WOMAN FINED FOR FAILURE TO HAVE DRIVERS' CARD

The first arrest in Lane county for failure to obtain an automobile operator's license was made Tuesday when Miss Dorothy McGuire, of this city, was cited by special officer from the state highway department to appear in police court, Judge Alta King fined Miss McGuire $10.

The officer stopped quite a number of drivers, both men and women, Monday to ascertain whether or not they had state licenses and found that most of them had complied with the law.

Strict enforcement of the traffic laws has been decided upon by the local police and the sheriff's force hereafter in an endeavor to eliminate accidents as far as possible. The number of accidents has been rapidly increasing lately and the officers declare that most of them are due to carelessness on the part of the drivers or failure to observe the laws.—Eugene Register.

County Republicans Spent $1000.

The Lane County Republican central committee expended $1039.73 in spouting over the recent campaign in this county, according to the financial statement filed by D. E. Yoran, chairman of the committee. The statement shows that the receipts of the committee for the campaign were $1055, leaving a balance on hand of $15.27. The statement shows that $695 of the amount expended went to the national campaign fund and the remainder was spent for printing, advertising, postage, telegrams and the like.

The democratic committee received $249.25 and expended $253.98, leaving a deficit of $4.73, says the report of Donald Young, secretary of the central committee.

The Edwards for Sheriff club collected $136.43 and expended the same amount in trying to elect John Edwards, of Springfield, the report filed in the office of the clerk showing an even balance.

C. P. Barnard, who was elected county judge on the republican ticket, says he expended the sum of $96.30, of which $35 was his share of the contribution to the county central committee's fund, and Sheriff Stickle's expended $126.90, his report says.

SUPPLYING TELEPHONE SERVICE

Occasionally subscribers move and ask us for a continuance of telephone service at their new location. They may be told that compliance with their desires is immediately impossible owing to lack of "telephone facilities" in a particular locality. "Why," one will say, "the poles and wires are on the street and the house is already wired."

We wish that the problem were as simple as it sounds. There may be poles and wires, but every wire may be in use in giving service to others. There may be a cable, but every circuit in it may be assigned to telephones already installed. There may be a telephone in the vacant house or apartment to which you move but no spare wires and circuits from your location to the central office. There may even be sections of switchboard in the central office but not available for operation on account of the lack of necessary switchboard apparatus such as ringing keys, relays, etc.

The reason for the shortage of telephone equipment is simple. During the war period we were unable to maintain our reserve or stock plant as the same materials we use were required and taken for government purposes and for industries properly favored by the government. Since the war, with the unexpectedly prolonged problems of reconstruction, production and delivery of materials needed to meet even current demands have been delayed. Every business concern is having similar experiences. The manufacturers of telephone equipment have been bending every effort to fill our orders, but they, in turn, are meeting the same difficulties in securing rubber, paper, silk, glass, porcelain, tin, thread, shellac, metal parts and other articles not generally associated in the public mind with telephone service.

At the same time with this abnormal situation with reference to materials there exists an unprecedented demand for telephone service, and even under these circumstances our record is one of fulfillment of demand.

In the first nine months of 1920 we made a total net gain of over 7300 telephones in the state of Oregon. A fact worthy of consideration in our operations is the large number of telephones handled in proportion to net increase. In those nine months we disconnected, connected and moved 41,140 instruments to secure the net gain above mentioned.

We desire to give service as much as a patron wishes to receive it. We desire to promptly comply with the suggestions of public authorities who have taken a proper interest in the situation. We are facing abnormal conditions but we are trying to overcome our difficulties.
