

Snowdrift Is Economical

Snowdrift is very economical as a frying fat—especially in deep frying. It can be used over and over again by straining to remove crumbs of food. Snowdrift is superior in this respect to other fats because it does not absorb the odor or flavor of food cooked in it—not even fish or onions. Snowdrift is almost as good after being used a number of times as the first time.

SUSLAW ROAD SURVEY IS NOW ALMOST COMPLETED
A crew of ten men is at work on the survey of the new road to be built by the Southern Pacific company on the north bank of the Suslaw river between Mapleton and Cushman and the right of way is nearly all procured, according to W. S. Worden, right in way agent of the company.
As soon as the survey is completed the matter will be put up to G. W. Boschke, chief engineer of the company, said Mr. Worden, and it will be up to him to decide as to the beginning of construction.
The new road is designed to replace the road that was entirely destroyed when the railway company a number of years ago built by the Coos Bay branch.
