PHIL BATES.

It is not often that the passing of one outside the community is thought of for mention in the editorial columns of The Sentinel, but the passing of Phil S. Bates, resident of Portland, is such an occasion.

Phil was personally known to but few in Cottage Grove, yet many in Cottage Grove unknowingly came in contact with him and his works, for he was for years active in civic affairs in Portland and had complete charge of the rose festival in Portland during what many consider its most successful year, doing much in that year, and in other years, to make a permanent success of the great spring show which has brought pleasure, happiness and enjoyment to many thousands of this and other states.

As publisher of a farm magazine he gave pleasure to the many parties of young women who won subscription contests and were personally conducted upon tours of the country.

As secretary for many years of the Oregon State Editorial association his influence was great upon the organization which has the power to do much or little for the state. During these years the annual junkets of the members of the association were made more enjoyable by the fact that Phil was always hours ahead of the procession getting things in readiness for the more leisurely-moving scribes. He will not soon be forgot by the editors of the state.

Phil was bluff and frank and fretted at dilatory action but he was cordially sincere and of the stuff from which God's noblemen are fashioned. The state loses a most forceful and much loved citizen.

They say that radium gives off particles of itself and yet never grows any less. Women's minds must be pure radium.

FEDERAL ACTION WARRANTED.

The renewed trouble in the West Virginia coal fields seems, from this distance, to be the result of attempts of the mine owners to prevent the organization of their employees.

The situation in West Virginia is peculiar to that section. The mine owners are said to control the state. The employees probably are from those of lower intelligence, many of them foreigners, but they are not so ignorant but that they know whether or not they are getting a living wage under living conditions.

We do not know how the organization work may have been attempted. Too often it is attempted by paid propagandists of the national union who inflame the feelings of the employe against the employer. Such propagandists are particularly successful in dealing with those of the lower order of intelligence. Usually they only succeed in getting away with a roll of swag. We have seen this thing worked to a fare-you-well in another mining section.

But the right to organize is a right that cannot be denied the laborers of any class. They are becoming intelligent enough to understand that in situations such as those existing in great industrial centers like the West Virginia coal mines their conditions are greatly bettered by cooperation as exemplified in a labor union headed by sane and cautious officials and conducted with consideration for the rights of the employer as well as for the employe.

The employer unquestionably has the right to say that he has no right to attempt to prevent his labor from organizing themselves out of jobs if they wish. The West Virginia mine owners may control the state government, but they do not control the federal government and the fact that it has been found necessary to send federal troops to quell the disturbance in the coal fields puts the federal government in a position where it can take a hand in the settlement of the difficulties and dictate to employer and employe what they may and may not do.

Let us hope that President Harding, with the rare judgment he has so far displayed in all his actions, will settle this muddle in such a manner as to prevent its recurrence as an annual affair.

Organizers for the Non-partisan league are said to be having some difficulty in Washington and Oregon in collecting the $18 a head demanded from those who would be members of the organization owned and operated by Boss Townley, beside whom Tammany losses in their latest days were but tyros in the game. Farmers of Washington and Oregon have become so accustomed to doing their own thinking and in guiding their own actions that it is no wonder they do not take kindly to an organization where one man assumes to do their thinking for them and dictate their actions. The methods employed by Townley have been too widely exploited to be very popular with the hard-headed farmers of Oregon and Washington.

A San Francisco man refuses to desist in his suit for a woman's hand by the fact that the woman in question has had him put in jail, has shot at him, has thrown red pepper in his eyes, has hit him with a crow bar and has spit in his face. The cruel, heartless wretch who edits the Corvallis Gazette-Times, when he isn't running the editorial association or running for congress, instigates that the suitor is enjoying all the delights of married life without many of its responsibilities. If Editor Ingalls' better three-fourths hasn't done all these things to him it isn't because he hasn't deserved them.

If Editor Jenkins, of the Eugene Register, isn't careful his services are going to be commandeered for the exclusive purpose of exploiting Oregon's scenic attractions. He waxes volubly upon his return from a trip over the skyline trail and describes what he heard, saw and felt in a manner that makes it extremely difficult for anyone with the least taint of the wanderlust to stick to his desk during these glorious summer fall days.

A Salem, Ore., man has invented a machine which makes it possible to hear music in Salem that is being played in San Francisco. He hasn't half the chance to make up fortune as has the man who invents a machine to shut off the music from next door or in the flat below or above.

Editor Ingalls returns to Corvallis from a trip to Canada and some of the summer resorts and straightway opines that the short skirt is the most sensible trend in women's wear for many years. Guess Ingalls has been seeing things.

It has been suggested that the Canadian parliament be dissolved. At any rate, they have something up there to be dissolved in—Eugene Register.

Diogenes can now see the end of his age-old hunt. The St. Helens Mist has discovered a man and son who insist upon returning to the owner a sum of money found on public highway. Incidentally The Mist points a moral, which it is easy to do with such inspiration.

A newspaperman always speaks of an article written for a newspaper as a story—probably because that doesn't sound as harsh as to call it a lie.

An architect out of a job might keep the wolf from the door by turning his attention to designing woman's hats.

Many a man fills out as important a position in the home as a great big fly—and buzzes and fusses around in about the same manner.

Your Paint Dollar

—How Big in 5 Years?

THE best paint will be good five or more years hence, if properly applied. Cheap paint, on the average, starts cracking in twelve months.

Its what paint covers that you want to save—not merely a few cents per gallon in first cost.

Cheap paint does not spread as easily or as far as good paint. So when you figure labor and square yards covered, cheap paint on the house costs as much as good paint.

Cheap paint in practically every instance, is the most expensive you can buy.

Don't allow surfaces to rot. It costs less to paint them.

The paints specified by Fuller are the result of 72 years experience in the making of all kinds of paints, varnishes, etc., for western use.

We use the best materials, PURE PIONEER WHITE LEAD, pure linseed oil, zinc and color as others do, but we combine them with a 72 years' knowledge and long-time skill.

Our white-lead base is finely ground pure white. It must pass through a silk screen with 40,000 meshes to the square inch. We use special machines for mixing the materials in scientifically exact proportions.

So Fuller colors are exceptionally clear-toned and Fuller House Paints are noted for covering capacity, ease of spread and great durability.

If you want from five or more years' protection for your property investment, get Fuller's western paint for western weather conditions—a paint you know.

THE CHURCH THAT SERVES

The citizens of Cottage Grove, by their vote at the recent election, said that they desired to go into the electric light and power business. As we have said before, we believe this is an unwise thing for the city to do, but inasmuch as they have decided to do it, our plant is for sale at a less price than the city can build one adequate to give first-class service.

We heretofore have offered to sell it for just its physical value, and that offer is open to the city.

This value may be determined by three competent non-resident engineers, the city selecting one, the Cottage Grove Electric Company another and these two selecting a third, and whatever amount these three decide upon as the physical value of the plant, this amount will be accepted in full payment for the same and we will step down and out.
