Here's genuine chewing satisfaction for you, hooked up with real economy. A small chew of this class of tobacco lasts much longer than a big chew of the ordinary kind—that's because the full, rich, real tobacco taste lasts so long. Any man who uses the Real Tobacco Chew will tell you that.

A REAL FURNITURE SALE

The many people who have taken advantage of our great Pre-Christmas Sale have been sincerely surprised at two things:

- 1—The size, variety and quality of our stock;
- 2—The surprisingly low prices.

In offering this Special Sale we had several purposes in mind listed below in order of their importance to us:

- 1—To attract new people from greater distances thus spreading knowledge of the size, and kind of store we have.
- 2—To back up with real action "our oft repeated pledge" to do everything in our power to give to our customers better goods at lower prices.
- 3—To encourage and establish the habit of giving Christmas presents of the substantial "all year" kind found in a good furniture store rather than some of the impractical extravagances commonly given.
- 4—To contribute our share to the "back to normalcy" movement.
- 5—To "clean up" our stock. You may think this should have been placed at the head of the list but as stated last week very few of the articles on sale have lowered in whole-sale cost, so this last reason really ranks last.

ONE VISIT WILL ACCOMPLISH THIS AND WE KNOW IT WILL PAY YOU

It is impossible to list all the special articles but here are a few typical ones:

- 1—Heavy, rich Axminster rugs, size 9x12.....$57.50
- Complete stock of all other sizes and qualities in proportion.
- 2—Genuine 12-foot linoleum with one-piece burlap back, at the yard.....$1.30
- Inlaid, battleship, cork print and congoeums all carried in stock and all equally cheap.
- 3—A good dresser with a mirror.....$17.75
- 4—Walnut bedroom suites, 4-piece, was $245, now.....$173.00

- 6—Good rockers as low as.....$3.85
- Equal bargains in tables, stoves, dishes and cooking utensils—in fact in all lines. As stated last week, there are only a few in each line but they are real bargains.

THINGS WE THINK

An expert penman has written 8000 words on a postal card, so we may expect the mail service to be crippled until the card passes through its last hands into those of the person to whom it is addressed.

A Chicagoan says that if we would take an hour's nap each noon we would add that much to our lives. What good would that do us if we are going to sleep it all away to start with?

All of us give more or less of our moral support to reforms until someone starts something that inconveniences us.

Appointments and disappointments go hand in hand.

The wholesale price of steel bars has dropped, so it is said, and the economical housewife will see that she gets the benefit when doing the family shopping.

No matter how much we may be opposed to woman's suffrage, there are worse things—for instance, the army of male voters who do not go to the polls.

We all believe in the single term—until we get into office.

It is no wonder that there seems to be so little interest in good roads when so many of us take so little interest in the way we are going.

Someone has suggested that we buy Mexico. We are willing to let those hunt trouble who wish to but we refuse to buy any for ourselves.

A man should never be considered qualified for the diplomatic service until he has been married several years.

The consumer doesn't agree with the producer about prices having been forced down.

Probably some men's clothes deserve as severe criticism as those of the women, but the women, being more charitable, say nothing.

Why don't they use rubber instead of silk thread in our paper money?

The get-together spirit is susceptible of misconception. It is possible to get together in a way that could not in any way be considered cooperation.

A woman who raises six daughters, all of whom learn to play the piano, has Job beat for patience.

A man never fully realizes what a crime it is to neglect to return borrowed money until he becomes the creditor instead of the debtor.

In a stock market deal the bright side is always the inside.

A good way to have credit is not to need to use it.

Some mothers wouldn't be satisfied if their babies didn't have the same diseases that other babies do.

It often happens that the first time you doubt a thing is when you hear a reputable liar tell about it.

When night after night, week after week and month after month, the wife who has been married a dozen years tries to be neat and attractive for hubby, when he comes home, you may put it down as a real love match.

When a woman meets the postman with a smile and doesn't get a letter, she thinks he is extremely unappreciative.

This hero worship makes us tired—mostly because we never expect to be a hero.

The easiest way to swindle a man is to tell him he is capable of certain great things when he knows it is a doggone lie.

The girl graduate who feels qualified to run the earth may a few years later find herself pretty busy keeping from being run too much by one man.

Heaven most likely is not the place a lot of folks say it is, but a lot of those who think they know what it is like will never be able to say "I told you so."

There are just as many witches now as there were in the old days, and just as many of us men fall under their spell, but we lead them to the altar instead of to the stake.

