Wastewater

A student in the College's wastewater technology program placed first in a City of Portland civil service exam for a position of Operator I for the city.

John Eledelen, a second-year student in the program, received a score of 98.5 percent on the placement exam, according to Jim Barkman, department chairman of water quality.

Third and fourth places in the exam were taken by Jim Jorgensen and Paul Proctor, both graduates of the College program.

Red Cross

Oregon-licensed registered nurses seeking volunteer opportunities that count toward relicensure, can now participate with the Oregon Trail Chapter of the American Red Cross Nursing and Health program. Through the program, nurses are being offered Preparation for Parenthood Instructor classes that are CEARP (Continuing Education Approval and Recognition Program) approved for 24 recognition points.

The first course is offered April 3 through 6 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Chapter House at 4200 SW Corbett. The volunteer coordinator for the course is Judy Ingram, RN, Public Health Consultant at the State Health Department. To sign up, or for further information, call the Red Cross at 243-5273.

Volunteer registered and licenses practical nurses voluntarily instructing community classes can count those hours towards the required 48 days every two years required by the State of Oregon for relicensure. Other Red Cross volunteer nursing opportunities include: Blood Program nursing, other community health education courses, vital signs and blood pressure screening, and disaster nursing. Hours are given in direct service count for relicensure.

Barrier check

The College's Handicapped Resource Center, the Association for Retarded Citizens and the Oregon Architectural Barriers Council is organizing a group of concerned citizens to go through Clackamas County to seek out architectural barriers which limit accessibility to public buildings for handicapped persons.

A workshop on April 13 at 2 p.m. in the Community Center room 117, will be held to instruct persons on what to look for in ways of architectural barriers. It is then planned that groups of two will be assigned a designated area in Clackamas County, with a check list, to seek out these barriers.

For more information contact Ron Kunkel at 656-2631, extension 348.

Women in law

A class entitled "Women in the Law" will be offered this term at the College 7 to 10 p.m. Mondays in trailer D.

The course, taught by Gay Cannady, will be of special interest to displaced homemakers and/or to women in general who want to learn about laws effecting their everyday life.

For more information contact Pat Reinert, secretarial science department chairperson, at 656-2631, extension 256.

Scholarship

A $150 tuition grant will be given to a second-year College student who will have completed all requirements of a degree or transfer program at the College by the end of spring term, according to Richard Thompson, financial aid officer.

The grant, sponsored by the Oregon City branch of the American Association of University Women (AAUW), will be given to a student who intends to continue his/her education at an accredited institution of higher learning (university, college, advanced art or music school).

The grant is partly based on scholarship, effort and attitude, potential in field of specialization, personal attributes and need.

Applications are available at the financial aid office in the Community Center. Deadline for applications are April 21, and the recipient will be notified by the first of May.

Crisis line

Persons at least 18-years-old, who want to help others to help themselves, may want to volunteer for Clackamas County Community Action's Crisis Line.

The Crisis Line, the county's only telephone referral and information service, is soliciting volunteers to assist in its operation. Contact James Phillips, director, at 655-8640, Community Action.

Holistic health

A seminar on holistic health will be held at the College on Saturday, April 15 from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. in the Community Center, room 117.

Holistic health is the preventive approach to health which integrates and fuses body, mind and spirit. The holistic viewpoint recognizes that each person heals and accepts responsibility for themselves and their own health. The seminar will focus on non-drug alternatives and demonstrate several techniques.

The seminar will be conducted by Vi Yager and Carolyn Taylor. Yager, University of Oregon Crisis Intervention, is also an instructor and consultant of geriatrics. Taylor is an instructor of psychiatric and geriatrics nursing at the College and also does consultant work with families and the elderly.

There is a $1 fee for the seminar and College credit may be earned. Pre-registration is requested. The seminar is sponsored by the College's Focus on Women Program. For more information, contact 656-2631, extension 232.

Patchwork

Two patchwork workshops will be offered in April through the College and Bilquist Community School.

