

Women Prevent Big Fire.

Due to the quick action of Mrs. E. P. Sheasley and her sister, Miss Ruby Yale, of McKenzie Bridge, a serious forest fire probably was averted a few mornings ago.

The fire started from the remains of a camp fire built by hunters from Portland and left to burn itself out almost on the McKenzie pass right-of-way. The fire worked its way through some sawdust placed in a hole in the road last spring and was rapidly approaching the sawmill of Swartz Bros., of Lost Creek ranch. The mill is on the edge of a good stand of timber and in a short while the fire perhaps would have assumed alarming proportions but for the timely intervention of the two women.

S. L. Taylor, forest ranger of McKenzie Bridge, being notified, immediately got to work on the case and took the offenders, L. P. W. Quimby and H. W. Pretzman before Judge Wells, who assessed them $10 and costs each.

Phil S. Bates Dies.

Phil S. Bates, publisher and publicity man, died in Good Samaritan hospital, Portland, Monday of a malady described as malignant diphtheria. He was 53 years of age and is survived by a widow and two sons. Mr. Bates had been connected with a number of Portland clubs and had taken an active part in the Rose festival and other community enterprises. Mr. Bates was known to practically every newspaper man in the state, once serving for a number of years as secretary of the state editorial association.

Another Man Killed for Deer.

Roseburg, Ore., Aug. 25.—Jess Scott, of Elkton, was killed at noon today when he was mistaken for a deer while on a hunting trip with H. R. Levison, an ex-policeman of Portland. They were about five miles from Elkton when the shooting occurred. Scott was in a brush thicket and Levison, thinking he was a deer, fired. The bullet struck Scott in the head.

A brother of Scott who was with Levison at the time declared to Sheriff Starmer that the killing was due to mistake.

Hay Crop Good.

Blue Mountain, Sept. 1.—(Special to The Sentinel)—The hay crop in this section was very good but the spring grain was very light. Finley Whipp and Bert Lancaster had an extra good crop of oats and vetch hay, some going over two tons to the acre. The potato and corn crop is very light but some gardens are looking quite good.

Lard is so high that you hardly ever hear of greased lightning any more.

Restaurant Name Selected.

Considerable interest was manifested in the contest conducted by Mrs. Wm. Harper for a name for her restaurant. The name "Bohemia" was picked by the judges from some 40 submitted and S. R. Brand, who submitted that name, received the $10 prize offered. The judges were George O. Knowles, J. S. Milne and Mrs. Carrie Hemenway. The judges were prepared for their job with a lunch served by the restaurant.

Highway Signs Put Up.

Additional road signs along the Pacific highway from Portland to the California line are being put up by the Oregon State Motor association.

Many complaints have been made by tourists that the Pacific highway has not been properly marked, particularly at points where road work is in progress and detours are necessary.

Window Display Too Strong.

The Helliwell, Bangs & Marksbury store seems to be going too strong on window displays, or making the window displays too strong, for part of such a display fell over a few days ago and a badly fractured section of plate glass was the result.

Tested Recipes

Cantaloupe Pie.

For one nine-inch pie, select one large or two small ripe cantaloupes, cut in halves, remove the seeds, scoop out pulp with a large spoon and put in the top of a double boiler with one cup of sugar. Mix two tablespoons of cornstarch with a little cold water and add it to the cantaloupe. When the mixture is thick, add the beaten yolks of two eggs, cook a little longer, add a pinch of salt and let cool. Have ready a baked pastry shell and when the cantaloupe is partly cool pour it into the shell top and add a meringue made from the whites of the eggs and a couple tablespoons of sugar. Brown the meringue and cool the pie before cutting. This is also good for a cake filling.

Caramel Custard.

Four cups scalded milk, 4 eggs, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1/2 cup sugar. Put sugar in omelet pan, stir constantly over hot part of range until melted to a syrup of light brown color. Add gradually to milk, being careful that milk does not bubble up and go over, as is likely on account of high temperature of sugar.

As soon as sugar is melted in milk, add mixture gradually to eggs slightly beaten; add salt and flavoring, then strain in buttered molds. Four into individual buttered molds and bake in a moderate oven in a pan of hot water until a silver knife will come out clean when put in the center. Chill and serve with caramel sauce.

Household Hints

To remove paint from clothing saturate the spot several times with equal parts of ammonia and turpentine and then wash in warm soap suds.

Put leftover dough in an earthenware bowl and cover it with butter milk; this will keep the dough fresh over night. The next morning it can be used the same as though newly mixed.

Salt added to potatoes when nearly done insures flakiness and prevents them from going to pieces.

The fat of a neck or loin of mutton makes a far lighter and much richer steamed pudding than suet.
