Food for Thought

The subject paramount in the minds of the consuming public today is "Price Reductions." We believe that as retailers it is our duty to keep the people informed as to the actual prices that prevail today on staple merchandise as compared to the prices of a year ago. It is a very obvious fact that people not accustomed to dealing in figures on a percentage basis will overlook the fact that a 50% reduction from the selling price of an article that had increased 100% would bring it down to the original selling price. For example: A pair of overalls that sold for $1.00 in 1914 had to increase 100% to be sold for $2.00, while a decrease of only 50% from the $2.00 would bring the price back to the original $1.00

It may be of interest also to know that the average increase of the manufacturers' prices from July, 1912, to May, 1920, was 172%, while the retail prices advanced only 105%—the manufacturers' prices soaring 67% higher than the retail figures. We publish for your consideration a table of comparative prices showing the peak prices of 1920 as compared to present quotations on staple dry goods, clothing and furnishings:

Article	August 1920	August 1921	Article	August 1920
Hope muslin		$.15	54-inch wool velour	6,50
Fruit of the Loom	.50	.19	36-inch sateens	.75
9-4 Piquot sheeting	1.50	.70	36-inch wool serge
81x90 Piquot sheets	3.00	1.85	36-inch silk messaline
42x36 pillow cases		.45	40-inch crepe de chine
Daisy outing		25	"Burson" cotton hose
Apron check gingham		.15	Ladies' silk hose
Red Seal ginghams		.25	Ladies' kid gloves
Percales		.20 .45	Ladies' black kid shoes
32-inch romper cloth		.25	Men's cotton union suits
18x36 huck towels		.20	Can't Bust 'Em overalls
Oil cloth		.45	Men's all-wool serge suit
36-inch cretonnes		.60	Packard dress shoes
48-inch broadcloth		3.75	Men's dress shirts

While the above list was taken at random from our stock and is not complete it reflects the trend of reductions that prevail throughout the store. From all the reliable information at hand, we reason that the "crest" of price reductions has past and that the people would be exercising sound judgment to buy their requirements.
