February 28

Learn how to take an image from idea to stamp that can be used on multiple surfaces. Instructor: Deb Sether.

Block Printing

March 6

Use different colors and textures of cut and torn paper to create an image. Instructor: Eileen Hearne.

Image Transfer

March 13

Take a favorite image and transfer it to different types of paper to create a journal page. Instructor: Deb Sether.

Dynamic Books

March 20

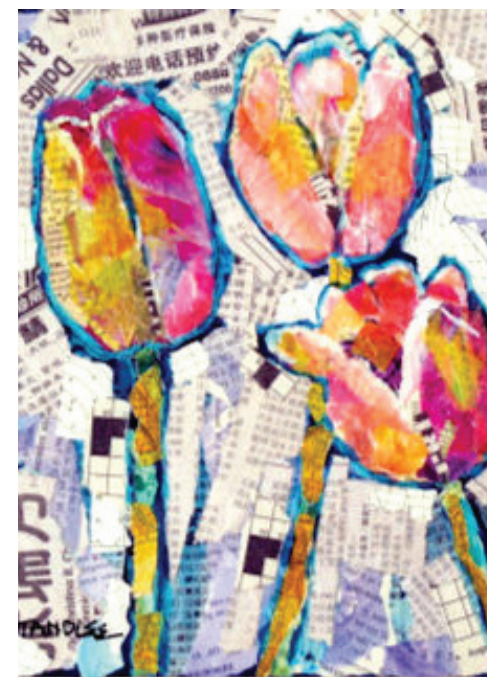

Make a book which is also a moving piece of art. Instructors: Janet Webster and Sara Siggelkow.

A strong weekly lineup

Registration is now open for the winter 2020 session of Art Fridays, the popular youth arts learning program based at the Newport Visual Arts Center.

Presented by Oregon Coast Council for the Arts, the session will run from February 7 to March 20 and focus on paper and book arts — covering techniques from book construction and binding to block printing, painting with paper and transferring images onto paper. The Art Fridays program is geared toward 5th to 8th graders from nine to 13 years of age.

Art Fridays classes are led by experienced instructors and practicing artists. Following the winter session, students will be invited to display their work during April and May at the Newport Visual Arts Center, coinciding with the 2020 Newport Paper & Book Arts Festival.

Registration fees for the Art Fridays seven-week series are $72, or $12 per class, with some scholarships available. All classes are limited to 15 students. Classes are held each Friday from 3:45 to 5:45 pm at the Newport Visual Arts Center.

For more information or to register, go to <https://coastarts.org> or contact Sara Siggelkow, OCCA's arts learning coordinator, at 541-574-3364 or ssiggelkow@coastarts.org.

Go solo, in Manzanita

A new storytelling performance group will make its coastal debut on Wednesday, Jan. 29, when Solo Speak arrives at Manzanita's Hoffman Center for the Arts.

Led by professional actress Shay Knorr, Solo Speak is a forum for the sharing of personal stories for grown-ups.

Knorr started the project in Bend in 2013 before moving Portland where she produced a monthly show called "Nevertheless We Persist — Stories by Women" from 2017 to 2018.

"Lives = Stories" will be Solo Speak's first show since moving to the beach last year. These are real life true stories of people's lives told without notes.

"The art of storytelling can bring groups together," Knorr said, "can bring understanding to people from different backgrounds and beliefs, can share pain and joy and let us know we are not alone."

Knorr has been a professional actress since age 10 and a producer, director, singer, playwright, improvisational performer and artist for more than 25 years. The past few years brought her to the solo performing of personal stories after she wrote, directed, produced and performed in her own one woman show "Why Can't I Marry the Cute Beagle" in 2008. She then performed with Portland Story Theater and fell in love with story telling. Solo Speak was created out of that love and produces professional story telling shows and offers workshops for the novice performer.

The Jan. 29 session will start at 7:30 pm at 594 Laneda Avenue.

Admission is $20 at the door or $17 online at <https://hoffmanarts.org>.

Knorr will also lead an introductory workshop on how to bring stories to life on the stage.
