

APPLE ORCHARDS OF WEST BEAR HEAVIEST

Production, While Less in the East, Shows Gratifying Increase in West Coast States.

Apple orchards in the northwest bear heavier than those in any apple district in the United States, according to information received by the Oregon Growers' Cooperative association.

Two years ago, according to the governments report, Oregon, Washington and California grew one quarter of the apple crop of the United States, while the three states had only one eighth of the acreage of the country.

With statistics to show that the apple bearing acreage of the east has been reduced materially the past ten years, indications are that the Pacific coast states will grow possibly half the apple crop this year of the entire country.

Freezing weather last April seriously injured the apple crop east of the Rockies, while the Pacific coast states, especially Oregon and Washington, have prospects of a bumper crop. Production of apples in the United States has fallen off heavily during the past ten years. In 1909 it was 145,000,000 bushels, while ten years later it had fallen to 136,000,000 bushels. During the same period the number of apple trees in the country had fallen from 65,000,000 to 36,000,000, according to government figures, and there has also been a heavy decrease in planting of apple trees the past ten years.

However, on the Pacific coast since 1910, there has been an increase in the number of bearing trees but some decline in the average number of non-bearing, showing that the planting of apple trees has been slightly curtailed. The production, in bushels, for 1909 and 1919 were:

	1909	1919
Idaho	650,000	3,645,000
California	4,935,000	7,842,000
Oregon	1,331,000	6,921,000
Washington	2,472,000	21,568,000

In the number of bearing trees in the northwest the official figures comparing 1910 and 1920 are:

	1910	1920
Idaho	1,605,000	2,380,000
California	2,482,000	3,128,000
Oregon	2,029,000	3,315,000
Washington	3,009,000	7,969,000

It will be noted that Oregon is becoming a heavier apple producing state than California while Washington is the greatest apple state in the country.

With the radical decrease of apple acreage in the United States between 1909 and 1919 the average pounds for each person is growing less and less. Last year the average was 120 pounds for each person while the estimates for this year are 53 pounds. That is, there will be hardly half the apples in the United States this year that there were last year. The United States crop estimate is for 42 per cent of a crop.

On June 10 last year there was in sight a total crop for the United States of 240,442,000. This year it is 107,698,000 bushels.

As for peaches, last year there were 22 pounds for each person, while now prospects are for only 16 pounds for each.

There is also a shortage of pears with an estimate of 43 per cent of a crop.

crop. Last year there were 8 1/2 pounds for every person, while the prospects for this year are for only 4 1/2 pounds.

Tested Recipes

Sponge Cake and Custard-Spread—Pieces of stale sponge cake (sandwich-like) with a little jam or jelly; press them into a small mixing bowl until two-thirds full. Fill up with milk and when well absorbed into each other bake for about 20 minutes. Serve with custard made of a pint of milk, 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons sugar and 2 teaspoons vanilla.

Jugged Soup—Five or six potatoes, one-fourth cup cooked rice, one cup canned peas, half teaspoon salt, one turnip, one onion, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, one quart beef broth. Slice the potatoes very thin and lay in an earthenware jar; add peas, the thinly sliced turnip, the sliced onion, rice, salt and pepper. Pour the beef broth over all, cover, place jar in oven and cook three hours. You will find this very appetizing, nutritious and economical.

Rice Croquettes—To one cup of cold boiled rice add one-fourth cup sugar, one-fourth teaspoon grated nutmeg and one egg. Mix well together, then add one-fourth teaspoon baking powder and flour enough to hold in shape. Drop by tablespoons in hot fat or brown in frying pan.

Household Hints

To remove milk from white goods rub the spots with soap mixed with chalk. Allow it to stand for a while, then wash in the usual manner.

If a glass stopper is moistened with glycerine sticking will be prevented.

Fried tomatoes and baked potatoes are excellent for breakfast which need not be hurried.

Applying a piece of thin white skin from inside a freshly broken egg will stop a cut from bleeding.

When filling a hot water bottle use a funnel and you will not scald your fingers.

We are all made of mud, but it sticks to some longer than others.
