The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE
XXXVII.—NEBRASKA

THE Indian name for the Platte river was Nebraska, meaning "shallow water," and from this came the name of the state. A nickname for the state is the Blackwater State.

Of the early Spanish explorations little is known, except that Coronado probably reached the great plain of this region in 1541. More than one hundred and twenty-five years later Father Marquette noted the Platte river on his trip up the Missouri. In the beginning of the Nineteenth century the Lewis and Clark expedition skirted the boundaries of the present state and in 1805, Manuel Lisa established the first known settlement which was a fur trading post at Bellevue. This was just after the Louisiana Purchase had brought Nebraska into United States territory.

Omaha was established as a post of the American Fur company in 1825 and Nebraska City the following year.

With the California gold rush in 1849 many pioneers passed through Nebraska and some stopped and settled there although there was a law forbidding settlements among the Indians. The real colonization boom, however, started with the passing of the Kansas-Nebraska act in 1854, which arranged that these two sections should become free or slave states at the dictate of their inhabitants. The Nebraska territory was then organized and reached from the fortieth to the forty-ninth parallel. In 1861, the region north of 43 was made into Dakota territory. The Idaho territory was also created, which reduced Nebraska to its present size of 77,520 square miles, except for a slight addition in the Northwest which was made in 1882.

In 1867 Nebraska was admitted as the 37th state over the president's veto. It has eight presidential electors. (© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

When Icicles Point Their Long Cold Fingers at You

COLD days are gala days for healthy youngsters underwared in Lackawanna Twins. Here is the perfection of protection against the clutching icy hands of winter. Here too is the comfort of precise fit and freedom of movement however vigorously the child may play. The downy fabric of Lackawanna Twins is craftily knitted out of uncommonly good yarns. It is sterilized and pre-shrunk in live steam—for cleanliness and unshrinkability in wash. A fitting fabric for such unusually good underthings.

Tested Recipes

Tomato Jelly.

Two tablespoons gelatin soaked in one-half cup cold water. Dissolve in two cups boiling tomato juice, strained and seasoned. Put in molds. Serve with French or any kind of dressing. This uses up remainder of can of tomatoes opened for lunch and can be eaten with safety by children.

Cheese Salad.

Every housewife uses cottage cheese, and this salad can be made by combining equal parts of it with ground walnuts, adding a little salt and cayenne, mixing in a little finely cut celery and a little chopped parsley, with sweet cream. Make into small balls, roll in ground walnuts, place upon lettuce leaves and add mayonnaise and cream on top.

An unmarried maiden of 35 years may say she is unhappy—while her married sister remains silent.

If those to whom good work is easy should try to improve as hard as some of those who never will be able to do a job well, there would be a lot of expert workmen.

A scientist who claims to know has declared that man laid eggs before he was an ape. Probably had to hatch up a few excuses for domestic use.

Speed is the craze these days. Speed the day when we won't care for so much of it.

For Thanksgiving

It comes but once a year. But it should mean much to us. For then we stop thinking of the myriad petty botherations, and add up the things we have to be genuinely thankful for. Think yours over. We have ours. Among the many things we are thankful for is the way our friends and patrons have stood by us through the changing seasons.
