

G-Men trounce Tech-Men

Cagers await Madison test

by Martha Ojard

"See that basket? See that rim? Come on Generals, put it in!" Apparently the Generals did see the basket and rim, for by pouring in 71 points the varsity cagers trounced the Benson Engineers 71-48 in their game last Friday.

The G-Men, led by Artie Wilson, took the lead early in the first quarter. The Engineers attempted to catch the Generals but to no avail. Wilson led the Generals by sinking almost one-fourth of the total score — he gained 16 points. Bill Flowers was second on the Generals' scoring list with a total of 13.

When the half-time buzzer rang, the G-Men led the Engineers by nine points with a score of 32-23. During half time, spectators witnessed a faculty vs. pep band basketball game. The faculty scored six straight points and kept the pep band scoreless until the closing seconds, when they gained two points.

During the last half, the Tech-Men scored 15. At the same time, the Generals gained 39 points, almost tripling the score of the Tech-Men. The final score was Grant 71, Benson 48. Tonight the Generals defend their 13-1 record for the Green Division title as they prepare to meet the Madison Senators, who also hold a 13-1 record. This is the second time the Generals have met the Senators. In their first meeting the G-Men barely squeaked by the Senators in a double overtime.

Steve Kebbe of the Senators could prove to be the downfall of the "General's delegation" tonight. Last week he scored 24 points as the Senators defeated the Cardinals 77-49. Kebbe, as of last week, is the second highest scorer in the city.

It is certain that the Senators will look for revenge as they wrangle with the G-Men tonight.

ARTIE WILSON races for ball during game with Benson last Friday. Wilson was high scorer for the Generals in game which G-Men won 71-48.

Gymnasts garner victory by overcoming Jefferson

In a meet with Jefferson February 20, the girls' gymnastics team won their third meet. The boys' gymnastics team won their third out of five meets.

In the girls' balance beam competition, Debby Lawson took first place with Micky McCreery taking second. Laurie Smith captured first in the floor exercise division and Debby Chung took second.

On the uneven parallel bars, first place was taken by Kay Knickerson and second by Jefferson's Valery Vines. Laurie Smith also took first in vaulting, with a tie for second between Pam Bottler and Debby Novinger from Jefferson.

Under the boys' division, John Talbott was first on the horizontal bar with Dwayne Guisenger as second. John also took first in floor exercise and Jefferson's Randy Nolton was second.

Grady Radford from Jefferson captured first on the parallel bars with Ted Ferrioli second. On the still rings Ron Elasser was first and Bob Saltman was second. First place on the long horse vault was won by Charles Chase with Randy Nolton from Jefferson taking second. Ted Ferrioli also took first in the side horse and George Wright was second.

Gym classes bowl

Strike one! Strike two! Strike three! You're doing great if you're bowling with the advanced physical education leadership class. The class is now participating in a two-week bowling session at Timber Lanes during seventh period. The price for the two-week session is $4.00, which includes shoes and instruction. The class is co-educational.

According to Miss Carolyn Fitzwater, instructor of the girls' advanced class, having the class at Timber Lanes instills leadership and responsibility into the student "because it is up to the student to get over to the bowling lane himself."

The students are developing a high level of skill in bowling and other activities, including archery and golf. In the future the class may go ice skating.

The purpose of having such a range of activities is that many of the students in this advanced course are planning to teach physical education.