A government job has spoiled many a man for a useful citizen.

Somehow a girl doesn't understand why it is that when a man takes her to her first baseball game he tries to get off in a corner away from their acquaintances.

It is stated on good authority that twice as many crimes are committed by unmarried men as by married ones. Of course, when a man marries he has done his worst.

A clever woman who gets a mediocre husband has the sympathy of all the gossips. Why is it that they overlook the clever man who marries a silly woman? Perhaps it is because the latter is so common as to attract little notice.

Anyway, when a woman brags of making a fool of a man, it is acknowledgment that he wasn't one to start with.

The devil wouldn't be so hard to overpower if he didn't have so many people assisting him.

Sometimes we imagine that folks get peeved at the newspaper notoriety given their actions just to keep people from suspecting that they courted the notoriety.

Crying For Bread

New East Relief Workers Distributing Bread to Newly Arrived Armenian Refugees in Constantinople.

The Constantinople district of the Near East Relief is wonderfully organized. All the bakeries which formerly supplied the Turkish army, under German management, have been taken over by the Near East Relief, and 20,000 loaves of bread are baked and distributed daily. Placed side by side, these loaves would make a line 250 miles long, for the five months that the Near East Relief has operated its consolidated bakeries in Constantinople alone.

The Near East Relief, with offices in every state, is asking for funds to go on with this work.

WAITING FOR US TO SET THE TABLE

A table twenty-four miles long is plainly an extension table and that is just the length that would seat all of the orphans now being fed by the Near East Relief. This table is set in sections all over the hills of Asia Minor, Syria, Armenia and in Northern Persia. It is not in one piece. The Turks, who still keep the Armenians in a state of terror, do not allow it.

But there the table is, seated on both sides with orphans—Syrian and Assyrian, Greek and Armenian, Jew and Christian—all rescued from the fear of the Turk and under the care of American men and women.

Most of the children are cared for in 220 American supported orphanages. The first ceremony in receiving these starved, almost naked children, is to clean them up. They are not only emaciated, but dirty with sores and vermin—69 hospitals and over 6,000 beds are kept full of the little sufferers.

But the children keep changing. Last year they were all thin and pitiful; now it is the newcomers who are thin. The orphans who have been from six months to a year in American care are well fed and well clothed.

Best of all for a new Near East which surely must come out of all this distress, every child old enough is being taught a trade which will make him self supporting.

They are a thrifty lot, these little parentless exiles. From their scant store of bread they always carry a portion in a small bag about their necks—they fear the day of another killing, another drive into the desert.

They hoard the shoes sent from America until snow flies—they remember their barefoot pain in the snows last spring.

They cling to their new found friends. Every day other little waifs find a place in the orphanages and are told of the generous people of the United States. Soon the entrances will be crowded with children frozen out from their temporary summer quarters. Then the table of the Near East Relief must be extended—many, many new leaves will be needed, and America is asked to set the table.

Harem Victim Tells Story

Stolen from her home on the night before her wedding and imprisoned for five years in a Turkish harem, Aghavni Millian, a beautiful nineteen-year-old Armenian girl from Bilita, has at last been discovered by her lover and through the assistance of the Near East Relief forcibly taken from her master and brought to one of the American Rescue Homes in Constantinople. Here she will stay until arrangements can be made for her marriage and her return to her old home.

"My story—it is like hundreds of others," Aghavni said simply. "I was stolen from my home on the night that the massacres first began in Bilita. It was the night before I was to have been married. I was just folding my wedding veil away when the Turkish soldiers broke into the house. They carried me off. I— They took me up to Constantinople to the house of the man"— She stopped and put one hand over her eyes, a hand that bore the tell-tale tattoo of her Turkish master.

"But what does my story matter?" she exclaimed. "I am only one of so many. It is my people and their future that matters. Somehow we must rebuild our nation and show to the Turks who tried to beat out our life and to the whole world that, despite what we have suffered, Armenia is still unconquerable."

Aghavni Millian is, as she says, only one of many. It is estimated that one hundred thousand girls are still held captive in Turkish harems. The Near East Relief, America's official agent in Armenia, is making this work of rescue one of the most important features of its program, and it is to them and the support they receive from the American people that Aghavni's unfortunate sisters, still captive, must look for their release.

Armenian Refugees Line Up for Food.

As cold weather sets in refugees are pouring into Near East Relief centers. This group is fed daily in the former Russian barracks at Alexandropol, one of the safest cities in the Caucasus.
