

College hosts high school drafting competition

The College will be sponsoring a drafting skills contest for drafting students from various high schools in Clackamas County this month.

Up to four students from each high school will be competing in the contest, said Dave Madsen, department chairperson of drafting technology.

"These students represent the best drafting students from their respective high schools and will be participating in three drafting categories," Madsen said.

The first category is designed for the freshmen and sophomore grade levels and will cover drafting fundamentals. "The students will demonstrate the use of basic drafting techniques in this category," Madsen said.

The second category, mechanical drafting, will consist of the basic usage of drafting equipment and drafting skills, he said.

"This category will involve all grade levels," he said.

The third category is architectural drafting and will deal with the designing of residential house plans, Madsen said. This category is also for all grade levels up to seniors, he said.

Madsen said the contest was developed by the College staff and himself and is being sponsored by the College, Clackamas County high schools, and the Clackamas County Intermediate Educational District (IED).

"We have not yet decided as to what prizes will be awarded, but we will try to present either trophies or medals to the first three finishers in each contest," Madsen said.

The contest will be held in the College's drafting rooms, Madsen said, and entries should be submitted to Dan Rickel, Estacada High School, P.O. Box 518, Estacada, 97023.

Madsen indicated that March 3 is the deadline for all participating high school drafting students to submit their entries. The contest will take place Friday, March 31.

Rickel can be contacted by telephone at 630-6871, Madsen said.

Financial aid

All students with National Direct Student Loans must attend the exit interviews to be held March 8, 9, and 10, according to Ron Hoodye, Financial Aids Specialist.

Students should check with Financial Aids office for time and place.

Gardeners wanted

Dedicated persons wanting to plant gardens this year who have space or money difficulties are urged to contact the Molalla Service Center in Molalla, for help.

"We have a community garden and need at least ten people to sign up for the free plot," Phyllis Young, garden organizer, said.

"We supply the ground, seed and water," she said. "All we need is people to come in and work to keep it up. We will have a common interest in what we grow."

If enough people help, once the planting is finished, which will begin within the next two weeks, garden sharers will only have to work about three hours per week to keep it up, Young said.

For more information contact Young at 829-5561.

Budding photographers will have a chance to learn the basics of news photography spring term.

Randy Wood, staff photographer of The Oregonian, will be teaching J 134 Photojournalism at noon on Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

Should you let your friends see you talking to a Navy recruiter?

Most guys are a little embarrassed when it comes to talking about their future with a recruiter.

But there are a lot of good reasons to be interested in the Navy. Because it's a good job. Because you can learn skills that will get your career started when you get out. Because you can go to college at the Navy's expense during your off-duty hours. Or you can travel. And while it may not seem like much now, you'll qualify for special low veterans home loan rates.

Here's our problem. We can't tell you the whole Navy story in this little ad. If you're interested, but don't want your friends to see you talking to a recruiter, we understand. Just call us at the number below. (You've probably got a lot of friends who are secretly doing the same thing.)

For your secret talk with the Navy...

Call your Navy Representative at 659-4007 for more information. 13750 S.E. McLoughlin Milwaukie, Oregon 97222 (and call us collect!)

Navy. It's not just a job. It's an adventure.
