in the attending physician to intercede in our behalf. This was done and father was allowed to remain, passing away just 36 hours after his arrival at the hospital, which is conclusive evidence of his critical condition when received at that institution.

"But this is not all," Miss Foote continued. "My father had only been at the institution a little over a day, when settlement was asked of the hospital authorities and the balance of the deposit made by father for the week returned to us we found that besides paying for the room and 'special' care given to him we were charged $8 for a mattress they alleged was ruined, which sum also included a 'laundry bill.' None of the personal garments taken to the hospital by father was ever recovered. No one seemed to know anything about them. They simply disappeared. The treatment accorded father and our family was inhuman in every sense of the word and what sum was left to be returned to us from the deposit for a week's keeping was hardly sufficient to make a 'rattle.'"

"It seems to be the policy of the present hospital management to make money the first issue—your care and ultimate recovery is a secondary matter, first, last and all the time."

Put on Good Show.

One of the best show troupes that have ever appeared here were the Howard Foster players, who put on "Baby Mine" at the Arcade Tuesday night. The play is a rip-roaring comedy that could be made disgusting by a bunch of barnstormers but the Foster people handled it in a clean way and in a manner only possible to good actors. The company probably will stop here on its return from a southern trip.

JUST ONE DOG GONE THING AFTER ANOTHER

The following letter was quoted at a recent convention of the Iowa State Retail Merchants' association by Senator George M. Peterson, who is secretary of the Minnesota association, as one he received from a member of his association in excusing his inability to pay his association dues:

"Dear Senator: For the following reasons I am unable to send you the check asked for:

I have been held up, held down, sand-bagged, walked on, sat on, flattened out, and squeezed.

First by the United States government for federal war tax, the excess profit law, the Liberty bond loans, thrift stamps, capital stock, merchants' license, auto tax, and every society and organization that the inventive mind of man can construct to extract what I may or may not have in my possession.

From the Society of St. John the Baptist, the Grand Army of the Republic, the Woman's Relief, the Navy League, the Red Cross, the Black Cross, the Purple Cross, the Double Cross, the Children's home, the Dorcas society, the Young Women's Christian association, the Young Men's Christian association, the Boy Scouts, the Jewish Relief, the Belgian Relief, and every hospital in town.

The government has so governed my business that I don't know who owns it. I am inspected, suspected, examined and reexamined, informed, required and commanded, so I don't know who I am, where I am, or why I am here. All I know is that I am supposed to be an inexhaustible supply of money for every known need, desire, or hope of the human race, and because I will not sell all I have and go out and beg, borrow or steal money to give away I am accused, discussed, boycotted, talked to, talked about, lied to, lied about, held up, hung up, robbed and nearly ruined, and the only reason that I am clinging to life is to see what is coming next.

Mother of Mrs. Oglesby Dies in California.

Bakersfield Californian: A beloved pioneer woman has gone to her great reward in the death of Mrs. Perniecy A. Morrison, who passed away at her home near Glennville Sunday morning, January 18, 1920, at the advanced age of 85 years, 8 months.

Here had been one of the sweetest and most beautiful of characters and many, many friends deeply mourn her loss. She was a pillar of the church practically all her life, attending its services to the very last, and one of her greatest joys was in hospitality to its servants.

Perniecy A. Hale was born May 11, 1834, in Ray county, Mo. She was converted and joined the Cumberland Presbyterian church at an early age, and because I will not sell all I have and go out and beg, borrow or steal money

Joseph P. Morrison, a Cumberland Presbyterian minister of the same place. They removed to Iowa in the fall of 1861, where their sixth child was born in the spring of 1862. Soon after they started across the plains by ox team to Oregon, where they remained until 1869, when they removed to California, finally locating on her present home in Linnas Valley in December, 1872, where she has since resided.

Of the six children—Sarah Jane, Isaac Newton, Thomas Chalmers, Nancy Matilda, Rachel Ann, and William Henry—three survive: Mrs. Nancy Oglesby, of Cottage Grove, Ore.; Isaac Newton Morrison, of Yuba county, Calif., and William Henry Morrison, of Linnas Valley. Other relatives are Mrs. T. C. Morrison, of Los Angeles; C. S. Morrison, of Oildale; Mrs. George Williamson, of Forterville, and Mrs. Grace Maddux, of Glendale.

Cottage Grove was again defeated by Drain in a basketball game Friday, this time on the local floor in the old high school. The game was spirited throughout and the visitors barely managed to keep a score or two ahead, winning the game by their greater success in throwing baskets.
