

Thursday's Child has far to go

Monday's child is fair of face
Tuesday's child is full of grace
Wednesday's child is full of woe
Thursday's child has far to go
Friday's child is loving and giving
Saturday's child works hard for a living
But the child that's born on the Sabbath Day is good and kind in every way anonymous

otos by Kelly Laughlin

Oh, to be a child again. Innocent, free, honest and creative.

The children at the College's Child Development Center, located in the Orchard Complex, are a very industrious group. Not only do they gain knowledge in the basics like math, science, pre-writing and language, but they also gain valuable experience in music, drama and art activities.

Jason Bly (above, right) dabbles in water colors as he gets into easel painting. Jason's mother, Debbie, is a nursing student at the College. Courtney Renfro (above, left) creates her paintings with sponges dipped in watercolors. Courtney's mother, Jamle, is a student at the College and her father, Jerry, works for the Gladstone School District. Andy Oldford (lower left), daughter of College counselor Mary Oldford, also relies on the sponge and pallet knife for her artwork, but finds the camera more interesting at the moment.

Currently there are 40 children enrolled at the center with four instructors: Delores Irwin, Bev Kivitt, Robin Rank and Mary Mertz. There will be no summer program, but applications for next year are now being accepted.

Thursday, May 30, 1979

Page 9

