The state highway commission has received notice that Oregon will get 50 more trucks from the federal government. Those trucks will be distributed among the various counties and will be used in road construction work. The state has received 170 of these trucks up to the present time.

All records with relation to the number of patients receiving treatment at the state hospital for the insane at Salem were shattered last week when the population of the institution totaled 1796. Including the attendants, physicians and other employes, more than 2000 persons are housed at the hospital.

If an application made by the Hood River Game Protective association is acted on favorably by the state fish and game commission, Hood River county may soon have a hatchery for the propagation of trout fry. It is proposed to locate the new hatchery just south of Hood River along the stream of that name.

A recent ruling of the state land board requiring persons removing sand and gravel from navigable streams in Oregon to pay a minimum of 10 cents a cubic yard confronts the state highway commission with a situation which will add approximately 10 per cent to the cost of these materials purchased for road construction.

N. F. Macduff, supervisor of the Cascade national forest, says that because of the exceedingly dry weather the past winter and because of the almost utter absence of snow, there is grave danger of fires in the mountains this summer. Unless the summer is rainy, he says, the timber will be easily inflammable and careless campers will be a deadly menace.

The badly decomposed body of John Bookman was discovered in his cabin at a lonely spot a few miles from Reeston, near the main Coos Bay highway. Bookman, who was aged about 70, had lived alone for some time in a rough cabin without floor and little light. It is believed that he died from exposure and had been dead for probably five or six weeks.

In a pitched battle lasting for 20 minutes in The Dalles city jail, Frank Heater, police chief, was knocked unconscious and was locked in the cell corridor with James McClaeskey, patrolman, by two recalcitrant youths whose escape from the city bastille was frustrated by the timely arrival of Sheriff Henderson of Klickitat county and John Crawford of Grand Dalles.

The most extensive realty deal put through in recent years was the purchase at Bandon by a company composed of officials of the Nestle's Food company, of the A. H. Thrift estate dairy ranch at Langlois. The purchasers are E. G. McCoy of Portland, H. J. Conlin, D. D. Warner and George P. Laird of Bandon. The ranch consists of 840 acres lying along the coast. Lands in the Klamath Indian reservation will not be opened for settlement until the timber thereon is removed and sold for the benefit of the tribe, according to a letter received from the department of the interior following receipt in Washington of a joint memorial adopted at the recent special session of the Oregon legislature asking congress to take action to the end of populating these lands with white settlers.

George Johnson, known as "Shorty," a bachelor about 40 living at Port Orford, has been taken to the state asylum at Salem, a raving maniac. Johnson, apparently normal, was strolling along the beach at Port Orford when he discovered a beautiful agate. The stone contained almost a perfect figure of a monument with a cross on top. He declared it was a sign of the second coming of Christ and from that moment on his mind became unbalanced.

At the close of business in the state department on March 8 there were 288,584 persons registered for the primary election May 21, according to a report prepared by Sam A. Koser, assistant secretary of state and in charge of the registration work. April 26 will be the last day to register for the primary election and unless there is a spurt between now and that time fewer names will be on the poll books than for several years. At the time the registration books closed prior to the primary election in the year 1918, 302,697 persons had qualified.

"STERLING" COMPOUNDED FEEDS

It is an undisputed fact that honestly and accurately compounded feeds give better results than any straight grain feed. When we started in this business we were thoroughly convinced that the public cares as much for quality as for price. Believing this, our motto has been "A Higher Feed Value—For Less Money." And because we have constantly kept this in mind, "Sterling" Compounded Feeds are recognized as being all the same implies.

Our specialties are horse feed, hog feed, and dairy feed, for which we make the claim "There are none better."

Call and see us, and by comparing our prices with those of other compounded feeds, you will find opportunities and bargains here that you can't find anywhere else.
