Night course

Have a severe case of insomnia? Like to weld? If so, the College offers the best solution, a moonlight welding class.

The class, conducted this term, is scheduled from 1:30 a.m. to 6 a.m., Tuesdays through Fridays.

Contact the College welding department at Ext. 413 and prepare to weld into the wee hours of the night.

Cycle class

Motorcycle safety courses will be offered this fall term at the College.

The course is open to those 14 and older wishing to improve riding skills or just learn how to ride a motorcycle. The safety course is sponsored by the Four Seasons Motorcycle Riding School.

The course is taught on two consecutive weekends with classroom and on-the-cycle instruction totaling 23 hours.

Helmets, gloves and motorcycles are provided.

For more information about registration and fees, contact either the Four Seasons Motorcycle Riding School at 658-3485 or the College Community Education Office, 656-2631, Ext. 230.

Kid kare

For parents attending the College, the going is made easier with two day care centers located on the campus, the Child Development Center, and the Child Drop-in Center.

The Child Development Center is staffed by four full-time teachers who assist the children in learning while their parents are learning. The children receive pre-school instruction in math, science, language arts, music, art and other subjects. The center is open from 7:45 a.m. to 5:10 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The center will care not only for the children of College students, but for community children, as well. The cost for a child, ages three to five years, is $6.50 for a full day and $3.50 for a half day.

The Child Drop-in Center cares for children ages six months to five years for a maximum of four hours a day. The center is open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday, and the hourly rate is 75 cents.

For more information contact the Child Development Center at 656-2631, Ext. 378, or Ext. 326 for the Drop-in Center.

Carcare Class

With the cost of maintaining a car going up and up, many want to enrich their knowledge of the automobile to save as much money as they can. Basic Automotive Orientation is a class to provide a person with such knowledge.

The class, offered Saturdays this term, will cover basics such as maintaining tire pressure, radiator coolant, wiper blades, engine oil, air cleaner, fan belts and other items.

For more information contact the automotive department at ext. 281 or 354.

Home selling

Interested in a career geared towards the selling of homes? If so, required courses are being offered for those seeking a real estate license in sales, or as a broker or for updating licenses.

The courses are: Real Estate Law I, Real Estate Finance I and Real Estate Practices. All are offered at the College this term.

The cost for each three-credit class is $42. For more information contact the College at 656-2631, Ext. 364.

Free truck

The automotive department has received a donation valued at nearly $10,000. No, it's not a check or cash, it's a truck donated by Chevrolet.

The truck, a 1979 one-ton Silverado pickup, is equipped with a 454 cubic inch V-8 engine and dual back tires. It was previously used on the Chevrolet Motor Division test grounds. Hank Rampelt, Portland zone manager for Chevrolet, Art Rollin, zone service manager, and George Warren, chairperson of the college's agricultural and industrial division, arranged the donation.

The truck will be used for test purposes in the automotive lab and will later be dismantled for use by automotive mechanics and body shop classes.

The donation of the truck coupled with the recent acquisition of current diagnostic equipment, such as 1015 Sun Dynamometer, will greatly enhance the college's automotive training program, according to automotive department chairperson Joe L. Ireland.
