

Concert series

The first in a series of monthly Family Chamber Music concerts will feature the Symphony Brass Quintet on Wednesday, Oct. 4 in the Fireside Lounge.

The free concerts are being jointly sponsored by Associated Student Government, the College's Humanities department and the Musicians Union Local No. 99 and are being held in conjunction with the Humanities Experience Class being held at the College.

However, John Hooley, department chairperson for humanities, emphasized that other students, their families and the general public are more than welcome.

"We also intended it for families who would like to introduce their children to music," he said. "One reason I started this was because I wanted to expose my kids to good music and it's pretty expensive to take kids to the Northwest Chamber Music Society or other events like that."

The program will consist of short concerts with explanations of the music and some background information. They will be held on the first Wednesday of every month and will begin at 8 p.m. Admission is free.

Parenting classes

"Living with Your Baby" and "Living with Your Toddler" are topics of two College classes to be offered at seven different locations in the county this fall.

Designed for parents and their children and expectant parents, the classes are part of the college's home economics program.

Both classes will be offered in West Linn at the Lutheran Church. "Living with Your Toddler" will be taught Mondays from 9 to 11 a.m.

"Living with Your Baby" will be taught in the Milwaukie area at the Oak Grove Elementary School Mondays from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. and at Gladstone St. Stephens Church Thursdays from 9 to 11 a.m.

"Living with Your Baby" will also be taught at the Oregon City Community Center Wednesdays from 1 to 3 p.m.

"Living with Your Toddler", will be taught at Molalla High School Mondays from 9 to 11 a.m.

The same class will be taught at Canby Willamette Savings and Loan Thursdays from 9 to 11 a.m.

Most classes begin the week of Sept. 25.

Information about the classes is available from the College's home economics department.

Sales tips

A workshop on how to set up a successful garage sale will be held at Clackamas Community College, Tuesday, Oct. 3, at 7 p.m. in the College's Community Center, room 117.

CPR Seminar

Learn life-saving cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) technique at the College, Saturday, Oct. 7, at 8 a.m. in Randall Hall, room 101.

Coffee house

The 1978-79 Coffee House series at the College begins Friday, Oct. 6, at 8 p.m. with local musicians Dennis Doyle and Jim Britton performing folk/rock, including their own compositions, in the Community Center.

Doyle and Britton have been performing together since they met 10 years ago in San Francisco. Their album, "Chanticleer", is currently receiving air time in the Portland area.

The duo accompany themselves with acoustic guitar, Irish fiddle and bagpipe.

They have performed at college coffee houses and local clubs in the Portland area.

The Coffee Houses are free and families are encouraged to attend. Coffee, tea and bake goods are available at a small charge.

Pop class

"Popular Cultural History of the 20th Century" is the topic of a class to be offered at the College Tuesday nights beginning Sept. 26, in Barlow Hall, room 103.

The class will take a serious look at "our rich cultural heritage-the grand and gaudy, good and bad," said instructor Joe Uris.

Rock and roll, Little Orphan Annie, jazz, rhythm and blues, King Kong, the Andrews Sisters, superman, and many other subjects will be discussed in the three-credit course.

News Parade films, "Sullivan's Travels," "The Big Broadcast," and "The Great McGinty" are a few of the films to be viewed by students enrolling in the course.

Information about the class and registration is available from the College counseling office, 656-2631, extension 266.

Natural food

"Going Natural with Foods" will be the topic of a mini-course taught this fall by Deanna DeLong.

The mini-course will be offered three weeks on Tuesdays and Thursdays, in Barlow 252, from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

DeLong will lead discussions and demonstrate natural food preparation techniques.

Students may earn one credit by completing the mini-course which began this week.

College offers four operas

Opera enthusiasts can enjoy the closing night performances of four operas presented by the Portland Opera Association through a season-ticket package offered by the College's Community Services office.

The package includes tickets to Norma (Oct. 2), The Flying Dutchman (Nov. 21), The Daughter of the Regiment (March 6) and La Boheme (April 30) and transportation from the College for $30 per person.

Persons interested must act soon as the deadline is Friday, September 29. Please call the College Community Services, 656-2631, ext. 208, before September 28 to reserve a space. Payment must be made before September 29.

A minimum of 20 persons, with a maximum of 36, are needed to set up the package.

Free concert

The Portland Symphonic Brass Ensemble will present a free concert at the College Wednesday, Oct. 4, at 7:30 p.m.

The group will perform in the College's Fireside Lounge. The performance is part of Family Chamber Music series sponsored by the College and the Musicians Mutual Association.

Instrumental music for the program is provided by funds supplied by the Recording Companies of the U.S. and Canada through the Music Performance Trust Funds, a public service organization created under agreements with the American Federation of Musicians.

Parents are encouraged to bring their children.

Award given

Roby Robinson, college teacher aid and theatre technician, recieved a "Super Supervisors" award last week following his third summer teaching dramatic skills to teenagers.

As a supervisor for SPEDY (Summer Program for Economically Disadvantaged Youth), a CETA sponsored organization, Robinson's efforts were recognized as outstanding. After a two month consideration of their 350 supervisors, he was chosen one out of the 15 to receive the award from CETA.

It was a commendation, not only for his results as a teacher, but as a counselor for some of the troubled and confused teenagers.

The group spent part of the summer in workshops learning such things as mime, improvisation, set design, lighting and makeup. The remainder of the summer was spent performing shows around the county.

CCOSAC opposes Ballot Measure 6

The Board of Presidents of the Community Colleges of Oregon Student Associations and Commissions (CCOSAC) voted to oppose Ballot Measure No. 6 at an official meeting held at the College on Sept. 16.

Before reaching this decision, the board, made up of student government presidents from Oregon's community colleges, listened to a debate between Wendell Halseth and Doretha Pinch. Halseth is an active campaigner for the measure, Pinch is avidly anti Measure No. 6. Pinch and Halseth also conducted a 45 minute question and answer session.

Prior to the meeting, members of the board had evaluated published material for and against the measure and discussed the matter thoroughly amongst themselves.

They gave several reasons for opposing the measure. Among them the fact that there is no guarantee that the measure would not gradually shift the tax burden from big business to home owners, and that the measure offers short-term relief of property tax but also could mean serious long-term negative consequences. One of these negative consequences is that today's students would pay heavier taxes as they purchase homes in the future.

The presidents were also concerned about the impact the measure would have on schools in Oregon. Some of their fears are that passage of the measure would mean increased tuition rates, limited educational opportunities and seriously damaged school budgets.

This meeting was the second one of the summer for CCOSAC. The August meeting was hosted by Lane Community College and was held at Heceta House on the Oregon Coast on Aug. 26 and 27.

At that meeting it was decided to create a new position within the organization. JoAnne McCauley, Associated Student Government secretary at the College, was named CCOSAC Student Administrative Assistant.

Her duties will be to maintain the CCOSAC resource center, distribute letters and/or documents as directed by them.

McCauley remains in her position as ASG secretary here pending senate approval of her holding both positions.

located here at the College, and mailing information concerning CCOSAC activities to member schools.

McCauley will also serve as secretary to the Board of Presidents and prepare and
