BRUD SHAMROCK, MGR.-PROMOTER

HIT OLD H. C. L.

When you use Cottage Grove flour, you save the charge necessarily made on other flour for freight and handling, and the saving is large enough to be quite an item in the year's expenses. Naturally you should wish to use a home product, even were there no difference in the price, so there is a double inducement for the use of your home flour.

LORANE.

(Special to The Sentinel.)

Aug. 25.—W. W. Jackson returned last Thursday from Colorado Springs.

Miss Eva Wentworth transacted business in both Cottage Grove and Eugene last Wednesday and Thursday.

Miss Myrtle Hubbell is a new arrival at Summer-Rest.

A new school house is being erected in the Fawn Creek district down the Siuslaw river below Lorane. Arthur Kelley is the contractor.

A son was born Saturday to Mr. and Mrs. King, of the Lorane Orchards.

Housing conditions are not acute in and around Lorane, as there are about two dozen empty structures in this vicinity. These range all the way from large two-story roomy farm homes and village residences to old and primitive shacks and log huts. This is one spot in the United States where more people can readily find a covering for their heads without paying exorbitant rents or being forced to buy to gain possession.

The farmers are rejoicing that their grain is threshed and in the granaries before the rains come. The yield has been good and in some places excellent.

A panacea for everything—Sentinel wants.

Fordson Makes Farming a Profession

Educational institutions have long been trying to make farming an attractive profession and have done much to make farm life attractive by teaching easier and more profitable ways of producing and selling. But it remained for the tractor (of which the Fordson is the most popular) to make it possible for the farmer to get down to something like professional hours. The owner of a Fordson has his spare time for studying the latest links of the profession, for keeping up to date and renewing acquaintance with his family. The contented farmer is the professional farmer who farms with a Fordson.
