

Gendrills to dance animal scene in 'Camelot's' enchanted forest

Morgan Le Fey's enchanted forest is the scene in which the Gendrills will be dancing to introduce the weird and magical animal characters in Morgan Le Fey's court.

"This scene's main purpose is to provide a preparation for the entrance of Morgan Le Fey," stated Miss Diane Bigbee, "Camelot" choreographer. "The Gendrills will be portraying deer, frogs, crabs and other different animals as well as human courtiers."

Forming a circle, the animal dancers will be performing a somewhat ritual dance waiting for the appearance of Morgan Le Fey. The Gendrills are animals of the forest when dancing, but they disappear and become part of the forest when standing still.

Gendrills dancing in "Camelot" are: Carol Tharp, Kerry Harnnett, Mary Birkeland, Chris Curry, Leslie Berg, Margaret Fraser, Sharon Sigourney, Roberta Taylor, Manon Whitcher, and Kathi Ortmyer.

Also dancing are ex-Gendrills Judi Donald, Laurie McGill, Melanie Hewitt and JoAnn Suor.

Beautification due science wing plot

A number of rhododendrons and other types of bushes will be installed this spring in the many grass and dirt areas surrounding the new science wing.

The planting will be carried out by the school district gardening crew. They will also take care of the lawn damage, from the science wing to the street, left by the trucks. "The tire ruts are to be leveled down, raked and smoothed out," announced Principal Roy O. Malo.

Part of the damaged section has already been leveled out. This is the area around the fence that is used during the baseball season. By the start of next year, everything should be cleaned up and organized to give the science wing a neat appearance.

Choral students help production in musical staging of 'Camelot'

Participating in the chorus for the production of "Camelot" will be approximately 40 members of the choral department.

Students involved in the chorus will appear on stage, back stage and in the auditorium throughout the play.

Others involved are Bruce Worth, Connee Montgomery; Ralph McLaughlin, Mary Jane Hulett; Don Leo, Mary Parker; Paul Tinker, Lynn Geschwind; Steve Swope, Cindy Lowery; Craig Miller, Linda Smock and Mary Magnuson.

Those participating in the play as knights are Don Leo, Rick Francis, Craig Miller, Ralph McLaughlin, Bob Le Marte and Tom Fenton who will also do a solo.

Many times throughout the play the chorus merely fills in the stage background and supports the soloists in their songs; however, several of the songs that they sing tell the story and the plot of the play.

Students take part in Japanese salute through art exhibits, radio broadcasts

Radio appearances by students and faculty and a library exhibit mark our participation in the city-wide "Salute to Japan" week, according to Mrs. Doris Hanlon, language instructor.

"Sapporo — Sister City's Kita High School" was discussed by John Stuckey, activities director; Kim Patterson, student body vice-president, and Larry Rex, sophomore class president on KBPS radio.

Members of the Japanese class Bonny Mower and Dale Small gave dialogues on Hi News-Music, Tuesday.

The exhibit in the library for "Salute to Japan" week includes Japanese prints, maps of Japan, a theatre program, and a fan, 37 pieces in all. "Mrs. Ruth Strong donated the Japanese prints to the school last year,"

Oregon college to invite youth

Oregon College of Education will host its youth conference on teaching for high school juniors and seniors on the campus in Monmouth, July 9-14.

The five-day conference is designed to acquaint high school students, who have indicated an interest in a teaching career, with the opportunities and programs offered at OCE.

Students will have the opportunity to experience campus living while observing actual classroom teaching situations and the latest educational and teaching research techniques.

The students will meet with college staff personnel on an informal basis and attend many informational and recreational sessions.

YCOT features include field trips, faculty "firesides," classroom observation via closed circuit television, visits to the OCE educational media center and the Teaching Research center and leadership sessions.

A number of recreational activities have been planned, including a banquet, a luncheon, social hours, swimming and a picnic.

Interested juniors and seniors may contact the counselors for additional information.

said librarian Miss Dorothy Johnson.

Miss Wilma Crabtree is exhibiting the fan, maps, and a print she obtained on a trip to Japan two summers ago. The exhibit includes an explanation of Roman art, an ancient form incorporating a rope design on clay figurines.

Cash prizes offered to essay contestants

"The Value of Driver's Education" is the topic of the Northwest Natural Gas essay contest. Prizes of $100, $75 and $25 will be awarded first, second and third place winners.

Any high school student may enter, but essays are due and should be handed in to his English teacher before May 10.

Source for the essay's research is the Portland Traffic Safety commission, but the student may use other sources.
