

Seniors receive scholarships, honors, awards from colleges

Congratulations to the students who because of financial need scholarship grades, talents, or a combination of all three, have received recognition by way of scholarship or Honors at Entrance from colleges and/or organizations.

Prized scholarships which the faculty award to the outstanding senior boy and senior girl are not listed here, but will be announced the night of Commencement. These are the Fletcher and McGaw Memorial Scholarships.

The Fletcher Memorial Award is given in honor of William T. Fletcher, first principal of Grant high school, and has been awarded every year since 1932.

The McGaw Memorial Award is given by the Girls' league in honor of Miss Elizabeth McGaw, dean of women and vice-principal from 1927-1947. It has been awarded every year since 1948. The value of each of these scholarships is $150.

Only those awards received and accepted by the student at the time the Grantonian went to press are printed here. Those received and accepted after that deadline will be announced at Commencement if students will notify Mrs. Elva Newcomer of them before that date.

Students care about schools

by Jan Kelley

Despite the litter in the halls and on the campus, and the somewhat jostled community relations, students at Grant care about what is going on. We care about the school in general, about our academic achievements and our athletic standings.

We care about the coming school levy, rejection of which could ruin many of the things we take a great pride in, such as evening use of the building for athletic and civic events. Passage of the levy would provide funds for vocational education programs at Grant, Washington, Roosevelt, and Jefferson, and restore a full kindergarten program.

At present such things as a depletion of teaching supplies, and books and maintenance work on the building do not show tremendously. But give the books an added year to wear out, leave the teacher with a very limited supply of teaching materials and watch the paint on the walls and tiles on the ceilings fall apart.

Read in the daily paper about the injured child who could not be treated by a medical authority because the budget cut out the use of a school nurse. Or how about the student with no real family life who decides to drop out? That child could be saved with proper help from a social worker. If the levy fails, there will be no social worker.

To get the reactions of the voting public, several Grant area residents were questioned about their feelings on the levy. Particularly questioned were those families living within a few blocks of the school building where the "worst side" of Grant is displayed by the small percentage of students who think it something great to display their ability in the areas of cigarette smoking and obscene language.

Responses from these neighborhood families differed greatly. Those not in support of the levy stated that too much money was involved (actually, the net cost of the tax base proposal is estimated at $2.37 per $1,000 on the true cash value, or $23.70 on a $10,000 home, or approximately $1.98 a month). Another reply was, "A lot of the activities supported by the extra funds will only affect a small percentage of the students."

First of all, the funds that are needed are not for "extras," they affect very necessary items and people that a school cannot do without. Students involved in outside activities number very many. Over 300 students worked to make our Spring Show a success two weeks ago. This was in the music and art departments only.

Add to that the "extras" like athletics (football, wrestling, basketball, tennis, golf, track and baseball), drama and Shakespeare productions, the dance teams of the Gendrills and Generalities, and journalism which all take a lot of hard work, effort and time after school, and it may be found that a majority of students participate in some kind of outside activity, not just a few.

Those people answering yes, they do support the levy gave these reasons: "Schools are important," "If the levy doesn't pass, my little girl won't get to attend kindergarten next fall," and "People must realize that times are changing, and all costs are rising."

WORKING AS A PART of the student campaign for the levy, Margaret Peterson is placing bumper stickers on cars. The campaign also includes the sale of buttons.

Baccalaureate, commencement, prom complete senior activities

Baccalaureate, to be held at 8:00 tonight in the auditorium, the senior prom, to be held at 8:00 Saturday in the Masonic Temple Sunken Ballroom, and Commencement exercises, to be held Monday at 8:00 in the Coliseum, will conclude the seniors' year-end activities.

The program for Baccalaureate will include: an invocation by Rabbi Joshua Stampfer of the Congregation Neveh Shalom, a scripture by Reverend O. B. Williams of the Vancouver Avenue First Baptist church, a sermon by Reverend Mell Stead of the Immaculate Heart Catholic church, and a benediction by Reverend John C. Randlett of the First Congregational church.

According to Miss Celia Frazier, social studies teacher, Mahlon Read, art teacher, will be the soloist and Gerald Merryman, English and Shakespeare teacher, will be the organist. There will be no choir.

The Parent-Teacher association is holding a reception for seniors and their parents in the library after the Baccalaureate service.

Preparations are being made for the annual senior prom, with a theme of "Moonlight and Roses." One highlight of the evening will be the presentation of the Rose Festival court and their escorts, who, according to Scott Casey, senior class president, will probably begin one dance.

Music for the senior prom will be provided by Gene Rene and his orchestra.

Commencement speakers will be John Luik and Bob Heldfond, who will talk on the topic of "Lifetime Objectives," according to Mrs. Opal Hamilton, speech teacher.

Newspaper staff prints 'Grantonian' levy issue to better inform public

As a community service to better inform the voters of the drastic need to pass the levy, the journalism department is publishing this special issue of The Grantonian.

According to Advisor Willard Mohn, 2,500 extra copies of the paper have been printed and will be circulated in the Grant High School area by beginning journalism students tomorrow morning first-third periods. Additional students, newly elected rally and executive council members have also volunteered their services.

According to Mr. Mohn, publishing costs of the special eight-page edition are being met by advertising revenue income obtained by staff members.
