HAVE BENEFITED BY TABOO

South Sea Islanders Made Better by Restrictions Imposed by System It Represented.

From our interesting neighbors, the South sea Islanders, we have the word "taboo," so expressive in the complete agreement of its sound with its meaning that there is nothing so adequate in our own language to give this thought.

In its original sense, it is a curious combination of conflicting ideas. It is the Polynesian tabu, meaning sacred. Yet to its own people it expresses the same thought for which we have appropriated it. Originally a religious ceremony that could only be imposed by priests, it was later applied to anything which for some sacred reason must be tabooed.

It came to represent an important institution in the life of the people, reaching in every phase of their lives enforced under penalty of death. Sacrifices to the gods, festive seasons, even marital relations and the cooking and eating of food—all were attended by their particular taboo. Mothers and daughters, for instance, were not permitted to eat what had been prepared for their men.

Though the efficacy of prohibitions such as this is questionable, the taboo system, by virtue of many laudable rulings, has had, it is said, a very beneficial effect upon the people.—Hermine Neustadt.

OLD THEORY MAY BE RIGHT

That Malaria is Caused by Emanations From the Soil is Probably the Correct Idea.

We have lately been taught that the mosquito was the only disseminator of malaria, and that we should be safe if we got rid of mosquitoes. But Doctor Roux, formerly chief physician of the St. Louis hospital, Jerusalem, asserts as the result of his own experience of 20 years and of that of many colonial physicians that malaria often exists where there are no mosquitoes.

At Reunion and Senegal, for instance, the malaria season is just that when there are no mosquitoes; at Hatou, London, natives living near a mosquito-infested marsh do not contract malaria, while those living in the hills where there are no mosquitoes are victims.

He points out that everywhere in malarial countries the disease breaks out just at the time when the soil is broken for planting. He does not deny that the anopheles mosquito spreads malaria, but he says this is evidently not the only means of infection.

The old theory that malaria was caused by the bad air of swampy districts or by certain emanations from the soil may be correct, after all.

Why Seal Hunters Wear Black.

No mammal that is known has eyesight which at all compares with that of a man. A wolf can see you under favorable conditions a little more than half a mile away; a caribou at a little more than a quarter of a mile, and a seal commonly at about 300 yards, if you are standing up, or 150 to 200 yards if you are lying down. You can walk unconcernedly toward a seal until less than 400 yards away, after which you begin a careful approach. You crawl ahead on all fours while he sleeps and you lie flat and motionless while he is awake. It might seem that something could be gained by wearing white clothing to match the snow, but this is the reverse of wisdom, for the seal's one enemy that he fears is a polar bear, and the polar bear is white. If a seal sees anything that is suspicious and white he takes discretion to be the better part of valor and dives promptly into his hole. If the suspicious object is black he assumes that it is probably another seal that has come out of another hole to bask in the sun. It is therefore the task of the hunter to simulate a seal.

Cactus Takes Long Trip.

A small cactus, the jointed opuntia, is widely distributed in arid regions from New Mexico northward. In some mysterious way it has reached many dry rocky ledges in humid Minnesota and Wisconsin, writes D. Lange in the American Forestry Magazine of Washington. A few years ago on a canoe trip on Lake of the Woods I found a fresh joint of this cactus among the boulders of the Ontario shore in a densely wooded region. How the plant reached this spot has remained a secret to me.

Lame Sickness.

An investigation of the South African disease known as lemlekte, or lame sickness, suggests that it is due to a special plant poison that is generated under abnormal conditions in grasses or other plants that are normally harmless. Its development seems to be associated with unusual weather and soil experiences of which summer drought is important. Through such conditions, wilting would favor the formation of the poison, and this explains the common belief that the disease results from eating wilted plants.

Ridiculously "Decorated."

Perhaps the most extraordinary idea in tattooing ever carried out is that of a French coachman, who has his body covered with more than 120 different designs. Among these designs are portraits of some of the most noted people in the country. The work of tattooing these pictures occupied more than two years.

AUTO POLO WILL BE THRILL FEATURE OF FAIR

Expert Drivers and Daredevil Mallet Men Follow Ball Regardless of Consequences.

Sammies who saw the American tanks go over the top in France will get a whiff of the competition of war when they see the auto polo contests to be a feature of the Lane county fair September 21-24. Just as tanks played a big part in the war and were the biggest surprise sprang upon the Germans when they first appeared, so will auto polo prove a surprise to those who have never seen the game.

Although the general principles of the game resemble pony polo, auto fans have a habit of calling auto polo "hockey on high." Malletmen suspend themselves dangerously from the side of stripped Ford cars and buffet the big ball back and forth between the goals. Expert drivers handle the cars. They dash at one another with no fear of collision; in fact collisions are the common thing and tires, wheels and axles suffer in consequence. Once a car is damaged it is hauled off the field like the crippled ball in the Spanish sport, another replaces it, and the game goes merrily on.

Other sports to amuse the crowds during fair week consist of two harness races and a running race each day. There will also be motorcycle races and bicycle races. Arthur Hendershott, of the Eugene Gun company, is offering a prize for the fastest rider propelling a bicycle bought from him. The motorcycle riders will furnish some real thrills and will introduce a new sport for attendants at the Lane county fair.

SOCIETY

About 35 children of the Baptist Sunday school spent Tuesday afternoon in a frolic at the Elks picnic grounds. Games followed by a picnic lunch and wading in the river occupied the time happily for the youngsters. The party, which was in charge of Mrs. K. K. Mills, Mrs. E. G. O. Grant and Miss Alice Garetson, made the trip in autos.

The M. P. G. club picnicked Wednesday afternoon and evening at the Leon DesLarzes camp on Coast fork, Mrs. S. R. Smith, a former member of the club, being the guest of honor. The ladies of the party went out in the afternoon and their husbands followed at six o'clock. Swimming and a picnic lunch were enjoyed. F. A. Garetson, of Alton, Ill., whose wife was formerly an M. P. G., was among the guests.

Outing Flannel

We have just received two cases of outing flannel, light and dark, fancies and plain. Prices are high in comparison with former years but we would advise our customers to buy outing flannel NOW while the assortment is complete.

Carson, Pirie & Scott, large wholesaler's Chicago buyer, who has just returned from the eastern mill centers says "as to outing flannel, the largest manufacturers have no first quality goods to sell at any price. Mills do not seem to be able to get the production they figured, with the result that they are all tied up with contracts. I believe that the greatest difficulty will come in September and October when there will be a grand scramble for any kind of these goods."
