Movie class teaches history first hand

Fred DeWolfe believes in the validity of film study courses as a method of bringing historical and sociological perspectives home to students who may or may not have ever cracked a history book.

His latest film-study course, offered through the humanities department, is entitled "Spies and Secret Agents: A Time and Place," and is co-taught by Richard Ramsberger.

DeWolfe sees film as a vital part of American culture, reflecting and examining reality and transmitting many truths about American society. He calls celluloid history an "indirect learning process."

"A lot of people don't know anything about history except for what they see in the movies," he says. "That's too damn bad!"

Movies have played an important part in the lives of millions of Americans in the last 10 years, says DeWolfe. They were, according to him, the single largest source of enter-linment during the Depression 47a. Later, they became a source of patriotic stimulus during World War II.

What do the movies say about us? The students in the DeWolfe/Ramsberger Wednesday class are presumably finding out.

"North by Northwest" and "Three Days of the Condor" are just two of the many popular films offered in

"Spies and Secret Agents: A Time and Place."

Taught by DeWolfe and Rampsberger, the film class explores the use of spies through the centuries. The humanities course is offered on Wednesdays from 1-4 p.m. in CC room 117, and from 6:30 - 9:30 p.m. in the theatre. Here is the tentative schedule:

—Jan. 23: "The Third Man."
One of the true classics of intrigue features Orson Welles in one of his most famous roles, Harry Lime, a ruthless operator in the post-war black market of strife-torn Vienna. "Our Man in Havanna." A delicious comedy-mystery spoof on cloak-and-dagger stories featuring Alec Guiness and Maureen O'Hara.

Maureen O'Hara.

—Jan. 30: "Ring of Treason" is about five dedicated communist who came together in England and became one of the Soviet Union's most productive spy rings. Based on a true story.

-Feb. 6: "The Counterfeit Traitor." William Holden stars as the Brooklyn-born Swede who is enlisted to furnish the Allies with vitally important information on the location of aviation fuel refineries in Ger-—Feb. 13: "North by Northwest." Suspense-intrigue classic. Famous scenes include Cary Grant being chased by crop-dusting plane and the climatic climb across the faces of Mt. Rushmore.

—Feb. 20: Based on a story by Charles Booth taken from cases in F.B.I. files. —Feb. 27: "The Eiger Sanction." A Clint Eastwood action spectacle featuring some of the most exciting mountain-climbing sequences ever filmed.

—March 5: "Three Days of the Condor." Robert Redford stars in a tense, intriguing thriller about the C.I.A.

The course is worth three credits and there is a $10 lab fee for film rental.
