FLOOD DAMAGE TO BRIDGES IN WESTERN LANE IS BIG

Eugene, Ore., Dec. 2.—Damage to county bridges in the western end of Lane county to the extent of from $6000 to $7000 was done by the recent high water, said J. W. McArthur, county bridge superintendent, who returned yesterday from a few days' trip of inspection in that section of the county.

The north fork of the Siuslaw was higher last week than it had been for 30 years, old settlers on the river told Mr. McArthur. In places he saw evidences of where the water covered the valley from hill to hill. Some bridges were washed down stream a considerable distance while others were only loosened from their fastenings.

The bridge at Minerva over the North fork, 80 feet long, was completely lost. It was carried down stream for about half a mile and broken up but it is believed that a considerable portion of the material can be saved.

The Smith bridge, 60 feet long, about a mile above Minerva, was taken out by the flood. The county court expected to replace this structure by the erection of a new one at a different location next year but it was hoped to use it until that time. Some means will have to be provided to cross the stream at that point.

At Portage a 90-foot trestle over a slough was washed away and it landed about half a mile below and broke up but much of the material can be recovered. Between Portage and Florence three small bridges were badly shaken up and need repairing.

From the Siuslaw country Superintendent McArthur went over into the Indian creek valley, where two medium sized bridges were washed away and a small bridge further up the valley the water washed a channel around the end of the structure. While coming out on the train he learned of minor damage to the bridge on the main Lake creek road at the mouth of Indian creek.

Mr. McArthur said the freshet damaged many of the roads in all parts of the county but he found the farmers were busy repairing them as well as the bridges.

Robert McMurphey Dies

Taken suddenly ill on his first day's journey by automobile to California, Robert McMurphey, for many years prominent in Eugene's business and civic life, died Wednesday afternoon at a hospital in Roseburg.

Highway Little Damaged

The Pacific highway in Lane county was damaged but little during the recent freshet, says J. R. McKy, county roadmaster. Some of the gravel shoulders by the side of the pavement were washed away in places but this can be replaced with little expense.

Mrs. Martha Rinehart Dies

Mrs. Martha Rinehart, former resident of this city and mother of W. N.

Rinehart, also a former resident, died Nov. 14 at Milwaukie, Ore., at the age of 88 years, 8 months, 26 days. Interment was at Condon, Ore.
