The Newport Farmers Market is pleased to announce that our outdoor season will open on June 6, 2020 at our summer location across from city hall on the corner of Highway 101 and Angle Street. We will be open Saturdays from 9-1.

In order to protect our vendors and our customers, things will look a bit different this year, and we need everyone's cooperation to ensure we can continue to remain open for the full season.

To provide enough space for social distancing, we've had to cut the number of booths in half, so other than farms, all vendors will be rotating attendance. We encourage you to check with individual vendors to confirm what weeks they will be attending. We will have a list on our Facebook page of all summer vendors and will post any revisions or updates at www.facebook.com/newportfarmersmarket

Consider making a list and planning your route so you can get in, get what you're looking for, and get out quickly and safely. There will not be seating or visiting areas available this summer.

We are resilient. With your help, we can make this work. There are a lot of small businesses that are breathing a sigh of relief at being able to reopen, while trying to push the fears and worries to the back of their mind. Please help us meet the unusual challenges this year so that we may remain open.
