Scholarship

A second-year College student was recently named to receive a $150 scholarship awarded by the American Association of University Women (AAUW).

Emily Ann Hartley, an Oregon State University business administration junior next year, was chosen over seven other ap-

Guidelines for the selection were that the applicant must be a second year student who will complete all graduation requirements of this college by June and who intends to continue their education at an accredited institution of higher learning.

The selection was based on scholarship, effort and attitude and personal recommendations.

Speech tourney

A handicap speech tournament, recognizing handicapped high school students as well as promoting the College's name, will be Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the College.

There will be 22 participants representing areas of visually impaired, hearing impaired and orthopedically impaired persons from high schools located in the counties of Washington, Clackamas and Multnomah, according to Barbara St. Mary, tournament chairperson.

First place winners in each category will receive a full year tuition to either Clackamas, Mt. Hood, or Portland community college. Second place finishers will receive a one-quarter tuition and third place finishers will receive a trophy.

There is no registration fee for the national first tournament and a luncheon will be served.

"It will be an educational play day for the people involved," St. Mary said.

Change series

Biological and psychological changes experienced by women in their middle years of life will be the topic in a Focus on Women series program this Thursday. Cultural attitudes about women will be examined with discussion about opportunities and available resources. Survival skills and support groups will be the focus of small group participation.

The course will be taught by Betty McFarlane, a woman in her middle years who will be able to relate her personal experiences in this period of her life.

Cost is $1 and the program will be held in the College's Community Center building, room 117, from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. For more information, contact Bernice Evans, ext. 266, College counselor, or Pam Lewis, Community Service office, 656-2631, ext. 232.

Plant sale

Hanging baskets,house plants, bedding plants, landscape shrubs and trees will be on sale at the College's John Inskeep Environmental Learning Center Friday and Saturday, May 26 and 27, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

Grant info

Students are reminded that, again, this year Basic Educational Opportunity Grants cannot be used during Summer Quarter. Basic Grants are designed as an academic year program to be used between September and June each year. The College does its best to fund summer students through other types of aid but often cannot meet summer students full need.

Another peculiarity of the summer student aid program is that students will not be able to receive book, supply or living allowance funds until July 3, 15 days after the beginning of classes. This inconvenience is due to the fact that federal aid dollars are not available until after the beginning of the Fedderal Fiscal Year, which is Saturday, July 1.

"We feel that these problems are not unsurmountable if students are informed in time to plan ahead," said Dick Thompson, financial aid officer.

The Financial Aid Office is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

"We will be available during this time to nelp you with forms, answer questions and supply information," Thompson said.

Poor blood

Units of blood given to the Red Cross Bloodmobile last Wednesday at the College hit an all - time low, according to Bonnie Hartley, student health nurse.

A goal of 85 units had been set with only 43 collected.

"I think the Molalla hepatitis scare had much to do with the low turnout," Hartley said. "Poor publicity also had something to do with it."

"Most of the time we hit our goal," she said. "There was a time that we had as many as 113 persons present themselves."
