

You're welcome! Signs such as this appeared throughout the school this week; the signs were from the Senior Class to various organizations within the school. Above the seniors thank Memoirs and Grantonian staffs.

'Birdie' participants win credit; 'too bad it's over

Gendrills, band ready to perform in Rose parades

"Too bad it's over," commented Ed Fitz, who played the character of Randolph in "Bye Bye Birdie" that appeared the 15th and 16th of May. Both nights the auditorium was nearly full.

THE LIGHTING effects run by John Mann and Gary Nusom of the stage crew added to the visual effects of the show. John commented that "Mrs. Foster was great to work with and I enjoyed doing the whole thing."

The chorus, directed by Mrs. Janet Howland, had been rehearsing since the end of March. Sherri Clausterman, who played Mae Peterson said, "Everyone in the cast was so encouraging to everyone else," that it was hard for the play to be boring.

CREDIT SHOULD be given everyone who participated in the show: Diane Bigbee, who directed all of the dancing in the show, Mrs. Howland and the chorus, Mr. Robert Hacking and the Band, Mr. Lloyd Carothers and the stage and sound crews, Mr. Mahlon Read and the art department, and most of all Mrs. Foster, the director, Mr. George Galati and the entire Dad's Club.

The Dad's Club has requested that parents either return the tickets or pay for them. If you have tickets—either send them to the Dad's Club care of Grant High; or send the money for the tickets.

A combination of dancers and music will be presented in June as the Gendrills and band perform in the Junior and Grand Floral Rose Parades.

In the Junior Rose Parade scheduled for June 12, the band, conducted by Mr. Robert Hacking, will be playing four selections as they follow the parade route to the disbanding area in U.S. Grant Park.

The Gendrills, directed by Diane Bigbee, of yet have not practiced with the band but practice every day starting at 7:30 with a tape of the music the band will be playing.

Computer program 'up in air'

"It is still up in the air," stated Mr. Robert Fair about the computer program for teachers which is being planned for next year. The course will be a simple one in computer programming open to all teachers in school. "We need 15 teachers and only 12 have signed up," according to Mr. Fair.

The course, if approved by School District No. 1, will be held once a week for several hours after school. The teachers taking it will receive inservice credit. They will get basically the same training as the students who are taking the computer course now.

The program is not only for math teachers; any teacher can take it.

The course is planned to give teachers an understanding of computers, so they will know how to use them and the math involved. It might be difficult for a Social Studies teacher to solve a problem in his field, but a problem in statistics might come up and this could be solved. Math and Science teachers will be solving problems they have.

"Everyone should have an understanding of how computers work," stated Mr. Fair. "We are not trying to make programmers out of the teachers, we are just trying to give them a basic understanding of the computers and how they work," he ended.

According to Mr. Fair, the computer becomes a block to most teachers who go to make out the report cards. Hopefully when they take the course, this and other things that have to do with computers will be made easier.
