

"There are many ways to interpret dance movements," says Marica Tuma (pictured top right), who has been choreographing her own feelings into dance works at the College. The Dance Currents and College dance students convey a multitude of emotions to viewers through their frequent performances on campus and in the community. Photos by Kelly Laughlin

