Faculty helps student teachers

Mrs. Susan Yarnell

Miss Julie Demers

Miss Pamela Kellas

James Daully

by Marilyn Leonard

Four student teachers are presently working under members of the faculty to complete their final requirements before graduating.

Mrs. Susan Yarnell is working with Mrs. Anna Tempest. Mrs. Yarnell is a graduate student at Portland State college and is majoring in French. Mrs. Yarnell earned her Bachelor of Arts degree at Pomona college.

Mr. and Mrs. Yarnell own a farm in Washington which keeps them busy most of the time, "we built our own house and have several standard farm animals (horses, cows)."

Show horses were her main interest a few years ago but now she rides for pleasure only.

Horses also interest Miss Julie Demers, a senior at Portland State college, who is working in the speech department with Mrs. Opal Hamilton. Miss Demers has found the students "very friendly and enjoyable."

Other interests include skiing and swimming.

"Grant is not at all what I expected. The students seem really responsible and have a mature attitude," stated Miss Pamela Kellas, student teacher for English teacher Edward Basaraba.

Miss Kellas enjoys bicycling and skiing ("That is 'til I had an accident!").

Oregon State university senior James Daully finds this to be a "good school." He is assisting Dennis Sullivan in physical education and health.

A fifth student teacher is expected on January 30. Mrs. Joan Pierce will teach Spanish under the supervision of John Seymour.

Science wing history begins in 1959

by Cecile O'Rourke

The need for new science facilities has been realized for many years. This need became especially great because teaching methods changed and more experimenting was done by the students than before.

Because of this increased experimentation, new materials, better equipment, and a larger working area became necessary.

The first improvements of the science facilities began in 1959 when room 225 was remodeled and the physics classroom moved from the basement to this newly modernized room.

At that time it was also planned to remodel the other science rooms, but school district funds ran short and the rooms couldn't be remodeled that year.

During the next few years the school district became larger so new schools had to be built and older schools needed renovation and remodeling, according to Dr. Harold Kleiner, former principal. The school district had to distribute its funds where they were most needed.

Finally, a levy passed in 1963 gave the school funds to do necessary remodeling in the science rooms. Previous to this there had been much discussion on how to remodel the science section.

Because of poor plumbing, lack of adequate space, and other disadvantages, it was decided that it would be better and probably cost no more to build an entire new wing instead of simply remodeling out-dated rooms.

Original plans by Dr. Kleiner and the science department were to make the wing two stories high. A corridor on the second floor was to connect the science wing to the main building. This plan proved to be too expensive.

A new plan was developed making the wing one story high with no connection to the main building. Work on the wing began in February of 1966 and was completed over Christmas vacation.

'Taming of the Shrew' players chosen by Shakespeare classes

Cast members for The Taming of the Shrew have been selected from Shakespeare classes and will present the play to students on February 16 and 17.

Seniors Patti Johnson and Pat Kroboth will play the lead roles of Kate and Petruchio. Mike Jordan will impersonate Lucentio and Teri Tinker will play Bianca.

Baptista will be portrayed by Sandy Frazier, Paul Pferdner will play Gremio and the role of Hortensio will be acted out by Bill Bercu.

Other major members of the cast include Gene A. Miller; Tranio; John Manson, Grumio; Gene R. Miller, Biondello; Colleen Flood, Curtis; Steve Burdette, Vincentio; Colleen Harnett, a widow; and Larry Ledford, the tailor.

Jane Shaw will impersonate Peter, a servant. Other servants include Cathy Burkett as Nathaniel, Gail Vines as Sugarsoy and Dave Mathis as Joseph.

Nicholas will be played by Bruce Fraser and Philip will be played by Marilyn Masters.

The role of Haberdasher will be performed by John Melonas and Colette Colby will portray a servant in Baptista's house. Completing the cast is Rena Smith who will be Walter.

On the evenings of February 16 and 18, The Taming of the Shrew will be open to the public. Admission will be 50 cents for students and 75 cents for adults.

Field service seeks friendly family for future foreign exchange student

The school's Chapter of the American Field service is looking for qualified families to host an exchange student next year.

Applying families should be those with the father, mother and children living together and preferably the mother should not be working. At least one of the children should be approximately equal in age to the exchange student and attend this school.

They should be cheerful, warm, fun-loving families with common areas of interest that they would be willing to share with the foreign student. Ability to adjust to and accept the changing moods of a youngster and willingness for a free exchange of ideas and experiences are also necessary qualifications.

Common sense, friendliness, courtesy and a respect for others are desirable traits.

Interested students or families should contact Miss Mildred Eikeland in room 35. After applying, the family will be interviewed by the AFS at a later date.

General council gives 1st semi-formal dance

"Starlight Rhapsody," a winter semi-formal dance being sponsored by the General Council, will be held January 21 from 8-11 p.m. in the old gym.

Ross Marsh and the Starlighters will provide the music.

Bids will cost $2 per couple.

Faculty art exhibit set up for display

"The people who work there seemed to be very enthusiastic and appreciative about the art work," stated Miss Katherine about a faculty art exhibit on display in the administration building.

At the request of Mrs. Evelyn Arnold, supervisor of art for Portland Public schools, the art department faculty has arranged their personal art work including metal sculptures, lithographs and oil paintings for public viewing during the month of January.