A workshop on soft box patchwork will be held on Tuesday April 11, and another workshop on puff patchwork will take place Tuesday, April 18. Both workshops will be held at Clackamas Park Friends' Church, 8120 S.E. Thiessen, Milwaukie, from 9 to 11:30 a.m.

The workshop on soft box patchwork will deal with making decorator boxes from fabric. Bring lightweight cardboard, sewing items, bonded batting, 1/4 yard of solid fabric, and 3/4 yard of coordinating print.

The making of a puff piece of patchwork will be taught by using the biscuit technique. Participants should bring assorted solid and print fabrics.

There is a $1 fee for each workshop and pre-registration is requested. For more information call 656-2631, ext. 232, Community Services.

IRS warning

With less than two weeks remaining until the April 17 deadline for filing Federal income tax returns, the Internal Revenue Service cautions taxpayers to spend a few minutes after the forms are completed to double check their work.

According to the IRS, many taxpayers who postpone their tax work until the closing days of filing season submit tax returns containing mistakes which are apparently the result of hasty preparation.

Such mistakes, including math errors, missing entries and unallowable deductions, can often delay the processing of a return. For taxpayers expecting refunds, the delays caused by certain errors can set back receipt of the refund by several weeks.

Each year the IRS urges taxpayers to file early, but millions nevertheless wait until April to complete the annual task

Unpaid loans

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (CH) -- Rutgers University has reluctantly readmitted a student who avoided about $25,000 of loan obligations by declaring bankruptcy. The university had balked at accepting the student but a federal court had ordered it to do so.

The university contemplated an appeal but decided not to pursue the case when the Department of Health, Education and Welfare advised the institution that corrections of abuse of the student loan programs could be best handled administratively, rather than through the courts.

One Rutgers administrator also said "It would have been bad public relations to pursue the case," noting that the student involved is handicapped and a minority.

Crime survey

BOSTON, Mass.(CH) -- If all 39 students in the current Crime in America class at Boston College were to be punished to the full extent of the law for crimes they have committed they would spend an average of 15 years in prison and pay $10,335 in fines. This startling report was the result of a survey of class participants who admitted to numerous crimes from littering to buying and selling drugs, from shoplifting to stealing articles worth over $50. The survey was taken to illustrate the pervasiveness of undetected crime in American society and to demonstrate the inaccuracy of the FBI uniform crime report.

Shakespeare film

Director Franco Zeffirelli's version of the Shakespearean tragedy, "Romeo and Juliet" will be shown free at the College, Tuesday and Wednesday, April 11 and 12.

The Academy Award-winning movie will be shown at 2 p.m. on Tuesday, April 11, Wednesday, April 12 at 11 p.m. in the Community Center dining and 7 p.m. in Randall room 101.

Spring garden

Land preparation, plan and planting techniques will be offered during a pre-workshop on April 12 from 7:30 to 10 p.m. in the Community Center, room 117. The fee for this vegetable gardening workshop is $1.

The workshop is sponsored by Community Services and registration is requested. For more information, call 656-2631, extension 232.

Brown bagger

"Hedda", starring Glen Jackson will be shown Thursday, April 13, at 11:30 a.m. in room 117 at the College's Community Center, room 117.

"Norman Rockwell's World: An American Dream" will be shown on Thursday, April 13 at noon in the Community Center. These free movie discussion programs are sponsored by the College's Community Services office. For more information call 656-2631, ext. 232.

First aid

A First Aid class, directed for those needing to renew their Standard Red Cross Certification will be offered at the College Saturday, April 8, in Ball Hall, room 252.

The class will begin at 8 a.m. and continue through 5 p.m. Tuition cost is $12 and the instructional materials cost $5.

For more information contact the College Job Skill Improvement office, 656-2631, ext. 232.

Woodstock II

COXSACKIE, N.Y. (CH) -- The Woodstock generation might be gone after all. Rock promoter John Bykowsky says he is planning a Woodstock II to be held in September in a town near the site of the original Woodstock concert. Bykowsky hopes to attract 80,000 people to the four-hour Sept. 24 event and says he will pay the town of Coxsackie $500,000 for the permission to stage the concert.
