WILLOW TWIGIS CHRISTMAS CAN'T AFFORD $12 TO TREE SUPREME

Meagerness of Presents Does Not Interfere With Enjoyment of Holiday by Orphan Ones.

(By Margaret Reid, Portland.) was the day before Christmas, just a year ago, in a near East Relief orphanage in Syria. An epidemic of a throat disease was raging all through the orphanage. The city was cut off from communication with the outside world because of war, supplies in the orphanage were low and things looked blue for Christmas, Miss Mc-Intyre and I were feeling very sad because we could not give the children a better and happier time, and we re-marked that we wished we had a Christmas tree. Some of our older boys who knew some English heard us, and one of them eried out, "We can get you a Christmas tree." Now Syria is a thirsty and barren country. You can drive for hours at a time and carcely be able to find a single tree, we could not imagine where those boys could get a Christmas tree. How-ever, we said, "That's fine, go and get it." Off they went in the pouring min, and some two hours later we heard a great cheering downstairs and knew that the Christmas tree had ar-rived. We rushed down and in the ower hall were our hundreds of chilfren elapping, dancing, cheering around imphantly holding the Christmas tree above their heads. As we looked at t our hearts sank. It was only a branch of an old dead willow tree which they had probably gotten down around a muddy little canal that ran about a mile from the orphanage. I looked at Miss McIntyre and she looked "Shall we laugh or cry?" we said, then when we saw the happiness of those children, we decided to laugh. We escorted our pitiful little tree into the school room, put it in a tin can, fastened it down with rocks, nd then began to search for decor-tions. Some of the girls insisted hey had seen some Christmas bells in he attie of their school and we sent hem off to find them. Sure enough they came back with three or four faded, torn, dilapidated, but real Christmas bells, left there long before the war by the missionary who had been stationed in this city. For a are engaged in as producers means Christmas present for the children we had secured enough oranges so that child might have one. the children strung on thread and with the Christmas bells they made he only decorations on the tree. The Christmas program was all extempo-raneous, but such a wealth of material was found in the way of songs and recitations that we had to have two programs, one in the afternoon and what is Christmas without a big Christmas dinner? Even an orphanage in the desolate near East must have Christmas feast and so for breakfast every child had a wee cup of milk, for dinner a small handful of ferent person. The aches and pains raisins and for supper six dried figs left and my kidneys did not annoy in addition to the regular simple meals. in addition to the regular simple meals. It was the happiest Christmas I ever experienced.

MADE IN OREGON GOODS BOOSTED FOR CHRISTMAS

Buying of Home Products Means More Employment for Many.

State-wide interest is being created in the appeal to "Give Oregon-made Christmas gifts." Billboards and advertisements say to the Christmas shopper, "Why not an Oregon prod-uct?" And then to make the idea uet?" And then to make the idea practical and tell folks just what good things are made in Iregon, go on to list articles suitable for Christmas giv

It is pointed out that he who gives Oregon-made gifts is twice a Santa Claus—he brightens Christmas for the payroll workers' kiddies, too.

To reach the workers, the Associated Industries has distributed thousands of "suggestion lists" through pay en-velopes. Employes in the large indusries are not only the best cash cus tomers of the retailers in the gift-buy ing season, but they are most loyal to the home industry idea. They are among the first to recognize that the are engaged in as producers means regular full-time pay day and freedom from that haunting fear of being "laid off." An appeal to them to buy Oregon Quality products for Christmas giving naturally meets with strong re sponse. In recognition of this, many merchants throughout the state are featuring Oregon goods in their win-dows and in other ways.

HONEST LAD SETS EXAMPLE.

Worth Harvey, school clerk, recently received the following letter from the ounty juvenile officer:

Eugene, Ore., Thanksgiving Day 1921.—My dear Mr. Harvey: I have your favor conveying the pleasing intelligence that a pupil who found a $10 bill brought it to you to a $10 bill brought it to you to be returned to the rightful owner, in stead of pocketing it, as he could easily have done. This information easily have done. This information has touched me profoundly, because it shows that this boy is making well directed efforts toward getting the ight start in life.

Every net of my official life has been guided by my desire to be help-ful to the youth of Lane county and to assist them, by every means in my power, in getting the right start. Beginning at the very foot of the hill and working slowly toward the top seems a very discouraging process and precisely at this point thousands of boys and young men have made shipwreck of their lives by yield ing to temptation and taking some thing that did not belong to them, as this boy might have done, but happily

And so, day by day, week after week; month after month and yea after year, boys and girls should worl on, thus gaining strength and metry of character, nerve and knowledge, to the end that when success patiently and bravely worked for, shall come, it may find them prepared to receive it and keep it. The development which they will get in this brave honest and patient labor will prove it self in the end the most valuable their successes. It will give them power and self reliance to resist temp tation in its most alluring form. I will give them, not only self respect, but the respect of their associates and the public.
