

Student raise ahead

By Elena Vancil
Of The Print

Due to a rate of inflation, higher than was originally expected, financial aid awards, calculated for Fall term, were found to be deficient of student needs, according to Dick Thompson, financial aid officer.

A remedy for this situation is pending, as the College financial aid advisory committee has approved pay raises and increases in budget for work study students, effective Nov. 11.

Though these funds won't stretch to cover all forms of financial aid, such as the Basic Grant and State Need Grant, all financial aid recipients will be eligible to bid for the extra funds by joining the work study program.

"We calculate our budgets 14 months ahead of time, to allow for the processing of the financial aid forms," said Thompson. "With inflation roller-coasting up and down, it's a heck of a long shot. Our pay rates were just not competitive with off-campus jobs."

The Financial Aid Advisory Committee, which is made up of faculty members, administrators and students, has approved a 35 cent per hour raise, plus a $300 raise on the ceiling amount each student could earn. The ceiling amount for each student, is solely based on individual need.

"There will be confusion caused by this raise," Thompson said. "As this is something we did not anticipate at the beginning of the term. We are always ready to answer questions in the financial aid department."

Marv Thornley, college placement officer, is the chairman of the Financial Aid Advisory Committee. It is his function as placement officer, to determine the amounts that will go to each student.

"Outdoor and food service workers receive the highest rate of pay," he said. "Mainly because it is difficult to find willing workers in these areas."

"The highest pay scale, for work study students will increase from $3.15 per hour, to $3.50. The lower wages will then range down to $3.25 and $3.00," Thornley said.

briefs

CPR class

A cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR) training class will be held at the College, Monday, Nov. 13, at 7 p.m. in the college's Community Center, room 117.

The cost of the two-session course is $4, except for Gold Card holders who pay $2. The second session will be on Wednesday, Nov. 15, at the same time and place.

Persons planning to attend should pre-register by calling the College's Community Services office, 656-2631, ext. 208.

Meditation

Brief periods of meditation can reduce the general level of anxiety and tension in one's life.

Learning how to use meditation to cope with stress is the purpose of a class to be offered at the College, Nov. 18, from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The class will be taught by Robert Beatty in McLoughlin Hall, room 256.

A $6 registration fee will be charged.

Information about the class is available from the college's community education office, 656-2631, extension 230.

Priest speaks

Bishop Steiner, 41, will make a presentation on lay and church ministries, Thursday, Nov. 9, from 11-12 noon, in Randall 222.

A former pastor in Roy, Ore., he was ordained to the priesthood in 1962. The bishop was recently ordained to his present title in Dec, 1977.

Bishop Steiner presently is one of two auxiliary bishops of the Archdiocese of Portland, covering the western half of the state.

The bishops visit is being sponsored by Catholics on Campus. The public is welcome.

Film critic

Oregonian film critic Ted Mahar will lecture on World War II and the atomic bomb at the College's "Film and War in the 20th Century" course, Thursday, Nov. 16, at 7 p.m. in McLoughlin Hall Theater.

The class will show the films "On the Beach" and "Hiroshima-Nagasaki, August, 1945." The course is taught by College history instructor Fred DeWolfe.

Interest invited

The Print is interested in beginning a consumer affairs and advice column to run on a weekly basis. A staff reporter would review and research student questions on such topics as legal questions, academic affairs, who's who (whom to see about what), and so forth.

Students are invited to participate by submitting questions in areas of interest to their particular problems. Because of space, only three to five questions per issue could be answered.

Responses, and questions, can be brought to the Student Publications office in Trailer B, or call 656-2631, ext. 309 or 310.

Members of Dance Currents performed "Disco style" Monday in the mall. Photo by Kelly Laughlin

ECKANKAR A Way of Life Regional Seminar

at the Flamingo Motel
9727 N.E. Sandy Blvd.
November 11 and 12

For further information

CALL 228-3863

Buy, sell, rent or send a special message in the classifieds.

Cost is $1 for the first 15 words and 10 cents per word thereafter.

Bring your ad to the Student Publications Office, Trailer B. Deadline is Friday at 3 p.m. preceding each Wednesday publication. All ads must be paid in advance.

Name _____ Phone _____

Please print or type ad: _____

Ron's Upholstery Shoppe
Auto - Furniture - Custom Work
Quality with an Artistic touch
P.O. BOX 92
707 MAIN STREET, OREGON CITY, ORE. 97004
656-4002

"ALL KINDS OF BOOKS FOR ALL KINDS OF PEOPLE"

North Willamette Book Company

707 MAIN STREET, OREGON CITY, (503) 656-6626
HOURS: MON. TO THURS. 10-6, FRI. 10-9, SAT. 10-5

classifieds

for sale

'65 Mustang, 289, as is $200.00, needs repairs. 266-3604

'49 Ford PU, runs $300.00, good for hauling. 266-3604

personal

Mitch ... Happy Birthday! Brother

Have writing in your blood? If so, become a reporter for the Print and channel your talent for all those to see. Contact Suzy Boss or Cyndi Bacon, ext. 309 or 310.

Big Bo--
Come up and see me. I'm waiting. D.S.

Barry--
Sorry about last week-end.

Diane

Sharon ...
CONGRADULATIONS! Happiness is hard to find, cherish it. Mary

Clackamas Community College

